House Ways And Means Repeals Excise On Cars

WASHINGTON AP--The House Ways and Means Committee has taken a long step beyond President Johnson's request and voted to repeal entirely the excise tax on passenger automobiles over the next four years.

The four major auto companies promptly announced they would pass any tax cuts on to buyers, which would mean an eventual price reduction on an average car of about $230. The present excise tax on cars is 10 per cent, and Johnson asked that it be cut to 5 per cent.

Tuesday's Ways and Means Committee action--if upheld by Congress -- would bring the eventual revenue reduction to nearly $5 billion, $900 million more than Johnson had recommended in a special message to Congress Monday. The cut in the first year would be about the $1.75 billion urged by the President.

Swift congressional approval of excise tax cuts seems assured.

The House probably will vote on the measure the week of May 31, if leaders carry out present plans.

In the Senate, Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said the Finance Committee hopes to take up the bill right after the House acts and will hear only one witness--Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler. Sen. Byrd said all potential witnesses favor the cuts.

The unusual speed is designed in large part to head off any slump in buying the many goods on which taxes would be eliminated July 1.

Following Johnson's recommendation, the House committee provided procedures by which people who bought autos or air conditioners before July 1 could get refunds.

In addition to these two items, a long list of goods, taxed for the most part at 10 per cent, would become tax free July 1 if the legislation is enacted by then.

They include jewelry, furs, toilet preparations, luggage and handbags.

Taxes at the manufacturer's level would be lifted from television, radio and phonographic sets, cameras, musical instruments, sporting goods except for fishing equipment, refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners, power lawnmowers and electric, gas and oil appliances.

Dexter Plans Industry Expansion; Street Paving

DEXTER--Plans for the construction of an annex to the Elder Manufacturing Company were presented by W. L. Arnold and other members of the Chamber of Commerce at the May 3 meeting of the Dexter City Council.

The plan presented by the C of C members included the financing through the issuance of general obligation bonds. An ordinance was approved covering the plans.

The council also endorsed the purchase of three radios for use by the Street Department, Water Department, and Mayor for quick contact service during work hours.

A committee composed of Gene Nichols, Lehman Godwin and Willis Conner was appointed to bring in a recommendation to the council concerning the disposal of the oldest fire truck.

Fire Chief Leslie McMunn recommended to the group that Larry Hall be appointed Assistant Fire Chief and the action was approved.

The Council voiced approval for the purchase of a new truck for the Water Department. Aldermen Godwin, Conner and Sherman Boone were appointed to a committee to arrange for bids for the truck.

An ordinance covering cooperation in the Housing Authority was approved along with the ordance covering fund disbursements for the month amounting to $29,418.15.

City Engineer C. R. Trotter opened and read the bids for the street improvement project with Garner and Fortner awarded the contract for the curb and guttering and Delta Asphalt the contract for the two inch paving. The bid from Garner and Fortner was $20,-174.55 and Delta Asphalt was $12,680.55.

Benton Says 'War In Viet Is Hell'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Artist Thomas Hart Benton says the situation in Viet Nam is "a hell of a stinking mess" but he still wants the American Academy of Arts and Letters to repudiate a speech by its president, Lewis Mumford, attacking U.S. policy in that area.

If the academy refuses to do that, the blunt-speaking Benton said he will resign from the 50-member honor society.

Benton returned to his home here Wednesday night from New York where Mumford stirred his anger with a speech opening the academy's annual festival of the arts. Declaring he was expressing his personal views and not speaking for the academy, Mumford called the U.S. commitment in the Southeast Asian country a "moral outrage."

Benton, seated on the stage with other members and artists, tried to interrupt Mumford but said later: "They pulled me down. I couldn't be heard."

On his arrival here he said in an interview that he was aroused not only by Mumford's remarks but by the applause they received from an audience of about 500.

"The situation in Viet Nam is a hell of a stinking mess but he (Mumford) doesn't know any more about it than I do," Benton said.

"All war is immoral but the U.S. is not responsible for war, neither is Lyndon Johnson."

Benton said he and Mumford had been friends for 40 years and that "a bunch of holy, talcum-covered geniuses—the intelligentsia — trapped" the academy president into making the speech. Continuation of his friendship, he added, would depend on whether the Mumford statements are repudiated.

In his speech Mumford said "those of us who are devoted to the pursuit of the arts and humane letters have a duty to oppose any assault upon the basic moralities that alone have preserved mankind's common heritage from the aggressive egotism and the presumptious national claims that so often undermine the prudence and common sense of those who exercise political authority. . .

"Obviously we have no more reason to have our will prevail in Viet Nam than Soviet Russia had to establish rocket bases in Cuba."

Members of the academy are chosen from the National Institute of Arts and Letters with its membership limited to 50. Benton was elected to the academy in May, 1963, and his citation was presented at that time by Mumford, an author and social commentator.

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Three men were found guilty and four were acquitted late Wednesday night in U.S. District Court on charges of using the mails to defraud.

All were associated with the now defunct Pac-Aid firm of Missouri, which postal inspectors charged swindled customers throughout the nation of $250,000.

Found guilty were Doyle E. Raftis, Chicago, on 19 counts; Vernon F. Hawkins, Webster Grove, 18 counts; and Curt Martin, also known as Robert Burns, Edwardsville, Ill., 19 counts.

Acquitted were Thomas M. Bugg, Overland, Mo.; Melville W. Ahlmeyer, Columbus, Ohio; Raymond P. Guzy, Kirkwood, and Hildreth M. Kniff, Newbury, Ohio.

Three Southeast Missouri Men Indicted By Grand Jury

MEMPHIS -- Federal Judge Marion S. Boyd has issued a warrant for the appearance of three Southeast Missouri men for arraignment Friday on a charge of extortion.

The three men indicted by a federal grand jury are Walter Richardson Jr., 48, of Portageville, president of Wil-Mar Advertising Co., of Sikeston, Mo.; William R. McIntosh, 45, 612 W. Murray Lane, Sikeston, the firm's general sales manager and Joe Dale Wilson, 23, a salesman for the firm.

The men are charged with extortion that supposedly took place April 23 for $5,000 of a Memphis, Tenn. man.

The three are accused of calling William Tanner, president of Pepper Sound Studios Inc. of Memphis, and demanding $5,000 to avoid bodily harm to his brother, Henry Faye Tanner, a former employee of the Wil-Mar Company.

All three subjects have been free on $100,000. bond since the day after they were arrested. The bond was posted for appearance before United States District Commissioner, Paul Mueller Jr. of Jackson.

Henry Tanner had worked for the Wil-Mar Company until about two months prior to the alledged extortion.

Up until yesterday morning, it was reported, Henry Tanner was staying at the Claridge Hotel in Memphis, but upon investigating done by a Standard Reporter his immediate whereabouts are unknown. However, it was reported that he claims residence at Brownsville, Tex. Upon trying to get verification to this, it was found that there was no listing of his presence in Brownsville.

Railway Hearing Ends

MEMPHIS AP -- The last of six Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on a proposal by the Frisco Railroad to discontinue the line's remaining passenger service was to end here today, setting the stage for an ICC decision on the matter before Aug. 19.

The hearing here Wednesday, as well as those that proceded it in Birmingham, St. Louis, Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Springfield, Mo., produced a stream of governmental officials, military personnel and just plain citizens opposed to the proposal. All the while, the railroad has claimed it is losing $3 million annually on the passenger operations.

D. W. Snyder, a Mississippi public service commissioner, testified Wednesday that many cities in northeast Mississippi are now enjoying an industrial boom. He added that this growth "would be seriously affected" by the removal of Frisco passenger service.

Speaking in behalf of the Defense Department, Maj. Robert W. Hopkins of Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., listed eight military installations which would also be adversely affected if the proposal is approved.

An attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People spoke against the discontinuance in the name of the Association of Railway Trainmen porters, which she also represents.

Miss Barbara Morris said that 60 porters, all Negroes, are now working on Frisco passenger trains, and called eight of them to testify that they are qualified to do the work of brakemen, a position now held

U. S. Planes Drop Leaflets In On Communist Aggressors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam Ap-- U. S. Air Force planes flew within 55 miles of Hanoi today and dropped half a million leaflets warning the Communists to halt aggression in South Viet Nam or "bear more disastrous consequences," a U. S. military spokesman said.

On the ground, the Viet Cong fired a short mortar barrage into a U. S. Marine patrol 15 miles southwest of Da Nang, killing one Marine and wounding two others. The Marines reported their return fire killed at least two guerrillas.

"If the Vietnamese Communists are stubborn in their aggression and sabotage in South Viet Nam, they will bear more disastrous consequences," the leaflets said.

"Our brothers in the army of North Viet Nam, don't let the Chinese and Vietnamese Communists use your bones and blood to wage a fratricidal war in South Viet Nam."

The spokesman said 25 F105 Thunderchiefs dropped the leaflets over Ninh Binh and then attacked a radar station on Hon Matt Island 135 miles southeast of Hanoi. The flight over Ninh Binh was the third time U. S. aircraft had penetrated above the 20th Parallel, the spokesman said.

The dual mission capped a day of almost continuous air strikes against the Communist North on the third day of renewed raids.

Earlier strikes were reported against the Phu Qui petroleum complex, 125 miles south of Hanoi, and against a convoy of 15 trucks. Phu Qui was also attacked when the raids were resumed Tuesday.

The spolesman said four U. S. Navy Skyhawks from the carrier Coral Sea destroyed four railroad cars and probably damaged bridges on a raid between Thanh Hoa and Vinh, 128 miles south of Hanoi.

The aircraft also attacked a ferry and a bridge 100 miles south of Hanoi but the extent of damage was not immediately determined.

Only light antiaircraft fire was reported during the day raids. The spolesman said all planes returned safely.

A military spokesman said four planes, attacking before dawn with the aid of flares, damaged five trucks in the convoy moving west along a road about 90 miles south of Hanoi. All four planes returned safely to the carrier Coral Sea without encountering any antiaircraft fire or hostile aircraft, the spokesman said.

Wednesday night three pairs of U. S. Navy Skyhawks made spearate strikes against a bridge 77 miles south of Hanoi and boxcars and other targets about 120 miles below the capital. They followed a mass strike by 40 U. S. Navy planes Wednesday morning.

The raids against the North were resumed Tuesday after a six-day suspension failed to bring any response from Hanoi to U. S. peace overtures.

The North Vietnamese Communists charged today that the United States did not actually suspend raids against North Viet Nam.

"In reality over the past week there has been no 'suspension' of U. S. bombing and strafing of North Viet Nam," said Hanoi's Nhan Dan daily.

It charged that the United States stepped up the raids and made 186 sorties on May 14.

The Chinese Communist party's Peking People's Daily joined in with the claim that U. S. planes made strikes against North Viet Nam on May 12, 13 and 17.

During the suspension, U. S. planes reportedly continued to make reconnaissance flights over North Viet Nam, assessing the damage done in previous attacks.

Troops of the U. S. 173rd Airborne Brigade were carrying out what was officially described as a training exercise today south of the U. S.-Vietnamese air base at Bien Hoa.

The exercise took American troops into an area where the Viet Cong have been active. There were unconfirmed reports that light sniper fire had been encountered.

One account said the paratroopers had opened up on a group of about 15 suspected Viet Cong and scattered them. There was no word of any casualties.

In Washington, Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen that neither diplomats nor bombs are going to win the war in Viet Nam

"The struggle can only come to an end when the South Vietnamese and ourselves have shown that we know how to overcome Communist subversion on the ground," Lodge said.

Lodge, a former ambassador to Saigon, has returned from a fact-finding mission abroad for President Johnson. He sounded out the governments of eight Asian nations and Italy on steps to support the fight against communism in Viet Nam.

"In all these governments there was gratification the United States was carrying this heavy responsibility," he said. "There was the hope that we would stay in South Viet Nam. There was the hope that we would win."

One of the governments Lodge talked with was India. Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri signed a joint communique with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Wednesday calling for an immediate stop to the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Battered Child Bill

JEFFERSON CITY AP--The "battered child bill" is on its way to the governor.

The bill, passed by the House Wednesday, would allow a physician to determine whether law officers should be informed in cases of child abuse.

There is no way now for a doctor to report such cases without laying himself open to suit.

The House also passed and sent back to the Senate with some changes a bill to increase the height and length of trucks.

Earlier the House passed a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges from $200 to $300 a year per student, but the Senate Education Committee approved the bill at a $240 level. Payments would be based on students carrying 24 credit hours instead of the present 30-hour requirement.

Two proposed consititutional amendments cleared the House Wednesday.

One would allow a 60 per cent majority vote on general obligation bond issues, instead of two-thirds.

The other would increase the maximum school levy without vote of the people to $1.50. The top now is 89 cents in St. Louis and $1 in the rest of the state.

Also sent to the governor was the administration bill to abolish the old one-cent of the property tax that was used to pay off a school fund debt which has now been retired.

Marine Killed By Mortar Barrage

NINH AN, Viet Nam (AP) — A brief Viet Cong mortar barrage killed one U.S. Marine and wounded two on patrol today in southwest of the Da Nang air base.

The Marines, replying with their own mortars, 3.5-inch rockets and small arms, believed they killed at least two Viet Cong.

Cpl. Mike Jeffords of Milwaukee, Wis., said he saw a rifle bullet blast away the face of one guerrilla. But the Marines were unable to find any bodies in the tangled undergrowth.

Matthews To Integrate School

The Board of Education of the R-V School District has received word from the United States Office of Education that its plan for desegregation submitted March 1 and altered again by request April 19, 1965 is adequate for compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Section VI of this Act provides that: "No person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

The Board of Education of the R-V School District proposes to desegregate all pupils from grades nine (9) through twelve (12) at the beginning of the 1965-1966 school year.

The Board of Education proposes to operate all the remaining grades (one through eight) in the district on the basis of an open enrollment policy, giving all parents freedom of choice in the selection of the school that they want their child to attend. A pupil whose choice of school is rejected because of overcrowding will be notified and permitted to make a second choice between two schools. All parents who will have children attending school in the R-V School District next term will be furnished a form for designating the school that they have selected for their child to attend. This card will be brought home by their child. Parents are requested to fill out the form, sign it and return it to their child's teacher on or before May 31, 1965.

Parents, who have children who will begin attending school for the first time next term, should request forms from the principal of the school that they have chosen for their child to attend.

Schools operating in this district next year are as follows: Matthews High School; Matthews Elementary; Canalou Elementary; Big Ridge Elementary; Ogden Elementary.

The policies and procedures of this program have been adopted and initiated by the Board of Education, only after meticulous consideration and with the view of operating a school program desired by all parents and patrons of the district.

The Board of Education urgently asks your cooperation with this program.

Junta Claims Absolute Control

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta claimed "absolute control" of the country Wednesday night and called for unconditional surrender of the rebels.

"We have absolute control of the Dominican Republic," the junta president, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, told a rally of about 1,000 cheering middle-and upper-class followers inside the U.S.-occupied international zone of Santo Domingo.

"We don't want a truce. Out with communism," the crowd shouted.

Imbert spoke from a balcony at his headquarters in the Congressional Palace shortly after junta troops overran the rebel radio station and rebel resistance in northern Santo Domingo collapsed.

Imbert told an interviewer he would not consider any compromise with the rebel force of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno. He said his five-man junta would only discuss unconditional surrender of the insurgents, whose main force is holed up in downtown Santo Domingo inside the U.S.-controlled areas.

Caamano has also refused to meet with Imbert, contending that any compromise with the junta would violate rebel demands for a return to the 1963 constitution.

However, a spokesman for the U.N. peace mission said both the junta and the rebels have agreed in principle to a 12-hour cease-fire Friday to let the Red Cross remove dead and wounded from the fighting zone. The spokesman added that detailed agreements with each side still must be worked out.

Shooting tapered off Wednesday night, but there apparently were rebel holdouts in the northern area. Imbert told a newsman the battle would be over by the weekend.

Asked if his forces would try to storm the rebel stronghold downtown, the junta chief said, "That's next week's problem."

A junta spokesman said 800 rebel prisoners had been taken in the battle in the northern suburbs.

Hospitals reported 30 dead in the fighting, but some estimates placed the total at more than 100 including civilians.

Newsmen driving through the area said tanks had demolished some homes where rebels were believed barricaded. Many homes were scarred by machine-gun and cannon fire they said.

Some families fleeing the battle area claimed U.S. troops were aiding junta soldiers in the fight against the rebels. Some said they had seen American troops arrive with junta forces in three truckloads of reinforcements Tuesday.

A U.S. military spokesman said the only American troops with the junta were radio units assigned to help Dominican forces keep their gunfire away from the American Lines.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant called on the United States to "use its good offices" to get the rival Dominican factions to head the cease-fire appeal issued by the Security Council last Friday.

Thant said his special Dominican envoy, Jose Antonio Mayobre of Venezuela, told U.S. officials in Santo Domingo there was an "unavoidable implication of United States involvement because of the inaction of United States forces during the junta offensive."

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the Security Council the United States had sent high-level diplomatic representatives to Santo Domingo to "help to stop the fighting and reconcile the factions." But Stevenson said the United States "is not taking sides" and its forces "do not have a mandate to enforce the cease-fire."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko demanded what right U.S. representatives had to go to Santo Domingo. He charged that U.S. troops were giving "practical military assistance" to the junta forces in "a genuine hangman's mission." He said the council should demand their immediate withdrawal.

A U.S. official in Santo Domingo acknowledged that Washington's envoys have failed so far in efforts to replace the junta with a coalition government headed by Antonio Guzman, agriculture minister under ex-President Juan Bosch.

Imbert rejected the U.S. plan and accused the United States of interference. He was supported by Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, chief of the Dominican armed forces.

The rebels accepted Guzman but rejected others suggested for the coalition.

"There must be a reappraisal," the U.S. official said. But he stressed that the United States was not endorsing the junta.

In Washington, the special peace mission of the Organization of American States which recently returned from Santo Domingo urged the OAS to ask the U.N. to "suspend all action" in the Dominican crisis while the OAS tries to achieve a political settlement.

The committee said its work was finished and asked the OAS to send a special mediator to the divided Caribbean country.

House Ways And Means Repeals Excise On Cars

WASHINGTON AP--The House Ways and Means Committee has taken a long step beyond President Johnson's request and voted to repeal entirely the excise tax on passenger automobiles over the next four years.

The four major auto companies promptly announced they would pass any tax cuts on to buyers, which would mean an eventual price reduction on an average car of about $230. The present excise tax on cars is 10 per cent, and Johnson asked that it be cut to 5 per cent.

Tuesday's Ways and Means Committee action--if upheld by Congress -- would bring the eventual revenue reduction to nearly $5 billion, $900 million more than Johnson had recommended in a special message to Congress Monday. The cut in the first year would be about the $1.75 billion urged by the President.

Swift congressional approval of excise tax cuts seems assured.

The House probably will vote on the measure the week of May 31, if leaders carry out present plans.

In the Senate, Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said the Finance Committee hopes to take up the bill right after the House acts and will hear only one witness--Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler. Sen. Byrd said all potential witnesses favor the cuts.

The unusual speed is designed in large part to head off any slump in buying the many goods on which taxes would be eliminated July 1.

Following Johnson's recommendation, the House committee provided procedures by which people who bought autos or air conditioners before July 1 could get refunds.

In addition to these two items, a long list of goods, taxed for the most part at 10 per cent, would become tax free July 1 if the legislation is enacted by then.

They include jewelry, furs, toilet preparations, luggage and handbags.

Benton Says 'War In Viet Is Hell'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Artist Thomas Hart Benton says the situation in Viet Nam is "a hell of a stinking mess" but he still wants the American Academy of Arts and Letters to repudiate a speech by its president, Lewis Mumford, attacking U.S. policy in that area.

If the academy refuses to do that, the blunt-speaking Benton said he will resign from the 50-member honor society.

Benton returned to his home here Wednesday night from New York where Mumford stirred his anger with a speech opening the academy's annual festival of the arts. Declaring he was expressing his personal views and not speaking for the academy, Mumford called the U.S. commitment in the Southeast Asian country a "moral outrage."

Benton, seated on the stage with other members and artists, tried to interrupt Mumford but said later: "They pulled me down. I couldn't be heard."

On his arrival here he said in an interview that he was aroused not only by Mumford's remarks but by the applause they received from an audience of about 500.

"The situation in Viet Nam is a hell of a stinking mess but he (Mumford) doesn't know any more about it than I do," Benton said.

"All war is immoral but the U.S. is not responsible for war, neither is Lyndon Johnson."

Benton said he and Mumford had been friends for 40 years and that "a bunch of holy, talcum-covered geniuses—the intelligentsia — trapped" the academy president into making the speech. Continuation of his friendship, he added, would depend on whether the Mumford statements are repudiated.

In his speech Mumford said "those of us who are devoted to the pursuit of the arts and humane letters have a duty to oppose any assault upon the basic moralities that alone have preserved mankind's common heritage from the aggressive egotism and the presumptious national claims that so often undermine the prudence and common sense of those who exercise political authority. . .

"Obviously we have no more reason to have our will prevail in Viet Nam than Soviet Russia had to establish rocket bases in Cuba."

Members of the academy are chosen from the National Institute of Arts and Letters with its membership limited to 50. Benton was elected to the academy in May, 1963, and his citation was presented at that time by Mumford, an author and social commentator.

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Three men were found guilty and four were acquitted late Wednesday night in U.S. District Court on charges of using the mails to defraud.

All were associated with the now defunct Pac-Aid firm of Missouri, which postal inspectors charged swindled customers throughout the nation of $250,000.

Found guilty were Doyle E. Raftis, Chicago, on 19 counts; Vernon F. Hawkins, Webster Grove, 18 counts; and Curt Martin, also known as Robert Burns, Edwardsville, Ill., 19 counts.

Acquitted were Thomas M. Bugg, Overland, Mo.; Melville W. Ahlmeyer, Columbus, Ohio; Raymond P. Guzy, Kirkwood, and Hildreth M. Kniff, Newbury, Ohio.

Three Southeast Missouri Men Indicted By Grand Jury

MEMPHIS -- Federal Judge Marion S. Boyd has issued a warrant for the appearance of three Southeast Missouri men for arraignment Friday on a charge of extortion.

The three men indicted by a federal grand jury are Walter Richardson Jr., 48, of Portageville, president of Wil-Mar Advertising Co., of Sikeston, Mo.; William R. McIntosh, 45, 612 W. Murray Lane, Sikeston, the firm's general sales manager and Joe Dale Wilson, 23, a salesman for the firm.

The men are charged with extortion that supposedly took place April 23 for $5,000 of a Memphis, Tenn. man.

The three are accused of calling William Tanner, president of Pepper Sound Studios Inc. of Memphis, and demanding $5,000 to avoid bodily harm to his brother, Henry Faye Tanner, a former employee of the Wil-Mar Company.

All three subjects have been free on $100,000. bond since the day after they were arrested. The bond was posted for appearance before United States District Commissioner, Paul Mueller Jr. of Jackson.

Henry Tanner had worked for the Wil-Mar Company until about two months prior to the alledged extortion.

Up until yesterday morning, it was reported, Henry Tanner was staying at the Claridge Hotel in Memphis, but upon investigating done by a Standard Reporter his immediate whereabouts are unknown. However, it was reported that he claims residence at Brownsville, Tex. Upon trying to get verification to this, it was found that there was no listing of his presence in Brownsville.

Railway Hearing Ends

MEMPHIS AP -- The last of six Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on a proposal by the Frisco Railroad to discontinue the line's remaining passenger service was to end here today, setting the stage for an ICC decision on the matter before Aug. 19.

The hearing here Wednesday, as well as those that proceded it in Birmingham, St. Louis, Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Springfield, Mo., produced a stream of governmental officials, military personnel and just plain citizens opposed to the proposal. All the while, the railroad has claimed it is losing $3 million annually on the passenger operations.

D. W. Snyder, a Mississippi public service commissioner, testified Wednesday that many cities in northeast Mississippi are now enjoying an industrial boom. He added that this growth "would be seriously affected" by the removal of Frisco passenger service.

Speaking in behalf of the Defense Department, Maj. Robert W. Hopkins of Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., listed eight military installations which would also be adversely affected if the proposal is approved.

An attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People spoke against the discontinuance in the name of the Association of Railway Trainmen porters, which she also represents.

Miss Barbara Morris said that 60 porters, all Negroes, are now working on Frisco passenger trains, and called eight of them to testify that they are qualified to do the work of brakemen, a position now held

Vance-Whitworth To Locate Here

A new industry bringing new jobs, new business, new income, new citizens, and many other benefits to community has announced its willingness to relocate a substantial part of its operations in Sikeston.

Vance - Whitworth, Incorporated, a St. Louis-based manufacturer of electronic data recording equipment and developer of business system programs which is recognized to have great growth potential, is making plans to move its Manufacturing Plant and its Product Engineering, Quality Control, Fiscal Service, Planning, Scheduling, and Administrative Services departments to this city.

In announcing the planned relocation, Ray M. Whitworth, company president, pointed to the many advantages both the firm and the community would enjoy.

CITIES LOCAL SUPPORT

"We are planning to move this large portion of our St. Louis operation to Sikeston because of the enthusiastic encouragement of key business leaders and the anticipated successful sale of securities to local investors," Whitworth said. "We are also aware of the excellent plant facilities, of the availability of a fine labor force," he said.

100 JOBS WITHIN YEAR

It was further reported that 100 people would be on the Vance-Whitworth payroll by the end of its first year in Sikeston.

These new jobs would bring many tangible benefits to the community, company officials reported. Quoting the data supplied in a report by the United States Chamber of Commerce in a report on the effects of a new industry with a payroll of 100 moving to a community of this size, they cited: $710,000 more personal income per year; $229,000 more in bank deposits; 97 more passenger cars registered; 100 more households with a total of 359 people; 3 new retail establishments; $331,000 more in retail sales.

Grocery stores $72,000.
Automobile dealers $47,000.
Eating places $25,000.
Gasoline service stations $24,000.
Department stores $22,000.
Clothing and shoe stores $21,-000.
Lumber, building materials, and hardware dealers $18,000.
Furniture, home furnishings, and household appliance stores $14,000.
Other stores $88,000.
Total increase in annual retail sales $331,000.

TEMPORARY SITE SOUGHT

A temporary site to be used by the company for establishing its operations here will be announced soon. Actual hiring of 10 production workers will take place in August. These new workers will receive on-the-job training designed by the Sikeston School System. The School System will also design all training programs for the company's sales representatives assigned to the Sikeston area and to various other parts of the country as well. In addition, certain customers of the company will be brought to Sikeston to attend Data Processing Seminars, also to be programmed by the local School System.

KEY PERSONNEL RE-LOCATING

Several key Vance-Whitworth personnel and their families, totaling more than 35 persons, will leave St. Louis and relocate in Sikeston in July. Others may re-locate next fall.

U. S. Planes Drop Leaflets In On Communist Aggressors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam Ap-- U. S. Air Force planes flew within 55 miles of Hanoi today and dropped half a million leaflets warning the Communists to halt aggression in South Viet Nam or "bear more disastrous consequences," a U. S. military spokesman said.

On the ground, the Viet Cong fired a short mortar barrage into a U. S. Marine patrol 15 miles southwest of Da Nang, killing one Marine and wounding two others. The Marines reported their return fire killed at least two guerrillas.

"If the Vietnamese Communists are stubborn in their aggression and sabotage in South Viet Nam, they will bear more disastrous consequences," the leaflets said.

"Our brothers in the army of North Viet Nam, don't let the Chinese and Vietnamese Communists use your bones and blood to wage a fratricidal war in South Viet Nam."

The spokesman said 25 F105 Thunderchiefs dropped the leaflets over Ninh Binh and then attacked a radar station on Hon Matt Island 135 miles southeast of Hanoi. The flight over Ninh Binh was the third time U. S. aircraft had penetrated above the 20th Parallel, the spokesman said.

The dual mission capped a day of almost continuous air strikes against the Communist North on the third day of renewed raids.

Earlier strikes were reported against the Phu Qui petroleum complex, 125 miles south of Hanoi, and against a convoy of 15 trucks. Phu Qui was also attacked when the raids were resumed Tuesday.

The spolesman said four U. S. Navy Skyhawks from the carrier Coral Sea destroyed four railroad cars and probably damaged bridges on a raid between Thanh Hoa and Vinh, 128 miles south of Hanoi.

The aircraft also attacked a ferry and a bridge 100 miles south of Hanoi but the extent of damage was not immediately determined.

Only light anitaircraft fire was reported during the day raids. The spolesman said all planes returned safely.

A military spokesman said four planes, attacking before dawn with the aid of flares, damaged five trucks in the convoy moving west along a road about 90 miles south of Hanoi. All four planes returned safely to the carrier Coral Sea without encountering any antiaircraft fire or hostile aircraft, the spokesman said.

Wednesday night three pairs of U. S. Navy Skyhawks made spearate strikes against a bridge 77 miles south of Hanoi and boxcars and other targets about 120 miles below the capital. They followed a mass strike by 40 U. S. Navy planes Wednesday morning.

The raids against the North were resumed Tuesday after a six-day suspension failed to bring any response from Hanoi to U. S. peace overtures.

The North Vietnamese Communists charged today that the United States did not actually suspend raids against North Viet Nam.

"In reality over the past week there has been no 'suspension' of U. S. bombing and strafing of North Viet Nam," said Hanoi's Nhan Dan daily.

It charged that the United States stepped up the raids and made 186 sorties on May 14.

The Chinese Communist party's Peking People's Daily joined in with the claim that U. S. planes made strikes against North Viet Nam on May 12, 13 and 17.

During the suspension, U. S. planes reportedly continued to make reconnaissance flights over North Viet Nam, assessing the damage done in previous attacks.

Troops of the U. S. 173rd Airborne Brigade were carrying out what was officially described as a training exercise today south of the U. S.-Vietnamese air base at Bien Hoa.

The exercise took American troops into an area where the Viet Cong have been active. There were unconfirmed reports that light sniper fire had been encountered.

One account said the paratroopers had opened up on a group of about 15 suspected Viet Cong and scattered them. There was no word of any casualties.

In Washington, Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen that neither diplomats nor bombs are going to win the war in Viet Nam

"The struggle can only come to an end when the South Vietnamese and ourselves have shown that we know how to overcome Communist subversion on the ground," Lodge said.

Lodge, a former ambassador to Saigon, has returned from a fact-finding mission abroad for President Johnson. He sounded out the governments of eight Asian nations and Italy on steps to support the fight against communism in Viet Nam.

"In all these governments there was gratification the United States was carrying this heavy responsibility," he said. "There was the hope that we would stay in South Viet Nam. There was the hope that we would win."

One of the governments Lodge talked with was India. Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri signed a joint communique with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Wednesday calling for an immediate stop to the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Battered Child Bill

JEFFERSON CITY AP--The "battered child bill" is on its way to the governor.

The bill, passed by the House Wednesday, would allow a physician to determine whether law officers should be informed in cases of child abuse.

There is no way now for a doctor to report such cases without laying himself open to suit.

The House also passed and sent back to the Senate with some changes a bill to increase the height and length of trucks.

Earlier the House passed a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges from $200 to $300 a year per student, but the Senate Education Committee approved the bill at a $240 level. Payments would be based on students carrying 24 credit hours instead of the present 30-hour requirement.

Two proposed constitutional amendments cleared the House Wednesday.

One would allow a 60 per cent majority vote on general obligation bond issues, instead of two-thirds.

The other would increase the maximum school levy without vote of the people to $1.50. The top now is 89 cents in St. Louis and $1 in the rest of the state.

Also sent to the governor was the administration bill to abolish the old one-cent of the property tax that was used to pay off a school fund debt which has now been retired.

Marine Killed By Mortar Barrage

NINH AN, Viet Nam (AP) — A brief Viet Cong mortar barrage killed one U.S. Marine and wounded two on patrol today in southwest of the Da Nang air base.

The Marines, replying with their own mortars, 3.5-inch rockets and small arms, believed they killed at least two Viet Cong.

Cpl. Mike Jeffords of Milwaukee, Wis., said he saw a rifle bullet blast away the face of one guerrilla. But the Marines were unable to find any bodies in the tangled undergrowth.

Matthews To Integrate School

The Board of Education of the R-V School District has received word from the United States Office of Education that its plan for desegregation submitted March 1 and altered again by request April 19, 1965 is adequate for compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Section VI of this Act provides that: "No person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

The Board of Education of the R-V School District proposes to desegregate all pupils from grades nine (9) through twelve (12) at the beginning of the 1965-1966 school year.

The Board of Education proposes to operate all the remaining grades (one through eight) in the district on the basis of an open enrollment policy, giving all parents freedom of choice in the selection of the school that they want their child to attend. A pupil whose choice of school is rejected because of overcrowding will be notified and permitted to make a second choice between two schools. All parents who will have children attending school in the R-V School District next term will be furnished a form for designating the school that they have selected for their child to attend. This card will be brought home by their child. Parents are requested to fill out the form, sign it and return it to their child's teacher on or before May 31, 1965.

Parents, who have children who will begin attending school for the first time next term, should request forms from the principal of the school that they have chosen for their child to attend.

Schools operating in this district next year are as follows: Matthews High School; Matthews Elementary; Canalou Elementary; Big Ridge Elementary; Ogden Elementary.

The policies and procedures of this program have been adopted and initiated by the Board of Education, only after meticulous consideration and with the view of operating a school program desired by all parents and patrons of the district.

The Board of Education urgently asks your cooperation with this program.

Junta Claims Absolute Control

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta claimed "absolute control" of the country Wednesday night and called for unconditional surrender of the rebels.

"We have absolute control of the Dominican Republic," the junta president, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, told a rally of about 1,000 cheering middle-and upper-class followers inside the U.S.-occupied international zone of Santo Domingo.

"We don't want a truce. Out with communism," the crowd shouted.

Imbert spoke from a balcony at his headquarters in the Congressional Palace shortly after junta troops overran the rebel radio station and rebel resistance in northern Santo Domingo collapsed.

Imbert told an interviewer he would not consider any compromise with the rebel force of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno. He said his five-man junta would only discuss unconditional surrender of the insurgents, whose main force is holed up in downtown Santo Domingo inside the U.S.-controlled areas.

Caamano has also refused to meet with Imbert, contending that any compromise with the junta would violate rebel demands for a return to the 1963 constitution.

However, a spokesman for the U.N. peace mission said both the junta and the rebels have agreed in principle to a 12-hour cease-fire Friday to let the Red Cross remove dead and wounded from the fighting zone. The spokesman added that detailed agreements with each side still must be worked out.

Shooting tapered off Wednesday night, but there apparently were rebel holdouts in the northern area. Imbert told a newsman the battle would be over by the weekend.

Asked if his forces would try to storm the rebel stronghold downtown, the junta chief said, "That's next week's problem."

A junta spokesman said 800 rebel prisoners had been taken in the battle in the northern suburbs.

Hospitals reported 30 dead in the fighting, but some estimates placed the total at more than 100 including civilians.

Newsmen driving through the area said tanks had demolished some homes where rebels were believed barricaded. Many homes were scarred by machine-gun and cannon fire they said.

Some families fleeing the battle area claimed U.S. troops were aiding junta soldiers in the fight against the rebels. Some said they had seen American troops arrive with junta forces in three truckloads of reinforcements Tuesday.

A U.S. military spokesman said the only American troops with the junta were radio units assigned to help Dominican forces keep their gunfire away from the American Lines.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant called on the United States to "use its good offices" to get the rival Dominican factions to head the cease-fire appeal issued by the Security Council last Friday.

Thant said his special Dominican envoy, Jose Antonio Mayobre of Venezuela, told U.S. officials in Santo Domingo there was an "unavoidable implication of United States involvement because of the inaction of United States forces during the junta offensive."

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the Security Council the United States had sent high-level diplomatic representatives to Santo Domingo to "help to stop the fighting and reconcile the factions." But Stevenson said the United States "is not taking sides" and its forces "do not have a mandate to enforce the cease-fire."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko demanded what right U.S. representatives had to go to Santo Domingo. He charged that U.S. troops were giving "practical military assistance" to the junta forces in "a genuine hangman's mission." He said the council should demand their immediate withdrawal.

A U.S. official in Santo Domingo acknowledged that Washington's envoys have failed so far in efforts to replace the junta with a coalition government headed by Antonio Guzman, agriculture minister under ex-President Juan Bosch.

Imbert rejected the U.S. plan and accused the United States of interference. He was supported by Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, chief of the Dominicanarmed forces.

The rebels accepted Guzman but rejected others suggested for the coalition.

"There must be a reappraisal," the U.S. official said. But he stressed that the United States was not endorsing the junta.

In Washington, the special peace mission of the Organization of American States which recently returned from Santo Domingo urged the OAS to ask the U.N. to "suspend all action" in the Dominican crisis while the OAS tries to achieve a political settlement.

The committee said its work was finished and asked the OAS to send a special mediator to the divided Caribbean country.

I presume as the weather continues to warm up and stay in the 80's and above, that Brother Cullens, chief custodian of the bank, will have a harder time keeping the youngsters out of the fountain.

RIGHT-TO-WORK CHALLENGE

SOME 19 BILLS TO REMOVE or amend Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act are pending in the special House Labor subcommittee headed by Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.). A preview of the President's labor reform package was given May 12 by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who told the International Ladies Garment Workers Union convention in Miami Beach that it was part of his job to press for repeal of what is sometimes called the right-to-work law.

George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, told the same convention that unions must be freed from statutes that curb their efforts to improve the lot of workers. Specifically on 14 (b), Meany said confidently: "This section we expect to repeal this year."

BIG LABOR had inveighed against 14(b) since the labor law's enactment in 1947 but in recent years it realistically hadn't done very much about it. Now the AFL-CIO Executive Council believes it has the votes in the new Congress.

The labor leaders count 221 hard votes for repeal in the House of Representatives, with 218 needed to send the bill to the Senate where they have always been confident of passage.

The Democratic party platform last year called for outright repeal of 14 (b). President Johnson in his State of the Union Message stated flatly: "As pledged in our 1960 and 1964 platforms, I will propose to Congress changes in the Taft-Hartley Act including Section 14 (b)." What remained was the matter of priority.

The AFL-CIO early in January called all its affiliated brass to Washington for a four-day lobbying job on the new Congress. But it soon became evident that the administration itself wasn't going to be hurried, that "first things," in the White House view, had to do more directly with the Great Society.

Now with the education bill signed into law, with medicare sliding down a clear track, with voting reforms assured (in large outline), with a water pollution bill approved, the administration is ready to give labor the opportunity to collect its bill for support of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket and the Democratic sweep in Congress last year. For its part, labor feels easier about pressing for repeal now that its public image has been improved with avoidance of a long strike in steel.

UNION SHOP CONTRACTS between employers and unions require workers to join a union within a specified period, usually 30 to 60 days after being employed. Repeal of 14 (b) would, in effect, take away from the states the right to enact laws forbidding union shop contracts and would make such laws inoperable where they now exist. Nineteen states today have right-to-work laws.

Without exception, these are Southern, Midwestern, and Western states, and few of them are heavily industrial. So for all practical purposes, the bitter fighting looming up in Congress is over a symbolic rather than a bread-winning issue. A Fund for the Republic study issued several years ago under the imprint of a committee of which Secretary Wirtz was a member said of experience under a Texas law: "Right-to-Work' proposals have become a convenient symbol for this purpose (public demonstration of political power) perhaps because, in effect, they do mean so little."

Lifting 10,000 one-dollar bills to the top of the Empire State Building causes a weight loss of one bill -- due to the decrease in gravity's pull, according to a geophysicist's recent experiments.

Holding on to 10,000 one dollar bills on the ground floor, the 102nd floor or anywhere else in the U. S. for four days will produce a similar effect -- about $1 loss due to inflation, Tax Foundation, Ind. estimates. Since 1949 the dollar is estimated to have lost approximately 23 cents of its purchasing power.

Nighttime experiments with a sensitive gravimeter in the world's tallest building by Columbia University's Dr. John T. F. Kuo show that a man weighing 160 pounds on the street weighs only 159.9814 pounds on the 102nd floor.

Tax Foundation says a not unsimilar disparity in a time dimension can be shown between the former and current purchasing power of the dollar. At the current rate of inflation (it has slowed more of recent years) the loss on $10,000 is about 27 cents a day. Whether it is called the "rise in the consumer price index," the "decline in the purchasing power of the dollar" or inflation, some typical effects are shown below:

1955	889	1,334	3.112	89

President Johnson has advanced specific proposals to insure the voting rights of every American, of whatever race or color. More than that, however, he has made it plain that this unfinished business of American freedom is something that concerns all of us, everywhere.

"There is no Negro problem," he said. "There is no Southern problem or Northern problem. There is only an American problem."

The first aspect of the situation -- specific laws and procedures regarding voting -- can be put into effect by Congress.

The second -- the granting of the dignity of full-fledged citizenship to all -- cannot be accomplished with the simple passing of a law. It can come only through the positive thinking and action of each individual, whether he is a public official like a voting registrar or is an ordinary private citizen. Whether he is one who already enjoys full rights or is one striving to attain them.

The second matter is the long, the difficult process. But the first step, the insuring of equality under law, is the necessary prelude to undertaking it.

Just as a century ago one president maintained that the nation could not endure half slave and half free, so today another has told us that it cannot continue all free and partly free -- not without enormous civil discontent and disruption.

The nation emerged stronger and more unified from the terrible ordeal of war that was required to end slavery. It is to be hoped that it will emerge stronger and freer from the legal and moral struggle that will be required to implement the "unkept promise" of the American dream.

The President has issued the call, to lawmakers and to citizens. History will record how well it was answered.

THE FUNCTION OF THE CORPORATION

The president of a major oil company, which has served its area for 95 years, recently had something worthwhile to say about the often-misunderstood role of the corporation.

Incorporation provides continuity to enterprise. So long as it meets a need, it is capable of almost limitless growth. Because of such characteristics, the corporation can undertake research and finance long-term projects that may not produce a return for many years. As as example of this, he cited his own company's development of oil shale. Many other examples, within and without the oil industry, could be listed.

He then made this all-important statement: "The primary function of a corporation is to organize men and capital to produce and sell products that are of greater value to society than their cost--and thus earn a profit. If a corporation fails to earn a profit, it is in some way failing its responsibilities to society. Its products may not be what the public wants. Its costs may be too high. Whatever the reasons, the penalty for this failure--very correctly--is extinction."

Too few of us have an understanding of this vital corporate function. It is profit which enables a corporation to expand, to employ more people, to develop new products, to help improve living standards, and to attract savings. And profit--or lack of it -- determines whether the corporation is or is not providing a needed and wanted public service. The corporate way of doing business is a vital part of a dynamic economy.

DRESS TIPS: There's a new look for ensembling, which is understated and elegant -- the "one - color combination." Wear a basic color -- for example, gray -- a gray suit, gray shirt and gray tie. Blend the shades from lightest to darkest, from near-white to black, for a tasteful effect, and use the same idea for blue or brown. . .Another idea is the "two-color combination" -- example, black and blue. Wear a black suit, blue shirt and black-and-blue tie. Other examples are brown and blue; navy and gold, etc.

CLEARING SKIES

Oftentimes the citing of one good example is more effective than thousands of words of arguments or admonition.

Today's example: The decision of four major steel producers in the Chicago area to spend $50 million for equipment to end air pollution at their plants.

The project, jointly announced, will take several years to complete. But it's estimated that by the first of next year alone it will have advanced sufficiently to eliminate half of the air pollution caused by these plants, and that further improvement can be expected before the project is completed.

This is just one instance of the good citizenship displayed by American industry. Less dramatic possibly because they involve lesser sums, countless other projects are constantly under way as industry voluntarily seeks to help assure the nation of pure air and pure water.

FREEDOM AND CRIME

The well-justified deep concern felt over our steeply rising crime rate in America is spreading among the people in every corner of our land.

A healthy, potentially constructive and long - needed debate on crime's cause and cure has resulted from this concern. Many have rightly pointed to the collapse of moral standards and an attitude of exaggerated tolerance as conditions which invite crime where they do not cause it.

In this debate there is one trend of thinking which itself might give cause for concern: the assertion that the present crime wave is due to too much freedom and excessive concern with individual rights.

Our nation was founded on a love of freedom and individual rights. There can never be too much of either, so long as both are properly understood.

One of the great tragedies of our time is that the very ideas of freedom and rights are so badly misunderstood by so many.

Far from being a license to crime, freedom and rights properly understood are the great barriers to crime. If freedom as an objective value and individual rights as part of natural law, you do not violate the rights of others any more than you allow others to violate your rights. You support every step government takes to protect citizens in the full enjoyment of their freedom and their rights.

Communists may not encourage any other crimes except their own. Criminals may not be friendly to Communism at all, but wherever there is a failure of law and order Communists like the atmosphere created and move in.

DA NANG Airbase, South Viet Nam (AP) — "It's the only war we've got."

That was the laconic reply of Capt. John O. Edelblute of Crown Point, Ind., when asked why he had volunteered for a third tour of duty in the Far East.

"I'm a career officer. This is my life. I'm a fighter pilot."

At 33, the captain is the oldest of four bachelors among the 25 pilots in the 615th Tactical Fighter Squadron. The squadron commander, Maj. James A. Minish, 36, of Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., says he is "one of the very best."

Edelblute's hot seat in the sky is an F100 all-purpose fighter plane which attacks its targets at a speed ranging between 400 to 600 knots. When he winds up his present duty tour June 1, he will have completed about 100 sorties and dropped or shot up to 250 tons of bombs, rockets and bullets at the enemy.

"I hope I'll get 30 days leave," he said. "I've got a new car at England Air Force Base in Louisiana waiting for me, and I'd like to catch up on my bass fishing.

"Then, if they want me to come back here for fourth tour, I'll pack my bag and come back."

Edelblute stands an inch over 6 feet, has brown hair and blue eyes, and is sturdily handsome. He has sweated off 20 pounds under the grind of heat and long hours.

He has had two bad blows to his spirit. His mother and father were killed in an automobile accident last April, and on a recent attack on a northern flak site his wingman disappeared.

"We don't know what happened to him. We never heard of him again."

As do most capable people, "Blute" speaks of his work with a straightforward matter of factness. He has flown every type of mission, day and night, and minimizes the three hits the enemy has made on his plane.

"I know I've got some flak sites," he said. "And I know I've missed at least one bridge.

"But it takes only from 30 to 50 seconds from the time you roll in toward your target until you start to pull out.

"When you're making a pass, you only have time to think about your airplane, your sight and that target. As soon as you release your bombs, you pull out and get out. Somebody else can tell you later where you've hit.

"You're likely to be knocked down if you go back for a look yourself."

Some days he flies one mission. Some days two. There always is the possibility of a sudden night air support mission to help hard - pressed ground troops. Edelblute sleeps on the base. His only relaxation is a weekly trip into town to eat at a Chinese restaurant. He likes corn soup with crab.

This is how he feels about what he is doing:

"I just want the people back home to know that we are really in a war. This is not just a game over here.

"The work we have done is positive. I feel it is having its effect."

"Blute" takes quite a lot of kidding about his bachelor status.

He explains it this way: "The girl who marries me will have to marry the Air Force, too. So far I haven't found one willing to do both, although last year I thought I had."

Any girl who does say "yes" to Capt. Edelblute can be sure of two things — she'll be wedded to a fine officer as well as a fine Air Force. You'd think our girls would be standing in line for a chance like that, wouldn't you now?

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Last year, President Johnson went to great pains to pick three highly qualified men to represent the public as directors of the Communications Satellite Corporation — George Meany of the AFL-CIO, representing labor; Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, representing the scholastic world; and Frederic G. Donner, Chairman of General Motors, representing the business world.

The President had been told that he couldn't possibly get Donner to serve, and it took some of the famous Lyndon persuasion to get him. However, the GM Chairman finally agreed.

Since then, the attendance record of the three directors picked by Johnson to represent the public has been interesting.

Donner has attended every meeting. Meany has attended almost all, having been absent while in Europe.

Clark Kerr of the University of California has attended no meetings.

—McCORMACK'S SECRET DEAL—

It will probably be denied, but gaunt, gray Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts has made a secret deal with Mississippi congressmen to help them remain in Congress. Without his help they would probably be ousted.

McCormack's secret promise to the Mississippians is one of the strange paradoxes of Congress. Publicly McCormack is for an amendment to the voting rights bill banning poll taxes. Furthermore he comes from a city whose uncompromising abolitionists damned and blasted the South in such a way as to help precipitate the Civil War.

Yet, privately, the congressman from Boston has been working hand in glove with the Mississippi segregationists and has promised to save them from losing their seats.

John will probably smite his bosom and issue an indignant denial calling Drew Pearson a liar after this is published. Nevertheless, here are his very important backstage moves.

Backstage Move No. 1 dates back to last January when the issue of seating the Mississippi congressmen first arose.

The Constitution clearly states that if state's inhabitants over 21 are prohibited from voting "the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion" to the number prevented from voting. It was quite clear that last November most of Mississippi's Negroes were prevented from voting. Furthermore, the law of 1870, by which Mississippi was readmitted to the union after the Civil War, requires that every citizen be given the right to vote.

When a group of Northern congressmen moved to prevent the Mississippi congressmen from taking their seats as Congress convened Jan. 2, Speaker McCormack led the move to seat them.

"The Speaker has asked me to introduce a motion to seat the Mississippi delegation," Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., told Rep. William Fitz Ryan, D-N.Y., "and as Majority Leader I am going to do it."

Backstage Move No. 2 came after the Democratic caucus stripped Rep. John Bell Williams, Miss., and Rep. Albert Watson, S.C., of their seniority as Democrats because they had voted for Goldwater. Despite this official vote by the Democratic party, McCormack, a leading Democrat, gave Williams full seniority in assigning office space. As a result, the Congressman from Mississippi got one of the choicest offices in the de luxe Sam Rayburn Building.

Backstage Move No. 3 is McCormack's recent secret promise to help prevent the unseating of the Mississippi congressmen.

This came about after hundreds of affidavits were collected in Mississippi attesting under oath that Negroes were disfranchised last year. Though this was known in the past, no one ever took the trouble to produce sworn affidavits proving the disfranchisement. Furthermore, Congress for the first time since New Deal Days is dominated by Northern Liberals.

In addition, some Southerners, such as the respected Phil Landrum, D-Ga., once the darling of the Conservatives, are moving over to the Liberal side. Finally, the Democratic study group has developed an effective, vote-rallying whip system which has surprised and often overwhelmed the Conservatives.

As a result, Speaker McCormack has told Mississippi congressmen that they would lose a showdown vote to keep their seats. Their only hope, he was advised, is to sidetrack the move to unseat them. And he has promised to use his own tremendous power to do so.

Ironically, it was the Democratic study group which helped give McCormack this new power he now plans to use against them.

With Charlie Murphy of the Agriculture Department now Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and Bob Murphy already vice chairman, the problem of names on the CAB is going to become as complicated as the traffic problem over La Guardia Airport.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

American Seamen Jobless, While Japanese Sailors, Manning U. S. Craft, Slow Supply Runs to Viet Nam.

NEW YORK: -- A tense pre-dawn, trans-Pacific telephone call from Yokohama early Sunday, May 16, dramatized a logistic problem haunting our military in the Orient, and especially South Viet Nam.

The call came from the National Maritime Union's (NMU) representative in Japan. His message relayed the grim news to NMU leader Joe Curran that the U. S. movement of vital ammunition and heavy equipment was being slowed by tactics of the huge Japanese labor federation known as SOHYO, and by seamen on Okinawa.

This 454-square-mile Ryukyu island is America's chief military base in the Far East.

Several times Japanese and Ryukyu seamen have refused to sign on American LSTs or have actually vetoed the loading of ammunition on ships bound for South Viet Nam.

For months now the All-Japanese Seamen's Union has discouraged its members from signing on the 17 LSTs which run from Japan to Okinawa and then on to South Viet Nam. The U. S. supply lines have therefore been clogged because it has been American policy to give well-paying jobs to as many Japanese workers as possible.

For the LST run, the Military Sea Transportation Service has hired over 800 Japanese sailors. They've been hard to find because of SOHYO's opposition.

But this is just the beginning of the harassment of American supply specialists. The Japanese government is insisting that the U. S. first move troops, stationed in Japan, to Okinawa before they and their equipment can be sped to South Viet Nam.

Thus, smooth operation in the Okinawan port -- and capital -- Naha -- is vital. But there ships' crews have refused to take on ammunition for the American soldiers in South Viet Nam. Some of the island's longshoremen, who have demonstrated against the U. S. during past May Day celebrations, have also refused to handle ammunition.

When the military threatened to dismiss the balky longshoremen, a threat of a general strike developed. The men said the ammunition was too dangerous.

But then came the afternoon of Saturday, May 15. They refused to load a huge crane and other equipment aboard the American LST 531. Some of the crew reportedly refused to handle the equipment, though not even a firecracker was on the docks or in the cargo.

Word was sped to Jim Patterson, the NMU's man in Yokohama. He flashed the news to big Joe Curran here. What had angered Curran is the Military Sea Transportation Service's policy of hiring Japanese, many unskilled, while several hundred NMU members are jobless "on the beach" in Japan.

Furthermore, Curran points out, there are over 10,000 unemployed seamen here in the states. Virtually all of them are fine sailors and have the precious Coast Guard security clearance.

"We have these thousands of American sailors willing to work the ships and run into danger to help the young fighting men in Viet Nam," Joe Curran said after receiving the trans-Pacific call. "We're fighting for freedom and we should count on our own people, our own citizens, not the untested, unskilled and politicalized Japanese who obviously aren't that nation's best seamen."

Curran and his colleagues point to the wild demonstrations which the left wing of Japanese labor has organized against the U.S. On April 26, SOHYO, which is the base of the ultra Leftist Socialist Party, helped put 25,000 rioters into Tokyo's streets to shout against our policy in Viet Nam, our docking of atomic subs in Japan and for the return of Okinawa to Japan.

Also though not publicized, there is a SOHYO letter in the files of the AFL-CIO, of which Curran is a national vice president. In this communication, SOHYO, many of whose people are raising relief for North Viet Nam, praises what it calls the workers' peace, happiness and freedom in Russia. This letter also attacks America's involvement in Viet Nam.

There is obvious substance to Curran's anger and demand that we rush American seamen to the Orient to keep the vital ships sailing. For our men in Okinawa "is a life line indeed.

RIGHT-TO-WORK CHALLENGE

SOME 19 BILLS TO REMOVE or amend Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act are pending in the special House Labor subcommittee headed by Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.). A preview of the President's labor reform package was given May 12 by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who told the International Ladies Garment Workers Union convention in Miami Beach that it was part of his job to press for repeal of what is sometimes called the right-to-work law.

George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, told the same convention that unions must be freed from statutes that curb their efforts to improve the lot of workers. Specifically on 14 (b), Meany said confidently: "This section we expect to repeal this year."

BIG LABOR had inveighed against 14(b) since the labor law's enactment in 1947 but in recent years it realistically hadn't done very much about it. Now the AFL-CIO Executive Council believes it has the votes in the new Congress.

The labor leaders count 221 hard votes for repeal in the House of Representatives, with 218 needed to send the bill to the Senate where they have always been confident of passage.

The Democratic party platform last year called for outright repeal of 14 (b). President Johnson in his State of the Union Message stated flatly: "As pledged in our 1960 and 1964 platforms, I will propose to Congress changes in the Taft-Hartley Act including Section 14 (b)." What remained was the matter of priority.

The AFL-CIO early in January called all its affiliated brass to Washington for a four-day lobbying job on the new Congress. But it soon became evident that the administration itself wasn't going to be hurried, that "first things," in the White House view, had to do more directly with the Great Society.

Now with the education bill signed into law, with medicare sliding down a clear track, with voting reforms assured (in large outline), with a water pollution bill approved, the administration is ready to give labor the opportunity to collect its bill for support of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket and the Democratic sweep in Congress last year. For its part, labor feels easier about pressing for repeal now that its public image has been improved with avoidance of a long strike in steel.

UNION SHOP CONTRACTS between employers and unions require workers to join a union within a specified period, usually 30 to 60 days after being employed. Repeal of 14 (b) would, in effect, take away from the states the right to enact laws forbidding union shop contracts and would make such laws inoperable where they now exist. Nineteen states today have right-to-work laws.

Without exception, these are Southern, Midwestern, and Western states, and few of them are heavily industrial. So for all practical purposes, the bitter fighting looming up in Congress is over a symbolic rather than a bread-winning issue. A Fund for the Republic study issued several years ago under the imprint of a committee of which Secretary Wirtz was a member said of experience under a Texas law: "Right-to-Work' proposals have become a convenient symbol for this purpose (public demonstration of political power) perhaps because, in effect, they do mean so little."

President Johnson has advanced specific proposals to insure the voting rights of every American, of whatever race or color. More than that, however, he has made it plain that this unfinished business of American freedom is something that concerns all of us, everywhere.

"There is no Negro problem," he said. "There is no Southern problem or Northern problem. There is only an American problem."

The first aspect of the situation -- specific laws and procedures regarding voting -- can be put into effect by Congress.

The second -- the granting of the dignity of full-fledged citizenship to all -- cannot be accomplished with the simple passing of a law. It can come only through the positive thinking and action of each individual, whether he is a public official like a voting registrar or is an ordinary private citizen. Whether he is one who already enjoys full rights or is one striving to attain them.

The second matter is the long, the difficult process. But the first step, the insuring of equality under law, is the necessary prelude to undertaking it.

Just as a century ago one president maintained that the nation could not endure half slave and half free, so today another has told us that it cannot continue all free and partly free -- not without enormous civil discontent and disruption.

The nation emerged stronger and more unified from the terrible ordeal of war that was required to end slavery. It is to be hoped that it will emerge stronger and freer from the legal and moral struggle that will be required to implement the "unkept promise" of the American dream.

The President has issued the call, to lawmakers and to citizens. History will record how well it was answered.

Keeping drains clean is a simple matter, if given regular attention. The drain in the kitchen sink can be kept clear, for instance, by pouring boiling water down it once a day.

THE FUNCTION OF THE CORPORATION

The president of a major oil company, which has served its area for 95 years, recently had something worthwhile to say about the often-misunderstood role of the corporation.

Incorporation provides continuity to enterprise. So long as it meets a need, it is capable of almost limitless growth. Because of such characteristics, the corporation can undertake research and finance long-term projects that may not produce a return for many years. As as example of this, he cited his own company's development of oil shale. Many other examples, within and without the oil industry, could be listed.

He then made this all-important statement: "The primary function of a corporation is to organize men and capital to produce and sell products that are of greater value to society than their cost--and thus earn a profit. If a corporation fails to earn a profit, it is in some way failing its responsibilities to society. Its products may not be what the public wants. Its costs may be too high. Whatever the reasons, the penalty for this failure--very correctly--is extinction."

Too few of us have an understanding of this vital corporate function. It is profit which enables a corporation to expand, to employ more people, to develop new products, to help improve living standards, and to attract savings. And profit--or lack of it -- determines whether the corporation is or is not providing a needed and wanted public service. The corporate way of doing business is a vital part of a dynamic economy.

DRESS TIPS: There's a new look for ensembling, which is understated and elegant -- the "one - color combination." Wear a basic color -- for example, gray -- a gray suit, gray shirt and gray tie. Blend the shades from lightest to darkest, from near-white to black, for a tasteful effect, and use the same idea for blue or brown. . .Another idea is the "two-color combination" -- example, black and blue. Wear a black suit, blue shirt and black-and-blue tie. Other examples are brown and blue; navy and gold, etc.

CLEARING SKIES

Oftentimes the citing of one good example is more effective than thousands of words of arguments or admonition.

Today's example: The decision of four major steel producers in the Chicago area to spend $50 million for equipment to end air pollution at their plants.

The project, jointly announced, will take several years to complete. But it's estimated that by the first of next year alone it will have advanced sufficiently to eliminate half of the air pollution caused by these plants, and that further improvement can be expected before the project is completed.

This is just one instance of the good citizenship displayed by American industry. Less dramatic possibly because they involve lesser sums, countless other projects are constantly under way as industry voluntarily seeks to help assure the nation of pure air and pure water.

FREEDOM AND CRIME

The well-justified deep concern felt over our steeply rising crime rate in America is spreading among the people in every corner of our land.

A healthy, potentially constructive and long - needed debate on crime's cause and cure has resulted from this concern. Many have rightly pointed to the collapse of moral standards and an attitude of exaggerated tolerance as conditions which invite crime where they do not cause it.

In this debate there is one trend of thinking which itself might give cause for concern: the assertion that the present crime wave is due to too much freedom and excessive concern with individual rights.

Our nation was founded on a love of freedom and individual rights. There can never be too much of either, so long as both are properly understood.

One of the great tragedies of our time is that the very ideas of freedom and rights are so badly misunderstood by so many.

Far from being a license to crime, freedom and rights properly understood are the great barriers to crime. If freedom as an objective value and individual rights as part of natural law, you do not violate the rights of others any more than you allow others to violate your rights. You support every step government takes to protect citizens in the full enjoyment of their freedom and their rights.

Communists may not encourage any other crimes except their own. Criminals may not be friendly to Communism at all, but wherever there is a failure of law and order Communists like the atmosphere created and move in.

DA NANG Airbase, South Viet Nam (AP) — "It's the only war we've got."

That was the laconic reply of Capt. John O. Edelblute of Crown Point, Ind., when asked why he had volunteered for a third tour of duty in the Far East.

"I'm a career officer. This is my life. I'm a fighter pilot."

At 33, the captain is the oldest of four bachelors among the 25 pilots in the 615th Tactical Fighter Squadron. The squadron commander, Maj. James A. Minish, 36, of Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., says he is "one of the very best."

Edelblute's hot seat in the sky is an F100 all-purpose fighter plane which attacks its targets at a speed ranging between 400 to 600 knots. When he winds up his present duty tour June 1, he will have completed about 100 sorties and dropped or shot up to 250 tons of bombs, rockets and bullets at the enemy.

"I hope I'll get 30 days leave," he said. "I've got a new car at England Air Force Base in Louisiana waiting for me, and I'd like to catch up on my bass fishing.

"Then, if they want me to come back here for fourth tour, I'll pack my bag and come back."

Edelblute stands an inch over 6 feet, has brown hair and blue eyes, and is sturdily handsome. He has sweated off 20 pounds under the grind of heat and long hours.

He has had two bad blows to his spirit. His mother and father were killed in an automobile accident last April, and on a recent attack on a northern flak site his wingman disappeared.

"We don't know what happened to him. We never heard of him again."

As do most capable people, "Blute" speaks of his work with a straightforward matter of factness. He has flown every type of mission, day and night, and minimizes the three hits the enemy has made on his plane.

"I know I've got some flak sites," he said. "And I know I've missed at least one bridge.

"But it takes only from 30 to 50 seconds from the time you roll in toward your target until you start to pull out.

"When you're making a pass, you only have time to think about your airplane, your sight and that target. As soon as you release your bombs, you pull out and get out. Somebody else can tell you later where you've hit.

"You're likely to be knocked down if you go back for a look yourself."

Some days he flies one mission. Some days two. There always is the possibility of a sudden night air support mission to help hard - pressed ground troops. Edelblute sleeps on the base. His only relaxation is a weekly trip into town to eat at a Chinese restaurant. He likes corn soup with crab.

This is how he feels about what he is doing:

"I just want the people back home to know that we are really in a war. This is not just a game over here.

"The work we have done is positive. I feel it is having its effect."

"Blute" takes quite a lot of kidding about his bachelor status.

He explains it this way: "The girl who marries me will have to marry the Air Force, too. So far I haven't found one willing to do both, although last year I thought I had."

Any girl who does say "yes" to Capt. Edelblute can be sure of two things — she'll be wedded to a fine officer as well as a fine Air Force. You'd think our girls would be standing in line for a chance like that, wouldn't you now?

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Last year, President Johnson went to great pains to pick three highly qualified men to represent the public as directors of the Communications Satellite Corporation — George Meany of the AFL-CIO, representing labor; Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, representing the scholastic world; and Frederic G. Donner, Chairman of General Motors, representing the business world.

The President had been told that he couldn't possibly get Donner to serve, and it took some of the famous Lyndon persuasion to get him. However, the GM Chairman finally agreed.

Since then, the attendance record of the three directors picked by Johnson to represent the public has been interesting.

Donner has attended every meeting. Meany has attended almost all, having been absent while in Europe.

Clark Kerr of the University of California has attended no meetings.

—McCORMACK'S SECRET DEAL—

It will probably be denied, but gaunt, gray Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts has made a secret deal with Mississippi congressmen to help them remain in Congress. Without his help they would probably be ousted.

McCormack's secret promise to the Mississippians is one of the strange paradoxes of Congress. Publicly McCormack is for an amendment to the voting rights bill banning poll taxes. Furthermore he comes from a city whose uncompromising abolitionists damned and blasted the South in such a way as to help precipitate the Civil War.

Yet, privately, the congressman from Boston has been working hand in glove with the Mississippi segregationists and has promised to save them from losing their seats.

John will probably smite his bosom and issue an indignant denial calling Drew Pearson a liar after this is published. Nevertheless, here are his very important backstage moves.

Backstage Move No. 1 dates back to last January when the issue of seating the Mississippi congressmen first arose.

The Constitution clearly states that if state's inhabitants over 21 are prohibited from voting "the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion" to the number prevented from voting. It was quite clear that last November most of Mississippi's Negroes were prevented from voting. Furthermore, the law of 1870, by which Mississippi was readmitted to the union after the Civil War, requires that every citizen be given the right to vote.

When a group of Northern congressmen moved to prevent the Mississippi congressmen from taking their seats as Congress convened Jan. 2, Speaker McCormack led the move to seat them.

"The Speaker has asked me to introduce a motion to seat the Mississippi delegation," Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., told Rep. William Fitz Ryan, D-N.Y., "and as Majority Leader I am going to do it."

Backstage Move No. 2 came after the Democratic caucus stripped Rep. John Bell Williams, Miss., and Rep. Albert Watson, S.C., of their seniority as Democrats because they had voted for Goldwater. Despite this official vote by the Democratic party, McCormack, a leading Democrat, gave Williams full seniority in assigning office space. As a result, the Congressman from Mississippi got one of the choicest offices in the de luxe Sam Rayburn Building.

Backstage Move No. 3 is McCormack's recent secret promise to help prevent the unseating of the Mississippi congressmen.

This came about after hundreds of affidavits were collected in Mississippi attesting under oath that Negroes were disfranchised last year. Though this was known in the past, no one ever took the trouble to produce sworn affidavits proving the disfranchisement. Furthermore, Congress for the first time since New Deal Days is dominated by Northern Liberals.

In addition, some Southerners, such as the respected Phil Landrum, D-Ga., once the darling of the Conservatives, are moving over to the Liberal side. Finally, the Democratic study group has developed an effective, vote-rallying whip system which has surprised and often overwhelmed the Conservatives.

As a result, Speaker McCormack has told Mississippi congressmen that they would lose a showdown vote to keep their seats. Their only hope, he was advised, is to sidetrack the move to unseat them. And he has promised to use his own tremendous power to do so.

Ironically, it was the Democratic study group which helped give McCormack this new power he now plans to use against them.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Every official who has been sent on an inspection trip to South Viet Nam has reported back that U.S., morale is high. The jungle - fighting special forces have shown a discouraging reluctance, however, to patrol the jungle at night or to endure the hardships that the Viet Cong are willing to accept. . . With Charlie Murphy of the Agriculture Department now Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and Bob Murphy already vice chairman, the problem of names on the CAB is going to become as complicated as the traffic problem over La Guardia Airport.

Inside Labor

American Seamen Jobless, While Japanese Sailors, Manning U. S. Craft, Slow Supply Runs to Viet Nam.

NEW YORK: -- A tense pre-dawn, trans-Pacific telephone call from Yokohama early Sunday, May 16, dramatized a logistic problem haunting our military in the Orient, and especially South Viet Nam.

The call came from the National Maritime Union's (NMU) representative in Japan. His message relayed the grim news to NMU leader Joe Curran that the U. S. movement of vital ammunition and heavy equipment was being slowed by tactics of the huge Japanese labor federation known as SOHYO, and by seamen on Okinawa.

This 454-square-mile Ryukyu island is America's chief military base in the Far East. Several times Japanese and Ryukyu seamen have refused to sign on American LSTs or have actually vetoed the loading of ammunition on ships bound for South Viet Nam.

For months now the All-Japanese Seamen's Union has discouraged its members from signing on the 17 LSTs which run from Japan to Okinawa and then on to South Viet Nam. The U. S. supply lines have therefore been clogged because it has been American policy to give well-paying jobs to as many Japanese workers as possible.

For the LST run, the Military Sea Transportation Service has hired over 800 Japanese sailors. They've been hard to find because of SOHYO's opposition.

But this is just the beginning of the harassment of American supply specialists. The Japanese government is insisting that the U. S. first move troops, stationed in Japan, to Okinawa before they and their equipment can be sped to South Viet Nam.

Thus, smooth operation in the Okinawan port -- and capital -- Naha -- is vital. But there ships' crews have refused to take on ammunition for the American soldiers in South Viet Nam. Some of the island's longshoremen, who have demonstrated against the U. S. during past May Day celebrations, have also refused to handle ammunition.

When the military threatened to dismiss the balky longshoremen, a threat of a general strike developed. The men said the ammunition was too dangerous.

But then came the afternoon of Saturday, May 15. They refused to load a huge crane and other equipment aboard the American LST 531. Some of the crew reportedly refused to handle the equipment, though not even a firecracker was on the docks or in the cargo.

Word was sped to Jim Patterson, the NMU's man in Yokohama. He flashed the news to big Joe Curran here. What had angered Curran is the Military Sea Transportation Service's policy of hiring Japanese, many unskilled, while several hundred NMU members are jobless "on the beach" in Japan.

Furthermore, Curran points out, there are over 10,000 unemployed seamen here in the states. Virtually all of them are fine sailors and have the precious Coast Guard security clearance.

"We have these thousands of American sailors willing to work the ships and run into danger to help the young fighting men in Viet Nam," Joe Curran said after receiving the trans-Pacific call. "We're fighting for freedom and we should count on our own people, our own citizens, not the untested, unskilled and politicalized Japanese who obviously aren't that nation's best seamen."

Curran and his colleagues point to the wild demonstrations which the left wing of Japanese labor has organized against the U.S. On April 26, SOHYO, which is the base of the ultra Leftist Socialist Party, helped put 25,000 rioters into Tokyo's streets to shout against our policy in Viet Nam, our docking of atomic subs in Japan and for the return of Okinawa to Japan.

Also though not publicized, there is a SOHYO letter in the files of the AFL-CIO, of which Curran is a national vice president. In this communication, SOHYO, many of whose people are raising relief for North Viet Nam, praises what it calls the workers' peace, happiness and freedom in Russia. This letter also attacks America's involvement in Viet Nam.

There is obvious substance to Curran's anger and demand that we rush American seamen to the Orient to keep the vital ships sailing. For our men in Okinawa "is is a life line indeed.

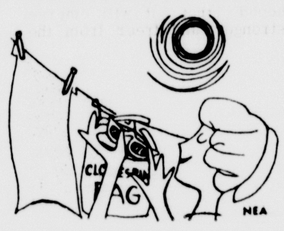
DEAR POLLY—Perhaps some of the readers can help me. Some of my sheets and white blouses have red crayon marks on them. I do not know how the crayon got in the washer as I usually check all the pockets before doing the laundry. How can I remove these stains? The crayon went into the dryer and even stained the door of my dryer. Are my clothes ruined?—MRS. C. W. L.

Indeed we do hope your clothes are not ruined. Betty, my right hand helper, had the same problem not too long ago but with colored clothes. She just kept washing them after rubbing turpentine into the crayon marks. To clean the crayon out of the dryer her husband used shellac thinner on the inside and then washed it out thoroughly. I do hope the same procedure will help you, Mrs. C. W. L.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I keep a pair of sun glasses in my clothespin bag. They provide protection from the blinding glare on either snowy or sunny days when I hang the wash outside.—LILLYE



DEAR POLLY — Before laundering my husband's white wash and dress shirts I pretreat the heavily soiled spots, such as cuffs and collars, by gently rubbing with a piece of soapy nylon net. —MRS. L. H.

DEAR POLLY—I used the good hint Grace gave for winding yarn around a drinking straw until I came up with what I think an even better idea. I use the core from a roll of waxed paper. The larger center area prevents the yarn from binding as it sometimes does with the smaller drinking straw for a core. If you wind the yarn in a figure eight pattern, your yarn will hold more securely throughout the entire use of the ball.—LUCILE

DEAR POLLY—For so long I was not able to keep my 45-rpm record player free of dust but now I cover it with a plastic rain bonnet and it stays in better condition. I removed the ties from the bonnet, opened it out and spread it over the player.—MARGE

Polly's Pointers

Rout Crayon Stains

by Polly Cramer, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Polly

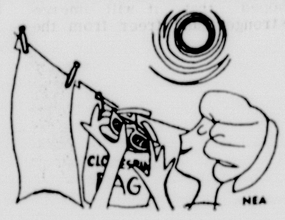
DEAR POLLY—Protect the floor of your station wagon with a piece of linoleum. This is also easy to keep clean.

When you need an extra hot dish mat, cover a magazine with aluminum foil. It serves the purpose quite well.—MARGARET

DEAR POLLY—Perhaps some of the readers can help me. Some of my sheets and white blouses have red crayon marks on them. I do not know how the crayon got in the washer as I usually check all the pockets before doing the laundry. How can I remove these stains? The crayon went into the dryer and even stained the door of my drver. Are my clothes ruined?—MRS. C. W. L.

Indeed we do hope your clothes are not ruined. Betty, my right hand helper, had the same problem not too long ago but with colored clothes. She just kept washing them after rubbing turpentine into the crayon marks. To clean the crayon out of the dryer her husband used shellac thinner on the inside and then washed it out thoroughly. I do hope the same procedure will help you, Mrs. C. W. L.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I keep a pair of sun glasses in my clothespin bag. They provide protection from the blinding glare on either snowy or sunny days when I hang the wash outside.—LILLYE



DEAR POLLY — Before laundering my husband's white wash and dress shirts I pretreat the heavily soiled spots, such as cuffs and collars, by gently rubbing with a piece of soapy nylon net. —MRS. L. H.

DEAR POLLY—I used the good hint Grace gave for winding yarn around a drinking straw until I came up with what I think an even better idea. I use the core from a roll of waxed paper. The larger center area prevents the yarn from binding as it sometimes does with the smaller drinking straw for a core. If you wind the yarn in a figure eight pattern, your yarn will hold more securely throughout the entire use of the ball.—LUCILE

DEAR POLLY—For so long I was not able to keep my 45-rpm record player free of dust but now I cover it with a plastic rain bonnet and it stays in better condition. I removed the ties from the bonnet, opened it out and spread it over the player.—MARGE

Share your favorite homemaking ideas . . and send them to Polly in care of The Daily Sikeston Standard. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your idea in Polly's Pointers.

If you start these in peat pots, in a sunny window, and plant a light bamboo stake in each when you plant the seed, the vines will have support as they grow. When frost time is past, the pots and all may be set in the garden where you want blooms. If by any chance there is an especially early flower, you can enjoy it in the house.

In later years, school drop-outs can seldom rise to the occasion.

Mrs. Harmon Gives Program

ORAN -- Mrs. Fred Harmon presented a program on expressing missionary concern in the home Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Baptist WMU.

The women voted to give a "kitchen shower" as their May community project and to assist the daily vacation Bible School. The meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. Dean Hancy.

Semo Gives Athletic Awards

Cape College made it's top awards to Southeast Missouri State College Athletes in all sports at a banquet Monday, sponsored by the Cape Girardeau Boosters Club.

Winner of the Goddard Award for the football limeman most typifying the highest in athletic ability, citizenship and leadership was Otto Privette, senior guard from Yuma, Arizona. Privette, along with guard Joe Critchlow of Sikeston, was an honorary co-captain on the team.

Privette was also the winner of one of the Vogelsang Memorial Awards, as the outstanding lineman in football. Junior Quarterback Irvin Whitehead of Charleston was given the Vogelsang Award as outstanding back, while Mike Gross, Maplewood senior, was given the outstanding basketball player award.

Whitehead Of Charleston

Irving Whitehead was an outstanding player during his career at Charleston High School. He is probably one of the finest players to come out of that school in recent years.

As a Junior, Whitehead was selected to the second team, of the now defunct Big 8 Conference. He led Charleston to a third place finish in the Big 8 that season.

The highlight of the 1961-62 season for Whitehead and the Jays was their 20 to 0 smashing of Cape Central. Central had a much larger team, but the up and coming Jays sent them home with a sound thrashing.

Sikeston and Charleston were then tied for the Big 8 lead and were all set for a show down tilt, that would give the nod to the winner of the conference crown.

Sikeston was led by a backfield that had to be one of the finest in Bulldog history. Largent led the dogs at the quarterback position, flanked by Norman Dockins and Rocky Sapp at halfbacks and a powerful George Woods at fullback.

Charleston not to be out done had some fine backs to go with their star, Irving Whitehead. The biggest Bluejay threat was not Whitehead, but a couple of thundering backs, Williams and Hess. Williams led the Big 8 in scoring that season, with a total of 80 points, Hess scored 61.

Sikeston came out on top of the nights action 14 to 13, in one of the finest played, hardest fought games of the mighty Charleston-Sikeston rivalry.

Whitehead received a scholarship to Murray State College, where he was used as a linebacker. He transferred to Cape and is now their star Back.

Nicklaus Has Problems

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — There is little Jack Nicklaus has not done in his four years as a professional golfer, but he's finally run into a course that gives him nightmares.

"I hope I'm getting all this out of my system today," Nicklaus said as he shot a miserable round in the pro-am of the $60,000 Memphis Open Wednesday.

"There is just no reason for this," he said after he missed one of many two-foot putts. "I've seen beginners play better than this."

Despite the round and the fact that he's never played well on the short, par 70 Colonial Country Club course, Nicklaus was installed the favorite to take the $9,000 first-place money.

In the pro-am, Nicklaus shot a 43 on the par 34 front nine but was two-under par with a 34 on the par 36 backside.

A field of 144 was set to tee off today in the Memphis Open.

The 6,466-yard course has whipped Nicklaus both times he's played in the Memphis Open. He finished 11th in 1963 and tied for 12th in 1964.

Also attracting a lot of attention Wednesday was defending champion Mike Souchak and young Bill Martindale, who finished in a tie for second Sunday in the $100,000 New Orleans Open.

Big Eight Baseball
By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

An unpredictable Big Eight baseball race comes to a close Friday and Saturday with four teams still mathematically in the title race and with almost every individual and team honor still up for grabs.

Missouri 12-5, Nebrasks 11-5, Oklahoma State 11-7 and Iowa State 10-7 are the four teams that still have a chance for the pennant.

In the batting race, Kansas State's Stu Steele has a one-point edge over defending champ Steve McGreevy of Kansas, .440 to .439, with three others over .400. They are Bob Robben of Missouri .415, Dan Rudanovich of Missouri .404 and Tony Sellari of OSU .403.

Oklahoma State's Dick Frank jumped into the No. 1 spot in pitching with a 1.51 earned run average. Tim Van Galder of Iowa State is second at 1.53, teammate Bob Ziegler at 1.62 is third. Then come three Nebraska pitchers--Stan Bahnsen 1.71, Bob Hergenrader 2.07 and Gary Niebauer 2.12--and Colorado's Adrian Mohr 2.68.

Frank had the season one-game high of six runs batted in against Iowa State with a grand slam homer and two-run double.

The versatile Mohr is playing four positions at Colorado and leads the club in hits, RBI, total bases, homers, earned run average, victories, strikeouts and innings pitched.

The consistent McGreevy needs just four hits to get a Big Eight one-season record of 33 hits. He shares the record with two men. While Robben Steele, OSU's Tony Stark and others flirted with .500 - or-better and slumped, McGreevy has stayed over .400.

But no one has a shot at the conference record of .593 by Dan Reilly of Missouri in 1960. Oklahoma's Carl Schreiner still leads with five homers, but Robben leads the league with 20 RBI and a .738 slugging average.

McGreevy's eight doubles leads the league and Iowa State's Jerry Retzlaff is on top with 10 stolen bases.

Steve Renko of Kansas is the strikeout leader, with 1.59 per inning, and Oklahoma's Allen Gott has the best control mark, 1.63 on seven walks in 43 innings.

Missouri leads the league in almost every offensive category including team batting at .306, runs scored 120, hits 159 and homers 31. Nebraska has permitted just 41 runs, 34 earned for a 2.61 staff ERA. Iowa State has given up 60, only 32 earned for a 2.25 staff ERA.

The closing series find Missouri at Iowa State; OSU at Colorado, 7 - 9; Nebraska at Kansas, 8-10; and K-State, 4-12, at Oklahoma, 5-13. Doubleheaders are set for Friday, single games Saturday in every series except that at Iowa State, where it's the reverse.

St. Louis Downs Phils With 9th Inning Rally, Gibson Pitches Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was excitement inside and outside Busch stadium at St. Louis Wednesday night--the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 in a furious ninth inning rally and two bandits held up a Busch stadium ticket office.

Dick Groat singled with two out in the ninth to send the winning run across after Ken Boyer had tied the score with a sacrifice fly.

Curt Flood and Lou Brock started the rally with singles after one man was out. Brock stole second and Mike Shannon walked. Then, Boyer flew out to the outfield and Flood scored the tying run.

Tony Gonzales and Johnny Callison hit home runs for the Phillies and Tim McCarver and Phil Gagliano countered with homers for St. Louis. Gagliano's homer was a pinch hit effort.

One of the bandits who took an undetermined amount of money from a stadium ticket office fired a shot in the air as he fled. The bullet came down inside the ball park grazing the neck of Carolyn Yount, 13. The spent bullet fell into her blouse. She was treated for the superficial wound at the stadium box office.

Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yount of Jennings, Mo., a St. Louis suburb, said she at first thought a ball had hit her.

Chris Short 4-3 starts for the Phillies tonight in their final game of the series at St. Louis. Bob Gibson 7-0 will pitch for the Cardinals.

Kansas City ended a Chicago White Sox nine game winning streak Wednesday night at Kansas City as the Athletics defeated Chicago, 7-3.

John Blanchard and Jim Bryan hit home runs in the second inning for Kansas City.

John O'Donoghue allowed four Chicago hits as he picked up his first victory since April 15. O'Donoghue retired 18 hitters in a row before Smoky Burgess homered for Chicago in the eighth inning.

Kansas City is idle today.

OFF AND HITTING—Harmon Killebrew, left, of the Minnesota Twins and Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves, known best for their power, are among the early batting leaders in the American and National Leagues.

Talented Field To Take Part In Federation Track Meet

KANSAS CITY (AP) — At lease five gold medal winners at the Big Eight track championships at Lincoln, Neb., will take part in the 3rd annual Midwest Track and Field Federation meet Saturday night at Shawnee Mission North stadium.

Four Arkansas Athletes and five from Wichita's Missouri Valley runners-up team also have entered the meet. A large group of high school standouts from Missouri and Kansas also have entered.

Entries have been received from Robin Lingle of Missouri, king of Big Eight milers the past two years; Kansas State's Bill Floerke, national javelin leader this season at 266-5½ and Big Eight champ at 246-7; Gary Schwartz of Kansas, winner of the discus at 170-9 at Lincoln; Steve Herndon of Missouri, high jump winner at 6-8¼, a scant one-fourth inch off the meet record; and Glenn Martin of Kansas, triple jump champion at 48-10¼, at Lincoln.

In addition, entries have been received from 38 place winners at the Big Eight meet. John Lawson of Kansas, who set a Big Eight three-mile record of 14:09.6, wasn't present when Coach Bill Easton filled out the Kansas entry. However, Reaves Peters, former Big Eight executive director and president of the Missouri Federation, said he was confident Lawson would enter.

Jim Mace, an outstanding hurdler and jumper, Barry Bearden, a 15-7 pole vaulter, and Ed Renfrow, with the high hurdles best of 13.9, are the best in the Arkansas group.

Cal Elmore, Missouri Valley conference mile champion, heads the Wichita group.

Freshmen and transfers will be eligible for the meet. In this group are Gene McClain of Kansas, a 4:10 miler and a 1:52 half miler, Terry Tompson, Missouri.

Jim Ryun of Wichita, Kan., East High, national mile prep record holder with an amazing 3:58.3, probably will skip the meet to prepare for three big AAU meets coming up on the West Coast. If Ryun does make the trip, he'll probably limit himself to the half mile.

The Midwest federation will help Kansas, K-State and Missouri prepare for the National Federation meet June 11-12 and the NCAA championships June 17-19. Oklahoma and Oklahoma State will compete Saturday in the Oklahoma Federation meet at Norman. Colorado will be in the Colorado State Invitational.

Because of NCAA boycott against AAU events, Big Eight athletes will pass up the Missouri Valley AAU meet Saturday at Washburn in Topeka, Kan. Last year the two meets also were held the same night, the Big Eight athletes split between the two and AAU marks were a little better.

The Missouri Valley meet will draw strong delegates from NAIA schools, the Topeka Cosmos, other AAU groups and high schools.

Congressmen Want Third League Formed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six congressmen, two each from New York, Texas and Wisconsin, have proposed that four more cities be granted major league franchises and that baseball be reorganized into three eight-team leagues.

The request came Wednesday in the form of a letter to Commissioner Ford C. Frick, National League President Warren Giles, American League President Joe Cronin and the 20 big league owners.

Signing the letters were Reps. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.; Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y.; Earle Cabell, D-Tex.; James C. Wright, D-Tex.; Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Clement Zablocki, D-Wis.

They suggested the granting of franchises to Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Milwaukee and a fourth city ready to qualify. The teams would be organized in time for the 1966 season and be distributed among three eight-team leagues.

In New York, Frick said he had received the letter, but would not comment until he had answered it.

Buffalo has an International League franchise. Dallas-Fort Worth plays in the Texas League. The Milwaukee Braves of the National League will move to Atlanta for the 1966 season, leaving Milwaukee without a team.

School Boy Hopes To Tour Russia With U.S. Team

By JOE MCKNIGHT

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The barefoot youngster in gym shorts walked like a tenderfoot, complaining about gravel as he headed for a tool shed to talk.

The same feet which carried Jim Ryun to a 3:58.3 mile, fastest ever by a school boy, were not quite tough enough for the small rocks in a cement walk outside the field house at East High.

"I tried to be on the pace all the way," the lanky 18-year-old high school senior said of last Saturday performance in the Kansas high school track meet. "I was a little off on the second and third laps but I picked up on the last one."

The national high school mark of 4:06 was set last year by Gary Lindgren of Spokane, Wash. Ryun's time must be certified by the National High School Activities Association, which meets this summer.

Ryun says he doesn't have much time for dates. He attends services at a Church of Christ here three times a week.

The 6-foot, 1-inch youth plans to run in three invitational meets in California in the next month — at Modesto, Compton, and the Golden West meet at Sacramento.

"It would be nice to go to Russia for the United States-Russian dual," he said, "but you have to place in the top two spots in the National AAU to get that trip. I don't know whether I can do that."

Ryun admitted that constant training gets to be a grind in winter months, but snow and ice don't stop his morning workouts.

"In the spring and summer I'm running in competition, and I get to travel," he said. "Then I know it's worthwhile."

His school classes includes physics, psychology and drafting. He hasn't thought much about the future, but said "I might study engineering or for a coaching career. I don't know yet.

"Right now I'm able to keep up with the school work. I make A's and B's in my grades, mostly B's."

He will graduate May 31 and plans to enroll at the University of Kansas where his old high school mentor, Bob Timmons, was recently named head track coach.

Q—Who was the first Negro governor appointed by a U.S. president?

Semo Gives Athletic Awards

Cape College made it's top awards to Southeast Missouri State College Athletes in all sports at a banquet Monday, sponsored by the Cape Girardeau Boosters Club.

Winner of the Goddard Award for the football lineman most typifying the highest in athletic ability, citizenship and leadership was Otto Privette, senior guard from Yuma, Arizona. Privette, along with guard Joe Critchlow of Sikeston, was an honorary co-captain on the team.

Privette was also the winner of one of the Vogelsang Memorial Awards, as the outstanding lineman in football. Junior Quarterback Irvin Whitehead of Charleston was given the Vogelsang Award as outstanding back, while Mike Gross, Maplewood senior, was given the outstanding basketball player award.

Whitehead Of Charleston

Irving Whitehead was an outstanding player during his career at Charleston High School. He is probably one of the finest players to come out of that school in recent years.

As a Junior, Whitehead was selected to the second team, of the now defunct Big 8 Conference. He led Charleston to a third place finish in the Big 8 that season.

The highlight of the 1961-62 season for Whitehead and the Jays was their 20 to 0 smashing of Cape Central. Central had a much larger team, but the up and coming Jays sent them home with a sound thrashing.

Sikeston and Charleston were then tied for the Big 8 lead and were all set for a show down tilt, that would give the nod to the winner of the conference crown.

Sikeston was led by a backfield that had to be one of the finest in Bulldog history. Largent led the dogs at the quarterback position, flanked by Norman Dockins and Rocky Sapp at halfbacks and a powerful George Woods at fullback.

Charleston not to be out done had some fine backs to go with their star, Irving Whitehead. The biggest Bluejay threat was not Whitehead, but a couple of thundering backs, Williams and Hess. Williams led the Big 8 in scoring that season, with a total of 80 points, Hess scored 61.

Sikeston came out on top of the nights action 14 to 13, in one of the finest played, hardest fought games of the mighty Charleston-Sikeston rivalry.

Whitehead received a scholarship to Murray State College, where he was used as a linebacker. He transferred to Cape and is now their star Back.

Nicklaus Has Problems

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — There is little Jack Nicklaus has not done in his four years as a professional golfer, but he's finally run into a course that gives him nightmares.

"I hope I'm getting all this out of my system today," Nicklaus said as he shot a miserable round in the pro-am of the $60,000 Memphis Open Wednesday.

"There is just no reason for this," he said after he missed one of many two-foot putts. "I've seen beginners play better than this."

Despite the round and the fact that he's never played well on the short, par 70 Colonial Country Club course, Nicklaus was installed the favorite to take the $9,000 first-place money.

In the pro-am, Nicklaus shot a 43 on the par 34 front nine but was two-under par with a 34 on the par 36 backside.

A field of 144 was set to tee off today in the Memphis Open.

The 6,466-yard course has whipped Nicklaus both times he's played in the Memphis Open. He finished 11th in 1963 and tied for 12th in 1964.

Also attracting a lot of attention Wednesday was defending champion Mike Souchak and young Bill Martindale, who finished in a tie for second Sunday in the $100,000 New Orleans Open.

St. Louis Downs Phils With 9th Inning Rally, Gibson Pitches Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was excitement inside and outside Busch stadium at St. Louis Wednesday night--the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 in a furious ninth inning rally and two bandits held up a Busch stadium ticket office.

Dick Groat singled with two out in the ninth to send the winning run across after Ken Boyer had tied the score with a sacrifice fly.

Curt Flood and Lou Brock started the rally with singles after one man was out. Brock stole second and Mike Shannon walked. Then, Boyer flew out to the outfield and Flood scored the tying run.

Tony Gonzales and Johnny Callison hit home runs for the Phillies and Tim McCarver and Phil Gagliano countered with homers for St. Louis. Gagliano's homer was a pinch hit effort.

One of the bandits who took an undertermined amount of money from a stadium ticket office fired a shot in the air as he fled. The bullet came down inside the ball park grazing the neck of Carolyn Yount, 13. The spent bullet fell into her blouse. She was treated for the superficial wound at the stadium box office.

Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yount of Jennings, Mo., a St. Louis suburb, said she at first thought a ball had hit her.

Chris Short 4-3 starts for the Phillies tonight in their final game of the series at St. Louis. Bob Gibson 7-0 will pitch for the Cardinals.

Kansas City ended a Chicago White Sox nine game winning streak Wednesday night at Kansas City as the Athletics defeated Chicago, 7-3.

John Blanchard and Jim Bryan hit home runs in the second inning for Kansas City.

John O'Donoghue allowed four Chicago hits as he picked up his first victory since April 15. O'Donoghue retired 18 hitters in a row before Smoky Burgess homered for Chicago in the eighth inning.

Kansas City is idle today.

OFF AND HITTING—Harmon Killebrew, left, of the Minnesota Twins and Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves, known best for their power, are among the early batting leaders in the American and National Leagues.

Talented Field To Take Part In Federation Track Meet

KANSAS CITY (AP) — At lease five gold medal winners at the Big Eight track championships at Lincoln, Neb., will take part in the 3rd annual Midwest Track and Field Federation meet Saturday night at Shawnee Mission North stadium.

Four Arkansas Athletes and five from Wichita's Missouri Valley runners-up team also have entered the meet. A large group of high school standouts from Missouri and Kansas also have entered.

Entries have been received from Robin Lingle of Missouri, king of Big Eight milers the past two years; Kansas State's Bill Floerke, national javelin leader this season at 266-5½ and Big Eight champ at 246-7; Gary Schwartz of Kansas, winner of the discus at 170-9 at Lincoln; Steve Herndon of Missouri, high jump winner at 6-8¼, a scant one-fourth inch off the meet record; and Glenn Martin of Kansas, triple jump champion at 48-10¼ at Lincoln.

In addition, entries have been received from 38 place winners at the Big Eight meet. John Lawson of Kansas, who set a Big Eight three-mile record of 14:09.6, wasn't present when Coach Bill Easton filled out the Kansas entry. However, Reaves Peters, former Big Eight executive director and president of the Missouri Federation, said he was confident Lawson would enter.

Jim Mace, an outstanding hurdler and jumper, Barry Bearden, a 15-7 pole vaulter, and Ed Renfrow, with the high hurdles best of 13.9, are the best in the Arkansas group.

Cal Elmore, Missouri Valley conference mile champion, heads the Wichita group.

Freshmen and transfers will be eligible for the meet. In this group are Gene McClain of Kansas, a 4:10 miler and a 1:52 half miler, Terry Tompson, Missouri.

Jim Ryun of Wichita, Kan., East High, national mile prep record holder with an amazing 3:58.3, probably will skip the meet to prepare for three big AAU meets coming up on the West Coast. If Ryun does make the trip, he'll probably limit himself to the half mile.

The Midwest federation will help Kansas, K-State and Missouri prepare for the National Federation meet June 11-12 and the NCAA championships June 17-19. Oklahoma and Oklahoma State will compete Saturday in the Oklahoma Federation meet at Norman. Colorado will be in the Colorado State Invitational.

Because of NCAA boycott against AAU events, Big Eight athletes will pass up the Missouri Valley AAU meet Saturday at Washburn in Topeka, Kan. Last year the two meets also were held the same night, the Big Eight athletes split between the two and AAU marks were a little better.

The Missouri Valley meet will draw strong delegates from NAIA schools, the Topeka Cosmos, other AAU groups and high schools.

Congressmen Want Third League Formed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six congressmen, two each from New York, Texas and Wisconsin, have proposed that four more cities be granted major league franchises and that baseball be reorganized into three eight-team leagues.

The request came Wednesday in the form of a letter to Commissioner Ford C. Frick, National League President Warren Giles, American League President Joe Cronin and the 20 big league owners.

Signing the letters were Reps. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.; Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y.; Earle Cabell, D-Tex.; James C. Wright, D-Tex.; Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Clement Zablocki, D-Wis.

They suggested the granting of franchises to Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Milwaukee and a fourth city ready to qualify. The teams would be organized in time for the 1966 season and be distributed among three eight-team leagues.

In New York, Frick said he had received the letter, but would not comment until he had answered it.

Buffalo has an International League franchise. Dallas-Fort Worth plays in the Texas League. The Milwaukee Braves of the National League will move to Atlanta for the 1966 season, leaving Milwaukee without a team.

School Boy Hopes To Tour Russia With U.S. Team

By JOE MCKNIGHT

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The barefoot youngster in gym shorts walked like a tenderfoot, complaining about gravel as he headed for a tool shed to talk.

The same feet which carried Jim Ryun to a 3:58.3 mile, fastest ever by a school boy, were not quite tough enough for the small rocks in a cement walk outside the field house at East High.

"I tried to be on the pace all the way," the lanky 18-year-old high school senior said of last Saturday performance in the Kansas high school track meet. "I was a little off on the second and third laps but I picked up on the last one."

The national high school mark of 4:06 was set last year by Gary Lindgren of Spokane, Wash. Ryun's time must be certified by the National High School Activities Association, which meets this summer.

Ryun says he doesn't have much time for dates. He attends services at a Church of Christ here three times a week.

The 6-foot, 1-inch youth plans to run in three invitational meets in California in the next month — at Modesto, Compton, and the Golden West meet at Sacramento.

"It would be nice to go to Russia for the United States-Russian dual," he said, "but you have to place in the top two spots in the National AAU to get that trip. I don't know whether I can do that."

Ryun admitted that constant training gets to be a grind in winter months, but snow and ice don't stop his morning workouts.

"In the spring and summer I'm running in competition, and I get to travel," he said. "Then I know it's worthwhile."

His school classes includes physics, psychology and drafting. He hasn't thought much about the future, but said "I might study engineering or for a coaching career. I don't know yet.

"Right now I'm able to keep up with the school work. I make A's and B's in my grades, mostly B's."

He will graduate May 31 and plans to enroll at the University of Kansas where his old high school mentor, Bob Timmons, was recently named head track coach.

Q—Who was the first Negro governor appointed by a U.S. president?

A—William Henry Hastie appointed by President Harry Truman in 1946 as governor of the Virgin Islands.

Woolworth Plans Expansion In Department Store Field

F. W. Woolworth President Burcham Tells Analysts Company Will Also Expand Its Variety Chain

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 -- F. W. Woolworth Company's fast-growing Woolco Department Stores division is anticipating a three-fold increase in sales by 1967, Lester A. Burcham, president of the world's largest variety chain, said today.

Addressing a retailing forum at the annual meeting of The National Federation of Financial Analysts here, Mr. Burcham said the company's Woolco Division now operates 17 full-line department stores in the United States and Canada and will open "at least 26 more" by the end of next year.

"The Woolco Division is now selling at the rate of $100,000,000 a year," he said. "We expect this to triple by 1967."

At the same time Woolworth is pushing ahead vigorously with a program to strengthen its position of leadership in the variety store field, Mr. Burcham commented.

In the past ten years, he pointed out, Woolworth enlarged 509 variety stores, opened 894 new stores, about 750 of which are located in shopping centers, and closed 632 unprofitable outlets. The emphasis today, he said, is on large "dominant" variety stores that "represent the ultimate in efficiency, appearance and upgraded merchandise."

'WORLD'S LARGEST'

As an example he cited "the world's largest variety store," a three-story Woolworth unit of 174,000 square feet which was opened two years ago in Denver, Colo. He noted that six additional "big" stores were opened last year -- four in the United States (in Burlington, Vt., Greenwich, Conn., Scottsbluff, Neb. and Hayward, Calif.) and two in Canada (in Medicine Hat, Alta. and Saskatoon, Sask.). Twenty-eight more are scheduled for completion in 1965, he said, including ten existing variety stores that are being updated and enlarged "to achieve dominance in their areas."

Mr. Burcham observed that the company's new and upgraded "dominant" stores are generating up to five times the annual sales produced by previously existing Woolworth outlets in their areas, confirming preliminary market research studies. He said scientific market research is now a major factor in decisions to open new stores or to modernize, convert or discontinue older ones.

'ON THE MOVE'

Stressing that Woolworth is "on the move," Mr. Burcham said changes undertaken by the company since the retailing revolution of the mid-1950s have placed the huge chain "in the strongest position we have ever enjoyed, despite the intense competition that surrounds us."

In addition to entering the department store field through its Woolco Division and expanding its variety store operations, Woolworth is now firmly established in the retail shoe industry, he explained. He remarked that Woolworth's recently acquired Kinney Shoe Corporation subsidiary last year opened a new air-conditioned, humidity-controlled factory in Palmyra, Pa. and also opened 39 new stores in preferred locations while closing 16 unprofitable units. Kinney now operates 610 retail shoe stores, he commented, and "further expansion is planned." He added that "our acquisition department is very much on the lookout for operations of equal promise."

Expansion has also been the order of the day in the company's food-service operation, Mr. Burcham said.

"We now have restaurants in nearly 2,000 stores in the United States and Canada," he told the analysts, "and they serve one million customers a day. We also operate 15 'Harvest House' restaurants and cafeterias, separate and apart from our stores."

CONSUMER TRENDS

The Woolworth president emphasized that the company is carefully charting consumer shopping trends and future population changes. He said the present $11 billion teen-age market will almost double in the next ten years, and that other key age groups also bear watching, particularly the "young middle age" group which includes Americans from 25 through 34. Not only does this group spend heavily on home furnishings, appliances, housewares and other merchandise, he noted, but it represents "the fastest-growing segment of our adult market."

Consumers of all age groups are more sophisticated, informed and quality-conscious than ever before, he added, "and we don't intend to overlook any of them."

ADVERTISING 'GIANT'

As an example of the changes that have taken place in Woolworth management's thinking in the past ten years, Mr. Burcham observed that "before the retailing revolution, we carried practically no advertising. Today we are among the giants in retail advertising. Our 1965 advertising budget includes provision for 45,000,000 lines of newspaper space."

Representative Makes Recommendation For Short Speeches

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — A state representative has proposed that any member of the House who speaks longer than three minutes be "shot, stuffed and displayed in a glass case in the state museum."

The order, filed Wednesday by Rep. James S. Erwin, also stipulated that this legend be hung around the neck of such executed legislators:

"Here I am, fore'er enshrined, my mouth is open, my teeth are shined: my colleagues' treatment less than kind,

"I talked them all deaf, dumb and blind."

The proposal was cheerfully killed as soon as it was read.

Woman Wants To Sail On Ocean

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I just want to be alone for a while on the ocean," says a trim divorcee who hopes to become the first woman to sail alone to Hawaii.

Sharon Sites, 34, plans to begin the 2,225-mile voyage June 12 although she started taking sailing lessons only three months ago.

Her only company will be Sarah Beth-Ann, a pet turtle.

Mrs. Sites won't have a radio or any other electronic gear aboard her 25-foot sloop "Sea Sharp."

"I don't really need one," she said, "and I don't particularly want to talk to anyone."

Water And Mud Fight Injures Four

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Four students at Washington University were injured Wednesday night during an hour-long water and mud fight.

About 300 students took part in the melee on the campus.

Injured were Daniel Schifeling, 18; William Sample, 18; Miss Donna Goldman, 18, and Lewis Jay Stein, 18.

Schifeling dislocated a shoulder when he fell. Sample slipped after he was doused with water and broke an ankle. Stein was hit by a car while watching the battle. Miss Goldman's eye was injured by a mud ball.

Stein told police the car which hit him left the scene.

Hearnes Makes Point With Senate

JEFFERCON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes won a point with Senate committees Wednesday but another administration bill was deferred.

The Roads and Highways Committee approved a bill to raise the number of highway commissioners from four to six, without specifying the residence of the new commissioners. It already has passed the House.

Hearnes campaigned on the promise to increase the size of the commission and appoint one new member from the St. Louis metropolitan area and one from the Kansas City area.

Another administration measure to make the state sales tax a gross receipts tax to plug a $6 million gap in the present law was laid over by the Ways and Means Committee to give opponents a chance to testify next week.

Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, the sponsor, said merchants already are paying the tax on a gross receipts basis.

Also deferred was a bill to change the sales tax bracket system so the tax would start at 15 cents instead of 25 cents.

Robert Crawford, spokesman for the Missouri Retailers Association, said the present system is costing merchants $10.6 million a year.

House Left Unguarded House Torn Down

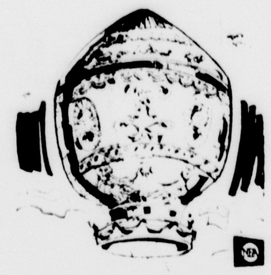
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Irving Steinman picked up the telephone and heard a man say: "Say, do you own the house at 142 S. St. Andrews?"

"Yes, I do," Steinman replied.

"Well," David D. Davis responded, "I just tore it down."

Davis explained he was supposed to tear down a similar house — two doors away.

Steinman said Wednesday his house was worth about $5,000, adding "I'm sure I can't get it out of the wrecker's liability insurance. This wasn't an act of God, it was an act of mortal man."



The possibility of using the balloon in war was envisioned from its invention in the late 18th century by the Montgolfier brothers, French paper makers. At that time, Benjamin Franklin wrote, while in Paris: "It (the balloon) may be sufficient for certain purposes, such as elevating an engineer to take a view of an enemy's army."

3. Rivalling the pomp and pageantry of England's Royal Ascot is Canada's Queen's Plate to be run at Toronto's Woodbine race course June 26 with Queen Mother Elizabeth officiating.

Queen's Plate Reflects Regal Glamour

Toronto, Ont. -- Royalty and racing have long been synonymous and that's the way it is with Canada's Queen's Plate as it prepares for its 106th running June 26 at Woodbine race course.

Queen Victoria gave it her blessing in 1860 and this would make it North America's oldest turf classic bar none. Her purse of 50 guineas -- now paid in gold sovereigns to the value of $150 -- is hardly enough nowadays to meet one horse's annual hay bill.

But to the victor go much greater spils in this biggest event on the Canadian racing calendar which draws upwards of 30,000 vicitors. And, on hand to officiate in the presentation at this year's event will be Queen Mother Elizabeth.

It will be the fourth occasion on which a member of the Royal Family has been in attendance, with the Queen Mother accounting for three of these visits. She and her husband, George VI, visited Woodbine in 1939. Twenty years later her daughter, Elizabeth II, and Prince Philip were in the winner's enclosure for the 100th running, and the Queen Mother was here in 1962.

Her majesty will ride to the royal box in an open carriage led by members of the Governor - General's Horse Guard and attended by red-coated RCMP personnel. It will be a scene of pomp and pageantry reminiscent of England's Royal Ascot, and a day on which the local social set appears in formal finery.

Ontario's Lieutenant - Governor officiates at other Plate ceremonies when royality isn't present and the same glitter and glamour prevails.

The first Queen's Plate was run on June 27, 1860, at the Carleton Track on what is now a traffic-strangled corner in Toronto's west end. It wasn't long before the Plate became an event of enormous social importance and political prestige, and for 20 years it was staged in a variety of centers before Toronto became its permanent home.

Many a successful Kentucky Derby rider has tried to add the Queen's Plate to his string of major victories but only four have managed to turn the truck. Most recent of these was noted U.S. jockey Bill Hartack who pulled off the dual feat aboard Canadian - bred Northern Dancer, now retired to stud due to a subsequent leg injury.

The other three were Canadians Charlie Lang (1925) and J. J. Mooney (1929) and veteran Eddie Arcaro (1953).

A Plate winner can be sure he'll go home with a lot more than the queen's guineas in the traditional purple velvet bag. He wins, in addition, a $5,000 gold cup and approximately $50,000 added stakes put up by the Ontario Jockey Club.

Last year's gross purse, for example, ran to $74,075, with a cool $49,075 to the winner, $12,500 in second prize money, and $7,500 and $5,000 for third and fourth, respectively.

Three major tracks now operate in Ontario, two of these -- Woodbine and Greenwood -- are located in Toronto. Here are their schedules this season:

Fort Erie -- July 19 - Sept. 4; Greenwood -- May 10 -- June 5 and Oct. 25 - Nov. 27; Woodbine -- June 7 - July 17 and Sept. 6 - Oct. 23.

Look, Ma, No Melting!

A never-before kind of chocolate flavored ingredient for baking is now at your store. It's Nestlé's Choco-bake®, a no-melt unsweetened chocolate flavored ingredient that may be used in place of unsweetened baking chocolate or unsweetened cocoa. No more messy chocolate melting or fussy sifting and measuring for the modern cook.

Choco-bake comes eight to the box in individual plastic packets, each containing one ounce, equal to one square unsweetened chocolate or ¼ cup unsweetened cocoa. Just open the end of the individual packet and squeeze the contents directly into batter or frosting of any recipe that calls for unsweetened chocolate or unsweetened cocoa.

You'll find a recipe leaflet with 14 delicious treats in each red and white box of Choco-bake, a get-acquainted bonus you'll appreciate. All this—and no melting, too!

Foul And Eggs To Be Economical Over Week-End

Chickens, turkeys and eggs may be especially popular with bargain-hungry food shoppers this weekend - not because they're much cheapter these days but because nearly everything else is more expensive.

Beef and pork are still riding at the highest wholesale price levels in months, and in the case of some cuts, in years.

For the second week, a national supermarket chain was unable to find any beef or pork cuts for reduced prices in its New York area outlets. Pork chops went up 10 cents to $1.09 a pound.

The chain put boneless turkey roasts on special at 79 cents a pounds, however. The new roast is becoming increasingly popular.

Its California roasts at 59 cents a pound, boneless beef at 69, ribs at 79 and sirloin and porterhouse steaks at 99 were unchanged from the week before.

Eggs dropped slightly, with medium whites, for example, down 2 cents a dozen to 37.

Broiler chicken output is up again and for the year the increase is estimated at 3 to 5 per cent. Good supply may help lower prices at food markets.

Lamb and veal, not ordinarily considered bargain meats, are in normal supply and prices are holding steady. Some housewives might find this a good time to try them in place of pork and beef for a while.

Fresh vegetables and fruits have had their ups and downs this spring, but mostly ups. Wholesalers in the East report that about the only fresh vegetable to be found at a reasonable price is corn on the cob. Lettuce, carrots and potatoes all continue much higher than usual.

The late spring potato crop moves to market in three weeks and may trim prices.

Among the fruits, Hawaiian pineapples are reported to be a bargain in many food stores.

Other foods that have been cheaper in many food stores this spring are prunes, honey and rice.

Jane Fonda Likes France

HOLLYWOOD AP - With pouty face, long, taffy-hued tresses and hip-hugging pants, she looked like the latest movie star from France as she strolled down the steps to the Beverly Hills Hotel pool.

But when she spoke, the tones were not Left Bank but Eastern U. S. finishing school. She is Jane Fonda, daughter of that most American or film stars, Henry Fonda.

The French influence is no doubt the result of Jane's romance with the French people and, on a more personal basis, with Roger Vadim, the mentor and one-time husband of Brigitte Bardot. He has been visiting Jane here.

The second-generation actress, on a day off from the Marlon Brando film "The Chase," took a poolside table and talked about such things as France and being a second-generation actress.

If anything can improve our relations with France, perhaps it can be Jane. Reports from Paris indicate that she has been as well received as any American since Ben Franklin - well, Eddie Constantine, anyway.

"It's very simple: my father," she replied. "I knew he was popular, but I never realized what a hold he had on Europeans. He is loved everywhere, even in Russia, where 'War and Peace' and 'Grapes of Wrath' were very popular. They love him in France and other countries because he made social pictures.

"That admiration was naturally transferred to me. And I couldn't be more grateful."

Jane admitted there might be other elements as well, such as the fact that she didn't just pass through France. She stayed. She not only established herself in a Paris apartment; she bought a farm 45 minutes from the city and converted it to a home for herself. She still has both - as well as her own New York apartment and a rented house at Malibu.

"But I'm not an expatriate by any means," she added. "I still am very much American and will stay that way."

La Fonda made two pictures in France, but it remained for a basic American horse opera to shift her career into high gear. She stars in "Cat Ballou," a raucous, rip-snorting Western that has drawn as many critical huzzahs as any film in 1965 so far.

"It's quite a new expertence for me," said Jane. "I've been in films that made money but got poor reviews. I've been in films that got good reviews but weren't well received. This is the first time I seem to be in a picture that gets both.

"I'm still a bit amazed. None of us thought the script offered much, and we weren't sure what we had when we finished. The picture only lasted 28 days. Apparently it has a quality that will pay off."

So does Jane Fonda, apparently. She is carving her own career without fighting the fact that she is daughter of a star. Far from it.

"Being Henry Fonda's daughter has done me nothing but good in this business," she declared. "I couldn't be more grateful."

"I'm still a bit amazed. None of us thought the script offered much, and we weren't sure what we had when we finished. The picture only lasted 28 days. Apparently it has a quality that will pay off."

So does Jane Fonda, apparently. She is carving her own career without fighting the fact that she is daughter of a star. Far from it.

"Being Henry Fonda's daughter has done me nothing but good in this business," she declared. "I couldn't be more grateful."

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The Open House Programs in the schools this week have been well attended. It is our observation that the quality of student work on display is improving, as it should, and that over-all the displays indicate an improvement in the quality of teaching as well. We invite you to attend the Open Houses this evening at Lee Hunter and Airport Schools and remind you of the Music Festival, combining a program representing instrumental band and orchestra and the vocal divisions of Music Department. It will be held Friday evening at 7:30 P.M. at the outdoor theater on the Senior High campus.

W. W. Wilkison, Chairman of our Science Department and Coordinator of Mathematics and Science for the school system, has been invited to participate in a National Air Space Administration Education Symposium to be held at Huntsville, Alabama, May 27-29. He was invited to this meeting by Dr. Frank Rose, President of the University of Alabama, and by Dr. Werner von Braun who is Director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville.

Our school has been approved to conduct a pre-school training program for 160 youngsters who will be first graders in our school next fall. With this approval goes a federal grant of $17,432 to pay the cost of operating the program. We will have 8 qualified teachers, with some teaching assistants, to provide experiences for these children which will help them toward a good beginning when they start their formal schooling in the first grade. A majority of these children will come from low income homes. Much of the training will be aimed toward giving them experiences which they have not had because of environmental and economic reasons. The program is not limited to this group, however, and there will be places for other children whose parents wish them to have the kind of training and experiences that will give them a good start when school opens. The project for this reason is appropriately named "Operation Head Start". A majority of the schools of the nation are conducting similar programs in order to give the children who attend a better chance to begin learning promptly when they enter the first grade and to remove some of the educational and environmental handicaps which certain children may have.

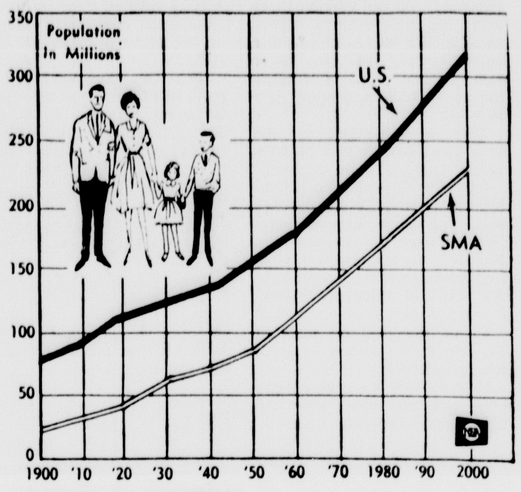
It is probable that this program will be conducted at Southwest School, where air conditioning is available, although this has not been definitely decided as yet. One of our elementary principals will be in charge.

Additional information will be given when the planning is further developed.

We are attending a meeting in Kansas City Thursday and Friday of this week, called by the State Departments of Education of several mid-western states to receive information about the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 recently passed by Congress. Representatives of the U.S. Office of Education will be present to explain the ways in which this act may be carried out to provide better education for our children at the various levels.

Never before have the demands for good education been so great as they are today. The necessity for giving all people the skill tools of learning: competency in reading, in communications, in dealing accurately with numbers, the need for improvement in citizenship as a result of a good educational background and training for jobs in a fast changing and highly industrialized society are all a part of this responsibility. Participation by the federal government in paying part of the costs of this kind of education and training is a must if it is to be done effectively. This new act is a step in the right direction and it is a responsibility of all citizens, laymen and professional educators alike, to see that there is no objectionable control, other than financial as should be. From our experience with present programs, we are sure that the major control of education can be kept in local and state hands.

Never before, certainly not in our experience, have Boards of Education, school administrators and teachers, been so busy in trying to improve the quality of education and to take advantage of some of the programs that are available. Taking advantage of these programs, however, is a tremendous undertaking as all require a great deal of planning, research and writing to justify any of the many projects which are available. This, of course, is as it should be and it is the responsibility of all of us to spend every dollar, whether local, state or federal to get the most in education and to watch it as carefully as if it came directly from our own pocket rather than from us collectively as it does.



CENTURY OF GROWTH—Newschart above traces the growth of population in the U.S. and in Standard Metropolitan Areas since 1900 and projected for the rest of this century. Note how closely lines parallel each other. U.S. population has doubled in the last half century and continues to grow at this rate. By the year 2000, the Urban Land Institute estimates 235 million people—74 per cent of the population—will be living in 300 major metropolitan areas.

Reapportionment Passed By Senate

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Senate passed today a bill to revamp Missouri's 10 congressional districts in line with the Supreme Court's one man-one vote decrees.

The vote sending it to the House was 21-4.

There was no debate. The final form of the districts is expected to be settled later in conference committee.

Under the Senate version the districts would vary only about 3 per cent from the average population of 432,000.

The biggest change transfers some 151,000 people from the 2nd District of St. Louis County, now represented by Republican Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves, to the 9th District represented by Democrat William L. Hungate of Troy.

Sen. Omer H. Avery, D-Troy, chairman of the Senate Apportionment Committee, said earlier that if Congress passes pending legislation to permit a 15 per cent variance in population, only the 2nd District would have to be changed.

In a busy morning of bill passing, the Senate also sent to the governor a bill setting a minimum speed of 40 miles an hour on divided interstate highways, unless dangerous conditions exist. It also raises maximum truck speed on divided highways and other designated routes from 55 to 60 miles an hour.

Sent to the House was a bill to raise the number of State Boat Commission employes from 15 to 25.

The Senate killed a bill that would have extended urban renewal rights to cities of 5,000, instead of the present 75,000, without a vote of the population.

House Lowers Required Vote Percentage

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House today passed a proposed constitutional amendment calling for a House of Representatives of 168 members who would serve four - year staggered terms.

The vote sending it to the Senate was 115-45.

Now the House has 163 members serving two year terms.

Opponents of the proposal said it was wrong to force the voters to accept four-year terms for House members just because the federal courts have ordered reapportionment.

Rep. R. J. King, R-St. Louis, County, said the action of the House would just lead Missouri to a unicameral legislature.

But another St. Louis County Republican, Rep. Albert A. Speer said the plan would strengthen the legislature.

Rep. Charles Sheehan, D-Jefferson County, called the four-year term provision obnoxious.

Earlier today the House Reapportionment Committee discussed a proposal by some representatives to divide the state into 167 House districts.

It was the product of several House members who said they had worked on it for about a month. It was based on districts having an average population of 25,713.

Only 18 districts would cross county lines, the sponsors said. The state would have 87 outside districts, 27 in St. Louis County, 29 in St. Louis City and 24 in Jackson County.

But the chairman of the committee, Rep. Norbert Jasper D-Franklin County, objected to the plan because the House already has approved the proposed constitutional change calling for 168 districts. He said he thought that was a mandate for the committee to come up with a plan having 168 districts.

One of the sponsors of the plan, Rep. Richard Southern, D-Monroe County, said he thought the constitutional amendment could be changed in the Senate so it called for 167 districts instead of 168.

He said if 168 districts were held to some 30 more county lines would have to be broken in setting up the districts.

Rep. Fred Stutler, D-Sullivan County, another sponsor of the 167-district plan, agreed with Southern that more than half of the members from outside Missouri already had studied the plan and agreed to support it.

Meanwhile, subcommittees have been trying to set districts in their areas. The subcommittee for St. Louis City and county has produced a plan that is being circulated among the members from the area to see if they will approve it.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: We have some close friends who are dog lovers. Last evening my husband was telling about our 8 - year - old son's unusual interest in science. The dog-lover interrupted to tell a story about her poodle. Three years ago, she said, the dog began to take on the personality characteristics of her husband.

"When Tom suffered business reversals and became depressed the dog became depressed, too," she said. "He would not eat a thing. Tom had to be hospitalized. That same day the dog had to be hospitalized because he had become so weak from malnutrition he could barely walk."

She continued, "Six weeks later Tom returned home feeling much better. When the dog was brought home he was still melancholy. Upon seeing his master improved the dog perked right up."

My husband and I believe that pet-lovers who become involved with their animals imagine all sorts of things. We can't buy her story. What do you think?--DOUBTERS

Dear Doubters: Animals have distinct personalities. It is not uncommon for personalities to be influenced by what happens around them. I do not doubt this story for one moment.

Dear Ann Landers: When I married my husband five years ago we were both in our middle 40's. Each year our marriage seemed to be rockier than the year before. I begged him to get professional help but his stock reply was, "I am all right. YOU are the one who is nuts."

Several months ago when my husband became abusive I packed up and left him because I feared for my life.

I haven't seen him for three weeks, but he telephones every day to say he loves me. He wants a divorce so he can start courting me again and decide if we should be remarried.

I'm hoping we can recapture the wonderful joys we knew when we first met. Is there a chance? --DREAMS OF THE PAST

Dear Past: No -- and if you would stop dreaming long enough to remember what your marriage was really like you'd know better, too. Why do you think your husband is going to treat you differently the second time around? Get with it, Sister.

Dear Ann Landers: This afternoon I glanced out the window as I was doing my dusting and I just happened to see the woman next door shaking my four-year-old son by the arm. I dashed out and ordered her to take her hands off my child. She shouted, "Bernard is always hitting my Albert and I'm not going to put up with it any longer."

Both children are four years of age, but my Bernard is a little bit larger than her Albert.

I lost my temper and slapped the woman's face. She had metal curlers in her hair which caused a small cut on the side of her cheek.

The minute my husband drove into the garage my neighbor's husband was over here. He told my husband his wife was in bed with an ice pack and under sedation. He said his wife went to pieces after I hit her and they had to call the doctor. The last thing he said was, "There may be a law suit."

If a woman can be sued for protecting her child what kind of a country is this anyway? Please comment.--MRS. X.

Dear Mrs.: The kids are four years old. What's YOUR excuse? Hitting people is called assault and battery and your lawyer can tell you more about the chances of a suit than I can.

But apart from possible court action you owe this woman an apology, plus the price of the doctor's visit.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In the world's largest city, Tokyo, there are almost as many people as there are in the whole continent of Australia. Within 37 miles of the center of Tokyo there are more than 25,000,000 people. The population of the city itself, in 1960, was 8,310,027 and the population of the urban prefecture was 9,683,802. Having been repeatedly rebuilt after destruction by fires, earthquakes and World War II air raids, it is one of the world's most modern cities.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: We have some close friends who are dog lovers. Last evening my husband was telling about our 8 - year - old son's unusual interest in science. The dog-lover interrupted to tell a story about her poodle. Three years ago, she said, the dog began to take on the personality characteristics of her husband.

"When Tom suffered business reversals and became depressed the dog became depressed, too," she said. "He would not eat a thing. Tom had to be hospitalized. That same day the dog had to be hospitalized because he had become so weak from malnutrition he could barely walk."

She continued, "Six weeks later Tom returned home feeling much better. When the dog was brought home he was still melancholy. Upon seeing his master improved the dog perked right up."

My husband and I believe that pet-lovers who become involved with their animals imagine all sorts of things. We can't buy her story. What do you think?--DOUBTERS

Dear Doubters: Animals have distinct personalities. It is not uncommon for personalities to be influenced by what happens around them. I do not doubt this story for one moment.

Dear Ann Landers: When I married my husband five years ago we were both in our middle 40's. Each year our marriage seemed to be rockier than the year before. I begged him to get professional help but his stock reply was, "I am all right, YOU are the one who is nuts."

Several months ago when my husband became abusive I packed up and left him because I feared for my life.

I haven't seen him for three weeks, but he telephones every day to say he loves me. He wants a divorce so he can start courting me again and decide if we should be remarried.

I'm hoping we can recapture the wonderful joys we knew when we first met. Is there a chance? --DREAMS OF THE PAST

Dear Past: No -- and if you would stop dreaming long enough to remember what your marriage was really like you'd know better, too. Why do you think your husband is going to treat you differently the second time around? Get with it, Sister.

Dear Ann Landers: This afternoon I glanced out the window as I was doing my dusting and I just happened to see the woman next door shaking my four-year-old son by the arm. I dashed out and ordered her to take her hands off my child. She shouted, "Bernard is always hitting my Albert and I'm not going to put up with it any longer."

Both children are four years of age, but my Bernard is a little bit larger than her Albert.

I lost my temper and slapped the woman's face. She had metal curlers in her hair which caused a small cut on the side of her cheek.

The minute my husband drove into the garage my neighbor's husband was over here. He told my husband his wife was in bed with an ice pack and under sedation. He said his wife went to pieces after I hit her and they had to call the doctor. The last thing he said was, "There may be a law suit."

If a woman can be sued for protecting her child what kind of a country is this anyway? Please comment.--MRS. X.

Dear Mrs.: The kids are four years old. What's YOUR excuse? Hitting people is called assault and battery and your lawyer can tell you more about the chances of a suit than I can.

But apart from possible court action you owe this woman an apology, plus the price of the doctor's visit.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The population of the city itself, in 1960, was 8,310,027 and the population of the urban prefecture was 9,683,802. Visual Aid Clinic Held At Murray Lane Baptist Church

The Training Union Department of the Charleston Baptist Association conducted three visual - aid clinics recently under the leadership of Director Alfred Ben Ledbetter. The first clinic was held May 3 at the First Baptist Church at Anniston. The second clinic was held May the 11 at the First Baptist Church of Ilmo. The third clinic was held May 18 at the Murray Lane Baptist Church in Sikeston. Total attendance was well over 100.

Speakers enlisted from the churches were assigned topics under the general theme; "Marks of Spiritual Maturity." Each speaker used a visual aid in the presentation of his material. Critiques were held by the audience giving comments pro and con, for and against the speakers use of his material and the use of his visual aid.

Director Ledbetter displayed and demonstrated many types of visual-aids; the strip chart, the flip chart, the sentence holder, the folded sentence, maps covered with acetate for markings with grease pencils that can be easily erased; the flannel board, the venetian blind, and the gravity roll. The "visuals" were made portable, attractive and constructed of very inexpensive materials.

Temple Baptist, Murray Lane Baptist, First Baptist, Fellowship Baptist, and Miner Baptist churches of the Sikeston area have a combined enrollment of 644 in their Training Union organizations. This organization seeks to train church members to become leaders in their church and to acquaint them with the workings of their denomination.

Merchants Suffering From Excise Tax Cut

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK AP - How to keep the customers buying now instead of waiting to see what Congress does about cutting federal excise taxes is a current headache for merchants.

Congress may help by making the cuts retroactive to May 15 on more items than just autos and air conditioners, as President Johnson requested.

Some merchants and manufacturers already are taking newspaper ads to assure today's customers they'll get a refund on any taxes paid now that may later be cut or eliminated.

But in some quarters there are grave doubts that all of the tax cut will be passed along to customers in lower retail prices, either now or in the future.

And merchants also have to worry about what the tax cut will do to goods they've already stocked and hold in their warehouses. The excise tax levied at the manufacturer's level presumably already has been added to the wholesale price the merchant or dealer paid.

An added difficulty is that some tax cuts, as now proposed, would take effect July 1, others Jan. 1 with the retroactive May 15 date, of course, affecting an as yet undetermined variety of goods.

An example of trouble here is in the proposal to cut the tax on cars to 7 per cent from the present 10 per cent effective May 15, and then to drop it to 6 per cent Jan. 1. What effect this would have on sales of the new models this fall is debatable.

Merchants and dealers have a couple of things going for them, however.

For one, Congress seems in the mood to act with unusual speed - thus lessening the period of suspense - and, if anything, to be more generous than the President in slashing tax rates.

For another, public reaction seems likely to set off a buying spree, once the uncertainties are cleared.

Forestalling a temporary buying strike is the problem. Both makers and retailers of jewelry, silverware, luggage, handbags, toilet articles and furs are urging that the 10 per cent retail tax, due to be eliminated July 1, be repealed as of May 15, so today's customers can be sure of a refund.

These retail excises bring the Treasury about $550 million a year. If all of the cut is passed along to the customers in lower prices, a selling boom is anticipated. And because of this prospect, the stocks of some jewelry makers and some chain stores are getting a ride in Wall Street.

Merchants face a refunding problem as well as the effort to keep the customers buying in the interim. The National Retail Merchants Association is urging its members to take inventory of air conditioners and other appliances as of May 15, and to keep records of all sales after that date. The paper work involved in refunding taxes paid while Congress deliberates could pile high.

The immediate problem is to make the public confident that if there are any slashes in retail prices as a result of excise tax cuts, the customer will be protected, by refunds or by allowances on installment payment contracts.

Congress is being asked to help. But the real job is up to the retailer and the manufacturer. They must decide if all or part of the tax cut can be passed along. And theirs is the chore of getting this information to the customers, and making them believe it.

Birth Control And The Law

couple may find it necessary or desirable to avoid conception relates to health," he holds. "In such situations it is accepted medical practice, so far as consistent with the religious or moral principles of the patient, to prescribe the use of extrinsic aids to avoid conception."

'EFFECTIVE METHODS' CITED

These means, the physician notes, "are widely recognized as the best and most effective methods of solving numerous problems of individual health and well-being, and for meeting many other needs arising from marriage and family relationships."

The brief offered by the Planned Parenthood Federation points to this statement by Dr. Charles E. Flowers, Jr., professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine:

"Good maternal care does not consist only of delivering a woman of a baby. It is also helping the premarital couple in anticipating, meeting and fulfilling their emotional adjustments as man and woman. It is aiding the infertile couple to achieve pregnancy and the birth of a normal child. It is advising the patient with (serious or progressive illnesses) to become pregnant as soon as possible, and equally important, advising against pregnancy in the complicated diabetic or nephritic. Offering measures to avoid or postpone a possibly crippling pregnancy — this is preventive medicine."

SPECIALISTS' VIEW

The brief of the 141 medical specialists adds that "the preservation of life and health is and should be preferred over debatable notions of morality. Even when the existence of a legitimate moral problem is conceded, a clear medical consensus favoring the prescribed treatment undercuts the validity of a statute which restricts the doctor's right to prescribe."

Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold are also urging the Supreme Court to consider much broader issues than those involving health.

"By forbidding the safest and most effective methods of contraception," they say, "and permitting only the most harmful ones, the statutes make it hazardous or impossible for a married couple to make their own decisions on the most crucial aspects of their life together. Connecticut is stepping in through its criminal law to prevent them from deciding whether to have children, how many to have, at what time to have them. These decisive questions which affect not only life and health but relations between spouses, careers of husband and wife, the economic status of the family, the method and manner in which children are to be raised, and a host of other things. The planning of children is essential to the planning of one's entire way of life."

ILLEGAL ABORTIONS NOTED

The defendants maintain that the birth-control ban actually promotes illegal abortions. While the evidence is not conclusive, they say, authorities "find a direct (inverse) relationship between the availability of contraceptive services and the criminal abortion rate. It stands to reason that the Connecticut statutes, which cut off all public information and services on contraception, operate to accentuate this acute social problem. The law thus promotes the very kind of immorality it ostensibly is designed to limit."

2. As for restricting sexual relations to the propagation of children and discouraging extra-marital relations, Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold contend the law is not "reasonably designed to achieve that end," because it operates primarily to affect sexual relations among married couples: the usual contraceptives employed in extra-marital relations do not require a doctor's prescription and are sold freely, not as contraceptives, but for "prevention of disease."

They declare that to attempt to restrict sex to procreation" would be so contrary to the basic drives of man, so far-reaching an invasion of individual liberty, and so disruptive of our marriage and family institutions as they exist today, that it cannot be conceived as falling within the police power of the state to promote morals or the general welfare."

CONTROL OF POPULATION

3. If the law was meant to maintain or increase Connecticut's population, the defendants say (while doubting that this was the case), it arrays the state against modern thought: "Virtually the whole world now recognizes that the current problems of population control — crucial as they are —involve limitations on, not expansion of, the population explosion. It cannot be assumed that the current policy of the Connecticut Legislature would run so squarely counter to the entire direction of national and international developments in this field."

Arguing as a physician, in addition, Dr. Buxton contends that his right to practice "in accordance with scientifically accepted principles" is being violated. "One of the most frequent reasons why a married

Two Men Adrift For 37 Days

By GEORGE McARTHUR

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — "I was able to observe quite a lot," said a 20-year-old student of marine biology after 37 days adrift on a raft in the Pacific with his father. "It was extremely interesting."

"If it hadn't been for him I wouldn't be alive today," said the father, Frank Cushing, 63. A former stuntman, he lives on Guam with his wife and three of their four children.

His son, Frank Jr., is a student at the University of Guam. The two set out on their 23-foot raft April 10 to look for rare fish.

They anchored for the night outside a reef off Guam's Puto Point and went to sleep. When they awoke, a storm was blowing them westward, their anchor was gone and Guam was out of sight.

On Monday, 37 days later and 1,400 miles to the west of Guam, they landed their raft on Calayan Island, in the north Philippines. A few hours later the crew of the interisland steamer Jumar sighted the raft and found the two men sleeping in a cave.

They were flown to Clark Air Base Hospital, Wednesday. Cushing had lost 50 pounds, his son 40, but otherwise their health was good and their spirits buoyant.

"We never lost hope," said Cushing, grinning through nearly six weeks of beard. "We were positive we would hit the Philippines. When I knew we couldn't get back to Guam, I set a course for the Philippines. I knew it would be tough but it was our best course.

"Our top speed was about three knots, but I knew we would get some place sometime. I made a sextant out of a spear gun, a fishing line and some other things.

"We didn't have a compass but we had the sun. At night we had Polaris (the North Star) and the Southern Cross to navigate by."

The oil-drum raft was equipped with two outboard motors, but the Cushings improvised a sail to conserve their small supply of gas. Also aboard were a can of beans, a can of meat and a two-gallon tin of water.

"We were seasick for the first three days," said the father.

"On the third day we got under a rain cloud. It was a heavy rain, and filled our water can. On the same day we caught a dolphin. We ate the raw flesh for moisture and hung the center part and sides out to dry. It was about a 14-pounder."

Frank Jr. said he worried for the first few days about missing school.

"I just took my midterm exams and wondered what my grade was," he added.

Cushing was hardly able to move much of the voyage, suffering from seasickness and exposure. But Frank Jr. looked after his father and the raft, and provided a steady supply of fish by hunting underwater with a spear gun, a rope around his waist attached to the raft. He also kept up his study of marine life.

"If the sea was calm, I would take the rope off and swim around examining the oil drums," said the youth.

"Sharks didn't bother us — in fact, I bothered them. I caught a couple, one 3 feet and another 6 feet long."

A second storm during the voyage refilled their water can. Otherwise they had to depend on the moisture they got from fish.

The U.S. Navy searched for them after Mrs. Cushing reported them missing but finally gave up. Cashing said planes passed over them many times.

"A military plane passed over us on the second day," he said. "I made a smoke pot — with bits of rubber hose and anything that would burn — but the plane never saw us."

Near the end of the voyage they were becalmed for seven days in sight of the distant peaks of the Philippines. They finally landed Sunday on an active volcanic island.

"There was nothing there but dead fish and birds," said Cushing. "My boy found two coconuts. One was rotten."

They shoved off and drifted north along the coast of Luzon. A stiff current carried them toward Calayan, and they used the last of their gasoline — about a gallon and a quarter was left — to enter the cove where they were found.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Two Camden city policemen picked the daily double at Garden State Race Track worth $75.60 Tuesday, but they couldn't collect.

Patrolmen William Guidotti and Frank Senatore said they had placed a $2 daily-double bet with Helen McCaslin, 38, in downtown Camden. Then they arrested her for bookmaking.

Later they learned their selection, Blended White and Battling Erma, had won and was worth $75.60.

Mrs. McCaslin was held in $1,000 bail on a bookmaking charge.

By GEORGE McARTHUR

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — "I was able to observe quite a lot," said a 20-year-old student of marine biology after 37 days adrift on a raft in the Pacific with his father. "It was extremely interesting."

"If it hadn't been for him I wouldn't be alive today," said the father, Frank Cushing, 63. A former stuntman, he lives on Guam with his wife and three of their four children.

His son, Frank Jr., is a student at the University of Guam. The two set out on their 23-foot raft April 10 to look for rare fish.

They anchored for the night outside a reef off Guam's Puto Point and went to sleep. When they awoke, a storm was blowing them westward, their anchor was gone and Guam was out of sight.

On Monday, 37 days later and 1,400 miles to the west of Guam, they landed their raft on Calayan Island, in the north Philippines. A few hours later the crew of the interisland steamer Jumar sighted the raft and found the two men sleeping in a cave.

They were flown to Clark Air Base Hospital, Wednesday. Cushing had lost 50 pounds, his son 40, but otherwise their health was good and their spirits buoyant.

"We never lost hope," said Cushing, grinning through nearly six weeks of beard. "We were positive we would hit the Philippines. When I knew we couldn't get back to Guam, I set a course for the Philippines. I knew it would be tough but it was our best course.

"Our top speed was about three knots, but I knew we would get some place sometime. I made a sextant out of a spar gun, a fishing line and some other things.

"We didn't have a compass but we had the sun. At night we had Polaris (the North Star) and the Southern Cross to navigate by."

The oil-drum raft was equipped with two outboard motors, but the Cushings improvised a sail to conserve their small supply of gas. Also aboard were a can of beans, a can of meat and a two-gallon tin of water.

"We were seasick for the first three days," said the father.

"On the third day we got under a rain cloud. It was a heavy rain, and filled our water can. On the same day we caught a dolphin. We ate the raw flesh for moisture and hung the center part and sides out to dry. It was about a 14-pounder."

Frank Jr. said he worried for the first few days about missing school.

"I just took my midterm exams and wondered what my grade was," he added.

Cushing was hardly able to move much of the voyage, suffering from seasickness and exposure. But Frank Jr. looked after his father and the raft, and provided a steady supply of fish by hunting underwater with a spear gun, a rope around his waist attached to the raft. He also kept up his study of marine life.

"If the sea was calm, I would take the rope off and swim around examining the oil drums," said the youth.

"Sharks didn't bother us — in fact, I bothered them. I caught a couple, one 3 feet and another 6 feet long."

A second storm during the voyage refilled their water can. Otherwise they had to depend on the moisture they got from fish.

The U.S. Navy searched for them after Mrs. Cushing reported them missing but finally gave up. Cashing said planes passed over them many times.

"A military plane passed over us on the second day," he said. "I made a smoke pot — with bits of rubber hose and anything that would burn — but the plane never saw us."

Near the end of the voyage they were becalmed for seven days in sight of the distant peaks of the Philippines. They finally landed Sunday on an active volcanic island.

"There was nothing there but dead fish and birds," said Cushing. "My boy found two coconuts. One was rotten."

They shoved off and drifted north along the coast of Luzon. A stiff current carried them toward Calayan, and they used the last of their gasoline — about a gallon and a quarter was left — to enter the cove where they were found.

One City Fire

One fire was reported by the Sikeston Fire Department over the last 24 hours.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Two Camden city policemen picked the daily double at Garden State Race Track worth $75.60 Tuesday, but they couldn't collect.

Patrolmen William Guidotti and Frank Senatore said they had placed a $2 daily-double bet with Helen McCaslin, 38, in downtown Camden. Then they arrested her for bookmaking.

Later they learned their selection, Blended White and Battling Erma, had won and was worth $75.60.

Mrs. McCaslin was held in $1,000 bail on a bookmaking charge.

ONE OF A KIND

The data input recorder manufactured by the firm is "one of a kind." This device, developed by the company in 1963 and 1964 enables clerical workers with just minutes of training to code information for direct access to computer systems. This development, in turn, has enabled the expanded use of computer facilities and data processing equipment for businesses of all types and sizes.

Vance-Whitworth began mass-producing the recorder in March 1965. Its aggressive marketing program, both for its equipment and its data processing services, has been well under way since January of this year. On the 1st of May, the company had 18 salesmen.

SIKESTON AREA CUSTOMERS

Vance-Whitworth customers, including several in the Sikeston area, include such varying business categories as hospitals, hotels, restaurants, manufacturers, wholesalers, drug stores, and utilities. Customers in this area include the Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Board of Public Works, Plaza Supply Company in Cape Girardeau, Perryville School System, and Doctors Hospital of Poplar Bluff.

"PARTNERSHIP" DESIRED

"It is our hope to be a partner in progress with the Sikeston area. As Vance - Whitworth grows, and prospers, so will the area," Whitworth said.

Hardwicke Resigns As Director

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes confirmed that Dr. Henry M. Hardwicke has resigned as director of the Missouri Division of Health, but he denied that he put pressure on Hardwicke to quit.

"The first time I knew of Dr. Hardwicke's resignation was when he walked in and handed it to me," the governor said. "That's been some time ago. It wasn't effective until June 1 anyway."

Hearnes made his comment after the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said in its Thursday editions that the governor told Dr. Hardwicke several months ago that he was through.

The governor said if he had wanted to force Hardwicke's resignation he would have made no secret of it.

He said the resignation was not announced immediately because he wanted time to find a successor before he was flooded with applicants.

Dr. Hardwicke declined to comment when he was asked about the Globe-Democrat's report.

The newspaper said the governor's office had expected to make an announcement as if it were a routine resignation and attribute it to Dr. Hardwicke's desire to resume private practice.

It said that Dr. Hardwicke incurred disfavor because of some critical statements he made about the Dunklin County Health Center and that some Missouri legislators consider him non-cooperative.

The governor was in Kansas City for the annual griddle dinner of the Kansas City Press Club.

Missouri Assembly Listened To Communist

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — About a dozen members of the Missouri General Assembly, each with a white carnation in his lapel, were among the 500 who packed an auditorium at the University of Missouri Wednesday night for a talk by a communist leader.

"I was happily surprised that the students seemed not to be taken in by any particular ideology that was presented for the forum," said Rep. Earl Bollinger of Festus.

The speaker was Claude Lightfoot, former vice chairman of the Communist Party's national committee for the United States.

His appearance was sponsored by the New Fabians, a campus discussion group. The 500 in the audience included students, faculty members and townspeople.

Steve Fuchs of St. Louis, president of the New Fabians, said his organization sponsored picketing demonstrations which led the university to change some of its regulations on student housing. He said the regulations embodied racial discrimination.

"Next year, we'll really change things around," he told the crowd. "Lightfoot speaking here proves a point — if you want something bad enough, you can get it."

Faculty sponsor of the New Fabians is Dr. William S. Allen, associate professor of history who was the object of a legislative attack in February by Rep. Bollinger and Rep. Howard Garrett, who also is a Jefferson County legislator and was with Bollinger Wednesday night.

They criticized the university for employing Dr. Allen and described him as a professed socialist.

Lightfoot said in his talk that the policies of the United States have made it the most-hated nation in the history of mankind.

He said if the United States ever adopts communism it will be a different variety than Russian communism or Chinese communism — a variety which would not eliminate the right of free speech.

Roof Falls In Supermarket, No One Killed

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP) "All of a sudden, it was like a bomb fell down," says the meat-section manager who was serving customers when the roof of a Brooklyn supermarket collapsed and rained tons of concrete slabs and plaster debris onto customers and clerks.

The manager, Sam Kinker, 61, and his four women customers fled through one of the broken windows.

Twenty-three persons—mostly women shoppers — were injured. Most of them were treated at hospitals. Four were admitted.

Police, firemen and residents of the neighborhood pulled several victims out from under chunks of concrete.

"It's a miracle no one was killed," Fire Commissioner Martin Scott said after inspecting the ruins of the Food Queen Supermarket in the Bensonhurst section Wednesday.

Mary Rossi, a shopkeeper on the other side of the street, said: "My God, it was awful. I was standing in front of my store when the roof seemed to blow up right in front of me.

"The windows blew into the street and women and children ran out."

Other witnesses told of seeing hysterical women and children running from the store.

About 50 customers — mostly women and children — and 13 employes were in the store when the roof collapsed.

Although police and fire officials thought no one was buried under the rubble, scores of men searched through the night with the aid of flood lights.

Two firemen working in the wreckage suffered minor injuries when hit by a falling girder.

Harold Birns, city commissioner of buildings, sent inspectors to investigate. Dist. Atty. Aaron Koota promised an investigation.

A disaster may have been averted by the fact that the building had two stores, and the force of the falling concrete and other debris was cushioned by the ceiling of the store. The roof was being waterproofed by workmen at the time. A small piece of the roof where the men were working did not collapse. They were not injured.

The building had been converted from a movie theater 12 years ago. The second floor housed offices.

WHAT A PIECE OF WORK IS MAN!

Does automation scare you? The whole process of human life from conception through gestation to birth is entirely automated. After birth, despite parental ignorance of the process, the child grows from seven to 70 pounds. Biological growth is entirely automated.

For at least 2 million years, men was been reproducing and multiplying on a little automated space ship called Earth, in an automated universe in which the entire process is so successfully predesigned that men did not even know that they were automated, regenerative passengers on a space ship, and were so naive as to think that they had invented their own success as they lived egocentrically on a seemingly static earth. — R. None of the eight were allowed to testify as to racial matters, however, after Frisco general solicitor John E. McCullough complained that Miss Morris was trying to "bring up the racial issue, which has no relevance in this hearing."

Miss Morris countered that the ICC decision might have an affect on an NAACP discrimination suit filed now pending against the railroad in U. S. District Court in St. Louis.

Hardwicke Resigns As Director

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes confirmed that Dr. Henry M. Hardwicke has resigned as director of the Missouri Division of Health, but he denied that he put pressure on Hardwicke to quit.

"The first time I knew of Dr. Hardwicke's resignation was when he walked in and handed it to me," the governor said. "That's been some time ago. It wasn't effective until June 1 anyway."

Hearnes made his comment after the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said in its Thursday editions that the governor told Dr. Hardwicke several months ago that he was through.

The governor said if he had wanted to force Hardwicke's resignation he would have made no secret of it.

He said the resignation was not announced immediately because he wanted time to find a successor before he was flooded with applicants.

Dr. Hardwicke declined to comment when he was asked about the Globe-Democrat's report.

The newspaper said the governor's office had expected to make an announcement as if it were a routine resignation and attribute it to Dr. Hardwicke's desire to resume private practice.

It said that Dr. Hardwicke incurred disfavor because of some critical statements he made about the Dunklin County Health Center and that some Missouri legislators consider him non-cooperative.

The governor was in Kansas City for the annual griddle dinner of the Kansas City Press Club.

Missouri Assembly Listened To Communist

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — About a dozen members of the Missouri General Assembly, each with a white carnation in his lapel, were among the 500 who packed an auditorium at the University of Missouri Wednesday night for a talk by a communist leader.

"I was happily surprised that the students seemed not to be taken in by any particular ideology that was presented for the forum," said Rep. Earl Bollinger of Festus.

The speaker was Claude Lightfoot, former vice chairman of the Communist Party's national committee for the United States.

His appearance was sponsored by the New Fabians, a campus discussion group. The 500 in the audience included students, faculty members and townspeople.

Steve Fuchs of St. Louis, president of the New Fabians, said his organization sponsored picketing demonstrations which led the university to change some of its regulations on student housing. He said the regulations embodied racial discrimination.

"Next year, we'll really change things around," he told the crowd. "Lightfoot speaking here proves a point — if you want something bad enough, you can get it."

Faculty sponsor of the New Fabians is Dr. William S. Allen, associate professor of history who was the object of a legislative attack in February by Rep. Bollinger and Rep. Howard Garrett, who also is a Jefferson County legislator and was with Bollinger Wednesday night.

They criticized the university for employing Dr. Allen and described him as a professed socialist.

Lightfoot said in his talk that the policies of the United States have made it the most-hated nation in the history of mankind.

He said if the United States ever adopts communism it will be a different variety than Russian communism or Chinese communism — a variety which would not eliminate the right of free speech.

Roof Falls In Supermarket, No One Killed

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP) "All of a sudden, it was like a bomb fell down," says the meat-section manager who was serving customers when the roof of a Brooklyn supermarket collapsed and rained tons of concrete slabs and plaster debris onto customers and clerks.

The manager, Sam Kinker, 61, and his four women customers fled through one of the broken windows.

Twenty-three persons—mostly women shoppers — were injured. Most of them were treated at hospitals. Four were admitted.

Police, firemen and residents of the neighborhood pulled several victims out from under chunks of concrete.

"It's a miracle no one was killed," Fire Commissioner Martin Scott said after inspecting the ruins of the Food Queen Supermarket in the Bensonhurst section Wednesday.

Mary Rossi, a shopkeeper on the other side of the street, said: "My God, it was awful. I was standing in front of my store when the roof seemed to blow up right in front of me.

"The windows blew into the street and women and children ran out."

Other witnesses told of seeing hysterical women and children running from the store.

About 50 customers — mostly women and children — and 13 employes were in the store when the roof collapsed.

Although police and fire officials thought no one was buried under the rubble, scores of men searched through the night with the aid of flood lights.

Two firemen working in the wreckage suffered minor injuries when hit by a falling girder.

Harold Birns, city commissioner of buildings, sent inspectors to investigate. Dist. Atty. Aaron Koota promised an investigation.

A disaster may have been averted by the fact that the building had two stores, and the force of the falling concrete and other debris was cushioned by the ceiling of the store. The roof was being waterproofed by workmen at the time. A small piece of the roof where the men were working did not collapse. They were not injured.

The building had been converted from a movie theater 12 years ago. The second floor housed offices.

WHAT A PIECE OF WORK IS MAN!

Does automation scare you? The whole process of human life from conception through gestation to birth is entirely automated. After birth, despite parental ignorance of the process, the child grows from seven to 70 pounds. Biological growth is entirely automated.

For at least 2 million years, men have been reproducing and multiplying on a little automated space ship called Earth, in an automated universe in which the entire process is so successfully predesigned that men did not even know that they were automated, regenerative passengers on a space ship, and were so naive as to think that they had invented their own success as they lived egocentrically on a seemingly static earth. — R. Javits Introduces New Investment

WASHINGTON AP - Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposed Wednesday creation of a federally chartered corporation based on the Communications Satellite Corp. idea - to channel private aid to developing nations.

This peace by investment corporation would be financed initially by the federal government and later by stock sales of $5 a share to small investors.

Javits said the corporation would be designed to expand by $2.5 billion the flow of U. S. private investment in projects in underdeveloped areas. The project, he added, might decrease foreign aid expenditures.

A bill he drafted for introduction to create the corporation will be co-sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; and Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Javits said the federal government would provide initial capital funds totaling $50 million. The corporation, during its first six years of operation, could borrow from the Treasury another $300 million, not exceeding $60 million in any one year.

During this initial period, Javits said, the corporation would function as an agency of the federal government but when the original investment is retired the corporation would transform to private operation and management.

The initial investments would be repaid through the stock sales. No more than half the $2.5 billion in stock issues could be floated during the first six years of the corporation's life.

FINDING THE WAY

What's Behind the Facade?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There is a strange and eerie fascination about many cities just now. Those of us who saw London or Frankfurt after the war are glad that this is a prelude to renewal instead of a postlude to a holocaust. Yet there is an emptiness that pervades some of these buildings as they stand stripped of their facades. It's as shocking as coming upon an undraped manikin in a store window or a city street with 12 elm trees missing.

This emptiness suggests our inability to deal with so many of our problems. We manage to hide it successfully for many years. We structure our lives in such a way that we have the facade of satisfaction. Strip it away with sudden leisure, catastrophe, or some unsuspected problem, and we're revealed as empty.

There is the parable of the house that was inhabited by one devil. That evil was ousted and then the house stood empty. Finally, seven devils came up, surveying this inviting void and took over. The admonition of the parable is that the last state is worse than the first.

It's the old danger of thinking that you've dealt with the entire cadre of tempters by handling one problem. That's an ancient story and a present reality. We structure our lives so neatly that when the patterns change, we're fair game for a whole variety of leering devils.

It's one thing to talk of this in terms of a building, and another thing to confront it in life itself. It's more than moving furniture into the building. The vitality in life must be in the very structure.

It's why the Psalmist referred to a good man as one who is like a tree planted by rivers of living water. There is an essential growth and an inner sturdiness. When the storms come, the winds may bend the branches but this well-rooted tree stands. It's another reason why we need men and women who are willing to commit themselves with a sense of maturing faith. They need to know something—Someone—greater than the "fun and games" way of life.

We live in days of continuing shocks. Some men, more than others, are subjected to tests of faith and courage every day. For most the unexpected occurs, and without warning men have to give a reason for the faith that is within them.

There is a kind of edginess in the air and a demanding testiness. Perhaps this is the stripping of the facade with the possibility of renewal.

Whatever the nature of the event, one thing is certain. We're revealed for what we are. The shock of the empty building, the naked manikin or the treeless street are as nothing compared to the sudden appearance of the empty spirit.

It was with good reason that in Scriptures the growing and maturing faith became sturdy trees and fruitful vines. "I am the vine, you are the branches," said Jesus. And he spoke of the fruitage of the spirit. It's the ability to withstand the winds, the earthquakes, or the sense of nothingness. It's the structure that's revealed when the facade is gone.

Age Limit Lowered For Calf Vaccinations

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.--A change in Missouri department of agriculture regulations concerning the age limits for calfhood vaccination against Brucellosis was announced today by Dexter Davis, commissioner of agriculture.

Effective immediately, the lower limit of official calfhood vaccination ages for both dairy and beef calves will be four months instead of five months.

Effective July 1, 1965, the upper limit of official calfhood vaccination ages for both dairy and beef calves will be through seven months (140 days maximum) instead of ten months.

Dr. George C. Stiles, state veterinarian, explained that the changes will bring state regulations in line with those of the United States department of agriculture and recommendations of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association. He said that the department is trying to eliminate vaccination titers now found in vaccinated animals at older age levels. "Research has proven that immunity is as good at four months as it is at eight," Dr. Stiles said.

He explained also that the department's veterinary division is now using market and private test samples for Brucellosis recertification work which will greatly reduce the amount of on-the-farm testing. He said this would permit the department to direct more of its attention toward dealing with infected animals on the farm.

Javits Introduces New Investment

WASHINGTON AP - Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposed Wednesday creation of a federally chartered corporation based on the Communications Satellite Corp. idea - to channel private aid to developing nations.

This peace by investment corporation would be financed initially by the federal government and later by stock sales of $5 a share to small investors.

Javits said the corporation would be designed to expand by $2.5 billion the flow of U. S. private investment in projects in underdeveloped areas. The project, he added, might decrease foreign aid expenditures.

A bill he drafted for introduction to create the corporation will be co-sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; and Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Javits said the federal government would provide initial capital funds totaling $50 million. The corporation, during its first six years of operation, could borrow from the Treasury another $300 million, not exceeding $60 million in any one year.

During this initial period, Javits said, the corporation would function as an agency of the federal government but when the original investmeat is retired the corporation would transform to private operation and management.

The initial investments would be repaid through the stock sales. No more than half the $2.5 billion in stock issues could be floated during the first six years of the corporation's life.

FINDING THE WAY

What's Behind the Facade?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There is a strange and eerie fascination about many cities just now. Those of us who saw London or Frankfurt after the war are glad that this is a prelude to renewal instead of a postlude to a holocaust. Yet there is an emptiness that pervades some of these buildings as they stand stripped of their facades. It's as shocking as coming upon an undraped manikin in a store window or a city street with 12 elm trees missing.

This emptiness suggests our inability to deal with so many of our problems. We manage to hide it successfully for many years. We structure our lives in such a way that we have the facade of satisfaction. Strip it away with sudden leisure, catastrophe, or some unsuspected problem, and we're revealed as empty.

There is the parable of the house that was inhabited by one devil. That evil was ousted and then the house stood empty. Finally, seven devils came up, surveying this inviting void and took over. The admonition of the parable is that the last state is worse than the first.

It's the old danger of thinking that you've dealt with the entire cadre of tempters by handling one problem. That's an ancient story and a present reality. We structure our lives so neatly that when the patterns change, we're fair game for a whole variety of leering devils.

It's one thing to talk of this in terms of a building, and another thing to confront it in life itself. It's more than moving furniture into the building. The vitality in life must be in the very structure.

It's why the Psalmist referred to a good man as one who is like a tree planted by rivers of living water. There is an essential growth and an inner sturdiness. When the storms come, the winds may bend the branches but this well-rooted tree stands. It's another reason why we need men and women who are willing to commit themselves with a sense of maturing faith. They need to know something —Someone—greater than the "fun and games" way of life.

We live in days of continuing shocks. Some men, more than others, are subjected to tests of faith and courage every day. For most the unexpected occurs, and without warning men have to give a reason for the faith that is within them.

There is a kind of edginess in the air and a demanding testiness. Perhaps this is the stripping of the facade with the possibility of renewal.

Whatever the nature of the event, one thing is certain. We're revealed for what we are. The shock of the empty building, the naked manikin or the treeless street are as nothing compared to the sudden appearance of the empty spirit.

It was with good reason that in Scriptures the growing and maturing faith became sturdy trees and fruitful vines. "I am the vine, you are the branches," said Jesus. And he spoke of the fruitage of the spirit. It's the ability to withstand the winds, the earthquakes, or the sense of nothingness. It's the structure that's revealed when the facade is gone.

Age Limit Lowered For Calf Vaccinations

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.--A change in Missouri department of agriculture regulations concerning the age limits for calfhood vaccination against Brucellosis was announced today by Dexter Davis, commissioner of agriculture.

Effective immediately, the lower limit of official calfhood vaccination ages for both dairy and beef calves will be four months instead of five months.

Effective July 1, 1965, the upper limit of official calfhood vaccination ages for both dairy and beef calves will be through seven months (140 days maximum) instead of ten months.

Dr. George C. Stiles, state veterinarian, explained that the changes will bring state regulations in line with those of the United States department of agriculture and recommendations of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association. He said that the department is trying to eliminate vaccination titers now found in vaccinated animals at older age levels. "Research has proven that immunity is as good at four months as it is at eight," Dr. Stiles said.

He explained also that the department's veterinary division is now using market and private test samples for Brucellosis recertification work which will greatly reduce the amount of on-the-farm testing. He said this would permit the department to direct more of its attention toward dealing with infected animals on the farm.

The "sword of Damocles" was originated by Dionysus, the Greek god of fruitfulness and vegetation. When Damocles, one of his courtiers, spoke extravagantly of the happiness of his sovereign, Dionysus invited him to a sumptuous banquet, at which Damocles found himself seated under a naked sword suspended by a single hair, symbolizing the precariousness of the tyrant's fortune.

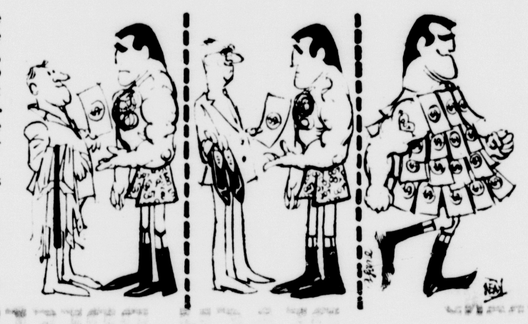
JAMES BOND UNDIES? WHAT NEXT, 007?



By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA) James Bond may not chew bubble gum, but his pajamas have secret pockets, and he sleeps between sheets embroidered with his 007 monogram.

Furthermore, he uses 007 shaving lotion guaranteed to "make any man dangerous" and he buys his girl friends "Secret Agent Baby Doll Nighties."

These are just a few of the products now being marketed under the James Bond label of 007 (the digits mean that Bond is authorized to kill) in one of the biggest merchandising drives of its kind ever launched.

From Paris to New York, stores are flooded with Bonded items as promoters cash in on the world-wide popularity of the Bond books and films ("Dr. No," "Goldfinger," "From Russia with Love").

The 007 line ranges from trench coats to toy sniper rifles, but does not include bubble gum. An application for a license to manufacture 007 bubble gum was turned down by Glidrose Productions, holders of the James Bond copyright, on the grounds that it might harm the Bond image.

"James Bond was no gum chewer," explains Miss Beryl Griffie-Williams, who probably knows more about this fictional hero than any other woman living. "Even if he was secretly addicted to the gum habit, he would never have chosen bubble gum," she firmly adds.

"Only the Rolls-Royce of chewing gums would have been good enough for James Bond."

Tall, white-haired and with green-rimmed glasses, Miss Griffie-Williams was secretary for four years to the late Ian Fleming, creator of James Bond. "Griffie," as she is known, is now employed in the merchandising end of the vast industry which has grown up around the tough guy secret agent.

Griffie also keeps a motherly eye on the James Bond fan clubs that have sprung up as far afield as Australia. Of the British clubs one is composed of Oxford University students who dine out occasionally in James Bond's honor. Another was founded in Whiteley Bay, Northumberland, by a diamond merchant and is limited to 15 members.

Of the countries that are marketing James Bond products the United States was fastest off the mark with a line of 007 toiletries that was an instant success when test-marketed last Christmas. Since then James Bond sport shirts, pajamas, swim suits and children's games have appeared on the American market.

Popular with Americans, too, is an 007 cocktail—gin or vodka with lemon juice, sugar, soda and two dashes of bitters.

Britain is about to tee off with James Bond shoes, ties and tiepins, vodka and golf equipment. The London Hilton has an 007 Bar where Bond-like characters meet their Mata Haris.

It is in France, however, that James Bond has scored his biggest bulls-eye. A special Bond Boutique featuring gold-colored mannequins was recently opened by the Galleries Lafayette, a leading Paris department store, and since then 3,500 stores throughout France have been pushing Bond-inspired goods.

The Paris display was built around the special Aston Martin with the concealed machine guns and the ejector seat, which was featured in "Goldfinger." On sale were James Bond trench coats, gold-bordered handkerchiefs, 007 cuff links and shirts accompanied by a special message to the purchaser on embossed paper headed "On Her Majesty's Secret Service."

French women are not being neglected in the Bond promotional drive. On sale in Paris are gold-colored underwear, shiny plastic raincoats and kinky red boots of the type worn by Bond's girl friends. Paris fashion ads exhort women to become "fit for Bond."

Nor have the children been forgotten. A current best seller with junior Bondsmen is a toy brief case complete with sniper rifle, plastic dagger and decoding machine.

Herodotus, Greek historian, described the practice of pipe smoking as early as the fifth century B.C.

Q—What is the meaning of the name Cordelia?

JAMES BOND UNDIES? WHAT NEXT, 007?

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA) James Bond may not chew bubble gum, but his pajamas have secret pockets, and he sleeps between sheets embroidered with his 007 monogram.

Furthermore, he uses 007 shaving lotion guaranteed to "make any man dangerous" and he buys his girl friends "Secret Agent Baby Doll Nighties."

These are just a few of the products now being marketed under the James Bond label of 007 (the digits mean that Bond is authorized to kill) in one of the biggest merchandising drives of its kind ever launched.

From Paris to New York, stores are flooded with Bonded items as promoters cash in on the world-wide popularity of the Bond books and films ("Dr. No," "Goldfinger," "From Russia with Love").

The 007 line ranges from trench coats to toy sniper rifles, but does not include bubble gum. An application for a license to manufacture 007 bubble gum was turned down by Glidrose Productions, holders of the James Bond copyright, on the grounds that it might harm the Bond image.

"James Bond was no gum chewer," explains Miss Beryl Griffie-Williams, who probably knows more about this fictional hero than any other woman living. "Even if he was secretly addicted to the gum habit, he would never have chosen bubble gum," she firmly adds.

"Only the Rolls-Royce of chewing gums would have been good enough for James Bond."

Tall, white-haired and with green-rimmed glasses, Miss Griffie-Williams was secretary for four years to the late Ian Fleming, creator of James Bond. "Griffie," as she is known, is now employed in the merchandising end of the vast industry which has grown up around the tough guy secret agent.

Griffie also keeps a motherly eye on the James Bond fan clubs that have sprung up as far afield as Australia. Of the British clubs one is composed of Oxford University students who dine out occasionally in James Bond's honor. Another was founded in Whiteley Bay, Northumberland, by a diamond merchant and is limited to 15 members.

Of the countries that are marketing James Bond products the United States was fastest off the mark with a line of 007 toiletries that was an instant success when test-marketed last Christmas. Since then James Bond sport shirts, pajamas, swim suits and children's games have appeared on the American market.

Popular with Americans, too, is an 007 cocktail—gin or vodka with lemon juice, sugar, soda and two dashes of bitters.

Britain is about to tee off with James Bond shoes, ties and tiepins, vodka and golf equipment. The London Hilton has an 007 Bar where Bond-like characters meet their Mata Haris.

It is in France, however, that James Bond has scored his biggest bulls-eye. A special Bond Boutique featuring gold-colored mannequins was recently opened by the Galleries Lafayette, a leading Paris department store, and since then 3,500 stores throughout France have been pushing Bond-inspired goods.

The Paris display was built around the special Aston Martin with the concealed machine guns and the ejector seat, which was featured in "Goldfinger." On sale were James Bond trench coats, gold-bordered handkerchiefs, 007 cuff links and shirts accompanied by a special message to the purchaser on embossed paper headed "On Her Majesty's Secret Service."

French women are not being neglected in the Bond promotional drive. On sale in Paris are gold-colored underwear, shiny plastic raincoats and kinky red boots of the type worn by Bond's girl friends. Paris fashion ads exhort women to become "fit for Bond."

Nor have the children been forgotten. A current best seller with junior Bondsmen is a toy brief case complete with sniper rifle, plastic dagger and decoding machine.

Herodotus, Greek historian, described the practice of pipe smoking as early as the fifth century B.C.

Q—What is the meaning of the name Cordelia?

A—Cordelia is a Latin name meaning "warm-hearted."

Jetliner Crashes At Cairo, Kills 120 Persons

CAIRO AP -- A Pakistani jetliner inaugurating Karachi-to-London service crashed in desolate desert sands near Cairo Airport today, killed 120 of the 126 persons aboard.

It was the fifth worst air crash in aviation history.

Airline officials said one or more Americans perished in the flaming crash. Identification was not immediately available.

The airline said that of the 115 passengers, 93 were listed as Pakistanis, 12 Chinese and 10 other foreigners, whose nationalities were listed as U. S., Canadian, Lebanese and Egyptian.

The American-built jetliner's 11 crewmen died in the crash.

All six survivors were Pakistants. Two were employes of the Pakistan International Airline and another was a Pakistani tourist official. Three of the men were reported in critical condition.

The flight was scheduled to pick up 52 additional passengers, all guests of the airline, at Cairo for the remainder of the flight to Geneva and London.

Capt. Akhtar Aly Khan, pilot of the four engine jet, reported engine trouble and a fire in the landing gear minutes before the crash.

The plane, a Boeing 720B, was inaugurating the airline's new Karachi to Longon route. Among the passengers were 62 newsmen, airline officials and other invited guests. The same plane had made three preinaugural flights over the route.

The big jet ploughed into a sand hill in a heavy ground fog as it prepared to make its final approach to the Cairo Airport. It crashed at 2:50 a.m. A West German airliner first sighted the wreckage, and Egyptian air force helicopters landed at the wreckage at dawn to pick up the six survivors.

Nearly impassable terrain delayed the arrival of other rescuers until six hours after the crash.

"There were no more survivors except for two baboons still alive beneath the wreckage," one person at the scene reported.

"It all happened so fast I didn't know what was going on," said one of the survivors, Galal Alkarimi, an employe of the airline.

"One minute I was sitting inside the plane with a safety belt fastened around my waist. The next thing I remember was hearing an explosion. When I came to, I found myself lying outside the wreckage."

"It was a horrible sight," said one of the rescue party, "an area of two square kilometers littered with what was left of the plane's wreckage, mutilated bodies, passenger bags, cameras and cigarette cases."

Airline officials said one of the Pakistant stewardesses who was killed had been planning to get married next week in Karachi.

Officials said the passenger list included 26 Pakistant newsmen. Only one of them survived, Aman Allah, police reporter of the Karachi Leader.

The wreckage was still burning when rescuers reached the scene. The desert sands in the immediate vicinity were blackened.

Some 4,000 pounds $11,200 was recovered from the scene.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1915

We are not going to say anything about the couple who hardoiled their floor and couldn't get upstairs to their bedroom until the man in the moon hid his face so the couple could climb a ladder to the second story.

40 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1925

Sikeston will indeed be putting her best foot forward in about a week when the new Frisco station, combining passenger and freight offices, is opened.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bloomfield and son of San Antonio, Tex., returned to Sikeston Friday morning. Mr. Bloomfield has been in San Antonio for his health and his many friends are glad to see him return to Sikeston greatly improved.

Mrs. Ida Malone, who was a resident of Sikeston for 12 years and has many friends here, is one of a large class graduating from the Memphis General Hospital on June 8.

The sale of lots in the new high school addition met with remarkable success and indicated that Sikeston will probably have a number of beautiful homes in that part of town erected in the near future. According to Dan McCoy, sales manager for the new addition, the 80 lots will bring something like $20,000.

30 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1935

Mrs. Jewell Boswell, 24 years old, died of heart trouble Saturday afternoon at her home here.

Miss Elizabeth Vaughan Bowman and Narciase Edward Fuchs, Jr., were married Monday morning in the residence of the Rev. Thomas R. Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Noonan will move this week to Jefferson City, where Mr. Noonan is now affiliated with the state highway department.

20 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1945

Margaret Ann Hatfield, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hatfield, completed her senior high school year at Ellisville, Miss., and was honored by being valedictorian of a class of 82 young people.

Edwin McAmis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. McAmis, appeared in a piano recital last Friday night at the home of his instructor, Mrs. O. T. Elder, on North Ranney Avenue. His sister, Ann, contributed a solo to the program.

Misses Sue Tanner and Alice Van Horne are members of the graduating class at William Woods College, Fulton, Mo., and will receive diplomas at commencement exercises to be held this weekend.

Malone Theatre, May 24-25, "For Whom The Bell Tolls" with Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman. Rex Theatre, "Jane Eyre" with Joan Fontaine and orson Welles.

House Passes Proposed Constitutional Amendment

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House today passed a constitutional amendment proposal that would lower the required vote majority on general obligation bond issues to 60 per cent. The requirement now is two-thirds.

The vote sending the measure to the Senate was 98-52.

Sponsors said lowering the majority required would allow schools and other governmental subdivisions to progress. Many needed bond issues, they said, now fail by small margins.

But opponents said the two-thirds majority should be retained to protect the public from being gouged by costly bond issues.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a proposed amendment to set the limit of school taxation throughout the state at $1.50 on the $100 assessed valuation without a vote of the people. Now the limits are 98 cents in St. Louis city and $1 in the rest of the state.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill that would give the director of corrections a pay boost of $3,000, to a new top of $18,000.

House Ways And Means Repeals Excise On Cars

WASHINGTON AP--The House Ways and Means Committee has taken a long step beyond President Johnson's request and voted to repeal entirely the excise tax on passenger automobiles over the next four years.

The four major auto companies promptly announced they would pass any tax cuts on to buyers, which would mean an eventual price reduction on an average car of about $230. The present excise tax on cars is 10 per cent, and Johnson asked that it be cut to 5 per cent.

Tuesday's Ways and Means Committee action--if upheld by Congress -- would bring the eventual revenue reduction to nearly $5 billion, $900 million more than Johnson had recommended in a special message to Congress Monday. The cut in the first year would be about the $1.75 billion urged by the President.

Swift congressional approval of excise tax cuts seems assured.

The House probably will vote on the measure the week of May 31, if leaders carry out present plans.

In the Senate, Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said the Finance Committee hopes to take up the bill right after the House acts and will hear only one witness--Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler. Sen. Byrd said all potential witnesses favor the cuts.

The unusual speed is designed in large part to head off any slump in buying the many goods on which taxes would be eliminated July 1.

Following Johnson's recommendation, the House committee provided procedures by which people who bought autos or air conditioners before July 1 could get refunds.

In addition to these two items, a long list of goods, taxed for the most part at 10 per cent, would become tax free July 1 if the legislation is enacted by then.

They include jewelry, furs, toilet preparations, luggage and handbags.

Taxes at the manufacturer's level would be lifted from television, radio and phonographic sets, cameras, musical instruments, sporting goods except for fishing equipment, refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners, power lawnmowers and electric, gas and oil appliances.

Dexter Plans Industry Expansion; Street Paving

DEXTER--Plans for the construction of an annex to the Elder Manufacturing Company were presented by W. L. Arnold and other members of the Chamber of Commerce at the May 3 meeting of the Dexter City Council.

The plan presented by the C of C members included the financing through the issuance of general obligation bonds. An ordinance was approved covering the plans.

The council also endorsed the purchase of three radios for use by the Street Department, Water Department, and Mayor for quick contact service during work hours.

A committee composed of Gene Nichols, Lehman Godwin and Willis Conner was appointed to bring in a recommendation to the council concerning the disposal of the oldest fire truck.

Fire Chief Leslie McMunn recommended to the group that Larry Hall be appointed Assistant Fire Chief and the action was approved.

The Council voiced approval for the purchase of a new truck for the Water Department. Aldermen Godwin, Conner and Sherman Boone were appointed to a committee to arrange for bids for the truck.

An ordinance covering cooperation in the Housing Authority was approved along with the ordance covering fund disbursements for the month amounting to $29,418.15.

City Engineer C. R. Trotter opened and read the bids for the street improvement project with Garner and Fortner awarded the contract for the curb and guttering and Delta Asphalt the contract for the two inch paving. The bid from Garner and Fortner was $20,-174.55 and Delta Asphalt was $12,680.55.

Benton Says 'War In Viet Is Hell'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Artist Thomas Hart Benton says the situation in Viet Nam is "a hell of a stinking mess" but he still wants the American Academy of Arts and Letters to repudiate a speech by its president, Lewis Mumford, attacking U.S. policy in that area.

If the academy refuses to do that, the blunt-speaking Benton said he will resign from the 50-member honor society.

Benton returned to his home here Wednesday night from New York where Mumford stirred his anger with a speech opening the academy's annual festival of the arts. Declaring he was expressing his personal views and not speaking for the academy, Mumford called the U.S. commitment in the Southeast Asian country a "moral outrage."

Benton, seated on the stage with other members and artists, tried to interrupt Mumford but said later: "They pulled me down. I couldn't be heard."

On his arrival here he said in an interview that he was aroused not only by Mumford's remarks but by the applause they received from an audience of about 500.

"The situation in Viet Nam is a hell of a stinking mess but he (Mumford) doesn't know any more about it than I do," Benton said.

"All war is immoral but the U.S. is not responsible for war, neither is Lyndon Johnson."

Benton said he and Mumford had been friends for 40 years and that "a bunch of holy, talcum-covered geniuses—the intelligentsia — trapped" the academy president into making the speech. Continuation of his friendship, he added, would depend on whether the Mumford statements are repudiated.

In his speech Mumford said "those of us who are devoted to the pursuit of the arts and humane letters have a duty to oppose any assault upon the basic moralities that alone have preserved mankind's common heritage from the aggressive egotism and the presumptious national claims that so often undermine the prudence and common sense of those who exercise political authority. . .

"Obviously we have no more reason to have our will prevail in Viet Nam than Soviet Russia had to establish rocket bases in Cuba."

Members of the academy are chosen from the National Institute of Arts and Letters with its membership limited to 50. Benton was elected to the academy in May, 1963, and his citation was presented at that time by Mumford, an author and social commentator.

Three Southeast Missouri Men Indicted By Grand Jury

MEMPHIS -- Federal Judge Marion S. Boyd has issued a warrant for the appearance of three Southeast Missouri men for arraignment Friday on a charge of extortion.

The three men indicted by a federal grand jury are Walter Richardson Jr., 48, of Portageville, president of Wil-Mar Advertising Co., of Sikeston, Mo.; William R. McIntosh, 45, 612 W. Murray Lane, Sikeston, the firm's general sales manager and Joe Dale Wilson, 23, a salesman for the firm.

The men are charged with extortion that supposedly took place April 23 for $5,000 of a Memphis, Tenn. man.

The three are accused of calling William Tanner, president of Pepper Sound Studios Inc. of Memphis, and demanding $5,000 to avoid bodily harm to his brother, Henry Faye Tanner, a former employee of the Wil-Mar Company.

All three subjects have been free on $100,000. bond since the day after they were arrested. The bond was posted for appearance before United States District Commissioner, Paul Mueller Jr. of Jackson.

Henry Tanner had worked for the Wil-Mar Company until about two months prior to the alledged extortion.

Up until yesterday morning, it was reported, Henry Tanner was staying at the Claridge Hotel in Memphis, but upon investigating done by a Standard Reporter his immediate whereabouts are unknown. However, it was reported that he claims residence at Brownsville, Tex. Upon trying to get verification to this, it was found that there was no listing of his presence in Brownsville.

Railway Hearing Ends

MEMPHIS AP -- The last of six Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on a proposal by the Frisco Railroad to discontinue the line's remaining passenger service was to end here today, setting the stage for an ICC decision on the matter before Aug. 19.

The hearing here Wednesday, as well as those that proceded it in Birmingham, St. Louis, Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Springfield, Mo., produced a stream of governmental officials, military personnel and just plain citizens opposed to the proposal. All the while, the railroad has claimed it is losing $3 million annually on the passenger operations.

D. W. Snyder, a Mississippi public service commissioner, testified Wednesday that many cities in northeast Mississippi are now enjoying an industrial boom. He added that this growth "would be seriously affected" by the removal of Frisco passenger service.

Speaking in behalf of the Defense Department, Maj. Robert W. Hopkins of Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., listed eight military installations which would also be adversely affected if the proposal is approved.

An attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People spoke against the discontinuance in the name of the Association of Railway Trainmen porters, which she also represents.

Miss Barbara Morris said that 60 porters, all Negroes, are now working on Frisco passenger trains, and called eight of them to testify that they are qualified to do the work of brakemen, a position now held

U. S. Planes Drop Leaflets In On Communist Aggressors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP-- U. S. Air Force planes flew within 55 miles of Hanoi today and dropped half a million leaflets warning the Communists to halt aggression in South Viet Nam or "bear more disastrous consequences," a U. S. military spokesman said.

On the ground, the Viet Cong fired a short mortar barrage into a U. S. Marine patrol 15 miles southwest of Da Nang, killing one Marine and wounding two others. The Marines reported their return fire killed at least two guerrillas.

"If the Vietnamese Communists are stubborn in their aggression and sabotage in South Viet Nam, they will bear more disastrous consequences," the leaflets said.

"Our brothers in the army of North Viet Nam, don't let the Chinese and Vietnamese Communists use your bones and blood to wage a fratricidal war in South Viet Nam."

The spokesman said 25 F105 Thunderchiefs dropped the leaflets over Ninh Binh and then attacked a radar station on Hon Matt Island 135 miles southeast of Hanoi. The flight over Ninh Binh was the third time U. S. aircraft had penetrated above the 20th Parallel, the spokesman said.

The dual mission capped a day of almost continuous air strikes against the Communist North on the third day of renewed raids.

Earlier strikes were reported against the Phu Qui petroleum complex, 125 miles south of Hanoi, and against a convoy of 15 trucks. Phu Qui was also attacked when the raids were resumed Tuesday.

The spolesman said four U. S. Navy Skyhawks from the carrier Coral Sea destroyed four railroad cars and probably damaged bridges on a raid between Thanh Hoa and Vinh, 128 miles south of Hanoi.

The aircraft also attacked a ferry and a bridge 100 miles south of Hanoi but the extent of damage was not immediately determined.

Only light anitaircraft fire was reported during the day raids. The spolesman said all planes returned safely.

A military spokesman said four planes, attacking before dawn with the aid of flares, damaged five trucks in the convoy moving west along a road about 90 miles south of Hanoi. All four planes returned safely to the carrier Coral Sea without encountering any antiaircraft fire or hostile aircraft, the spokesman said.

Wednesday night three pairs of U. S. Navy Skyhawks made spearate strikes against a bridge 77 miles south of Hanoi and boxcars and other targets about 120 miles below the capital. They followed a mass strike by 40 U. S. Navy planes Wednesday morning.

The raids against the North were resumed Tuesday after a six-day suspension failed to bring any response from Hanoi to U. S. peace overtures.

The North Vietnamese Communists charged today that the United States did not actually suspend raids against North Viet Nam.

"In reality over the past week there has been no 'suspension' of U. S. bombing and strafing of North Viet Nam," said Hanoi's Nhan Dan daily.

It charged that the United States stepped up the raids and made 186 sorties on May 14.

The Chinese Communist party's Peking People's Daily joined in with the claim that U. S. planes made strikes against North Viet Nam on May 12, 13 and 17.

During the suspension, U. S. planes reportedly continued to make reconnaissance flights over North Viet Nam, assessing the damage done in previous attacks.

Troops of the U. S. 173rd Airborne Brigade were carrying out what was officially described as a training exercise today south of the U. S.-Vietnamese air base at Bien Hoa.

The exercise took American troops into an area where the Viet Cong have been active. There were unconfirmed reports that light sniper fire had been encountered.

One account said the paratroopers had opened up on a group of about 15 suspected Viet Cong and scattered them. There was no word of any casualties.

In Washington, Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen that neither diplomats nor bombs are going to win the war in Viet Nam

"The struggle can only come to an end when the South Vietnamese and ourselves have shown that we know how to overcome Communist subversion on the ground," Lodge said.

Lodge, a former ambassador to Saigon, has returned from a fact-finding mission abroad for President Johnson. He sounded out the governments of eight Asian nations and Italy on steps to support the fight against communism in Viet Nam.

"In all these governments there was gratification the United States was carrying this heavy responsibility," he said. "There was the hope that we would stay in South Viet Nam. There was the hope that we would win."

One of the governments Lodge talked with was India. Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri signed a joint communique with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Wednesday calling for an immediate stop to the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Of special interest to the business community, the company said, is this breakdown of what the increase in retail sales would be:

Grocery stores $72,000.
Automobile dealers $47,000.
Eating places $25,000.
Gasoline service stations $24,000.

A temporary site to be used by the company for establishing its operations here will be announced soon. Actual hiring of 10 production workers will take place in August. These new workers will receive on-the-job training designed by the Sikeston School System. The School System will also design all training programs for the company's sales representatives assigned to the Sikeston area and to various other parts of the country as well. In addition, certain customers of the company will be brought to Sikeston to attend Data Processing Seminars, also to be programmed by the local School System.

Battered Child Bill

JEFFERSON CITY AP--The "battered child bill" is on its way to the governor.

The bill, passed by the House Wednesday, would allow a physician to determine whether law officers should be informed in cases of child abuse.

There is no way now for a doctor to report such cases without laying himself open to suit.

The House also passed and sent back to the Senate with some changes a bill to increase the height and length of trucks.

Earlier the House passed a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges from $200 to $300 a year per student, but the Senate Education Committee approved the bill at a $240 level. Payments would be based on students carrying 24 credit hours instead of the present 30-hour requirement.

Two proposed consititutional amendments cleared the House Wednesday.

One would allow a 60 per cent majority vote on general obligation bond issues, instead of two-thirds.

The other would increase the maximum school levy without vote of the people to $1.50. The top now is 89 cents in St. Louis and $1 in the rest of the state.

Also sent to the governor was the administration bill to abolish the old one-cent of the property tax that was used to pay off a school fund debt which has now been retired.

Marine Killed By Mortar Barrage

NINH AN, Viet Nam (AP) — A brief Viet Cong mortar barrage killed one U.S. Marine and wounded two on patrol today in southwest of the Da Nang air base.

The Marines, replying with their own mortars, 3.5-inch rockets and small arms, believed they killed at least two Viet Cong.

Cpl. Mike Jeffords of Milwaukee, Wis., said he saw a rifle bullet blast away the face of one guerrilla. But the Marines were unable to find any bodies in the tangled undergrowth.

Matthews To Integrate School

The Board of Education of the R-V School District has received word from the United States Office of Education that its plan for desegregation submitted March 1 and altered again by request April 19, 1965 is adequate for compliance with the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Section VI of this Act provides that: "No person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

The Board of Education of the R-V School District proposes to desegregate all pupils from grades nine (9) through twelve (12) at the beginning of the 1965-1966 school year.

The Board of Education proposes to operate all the remaining grades (one through eight) in the district on the basis of an open enrollment policy, giving all parents freedom of choice in the selection of the school that they want their child to attend. A pupil whose choice of school is rejected because of overcrowding will be notified and permitted to make a second choice between two schools. All parents who will have children attending school in the R-V School District next term will be furnished a form for designating the school that they have selected for their child to attend. This card will be brought home by their child. Parents are requested to fill out the form, sign it and return it to their child's teacher on or before May 31, 1965.

Parents, who have children who will begin attending school for the first time next term, should request forms from the principal of the school that they have chosen for their child to attend.

Schools operating in this district next year are as follows: Matthews High School; Matthews Elementary; Canalou Elementary; Big Ridge Elementary; Ogden Elementary.

The policies and procedures of this program have been adopted and initiated by the Board of Education, only after meticulous consideration and with the view of operating a school program desired by all parents and patrons of the district.

The Board of Education urgently asks your cooperation with this program.

Junta Claims Absolute Control

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta claimed "absolute control" of the country Wednesday night and called for unconditional surrender of the rebels.

"We have absolute control of the Dominican Republic," the junta president, Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, told a rally of about 1,000 cheering middle-and upper-class followers inside the U.S.-occupied international zone of Santo Domingo.

"We don't want a truce. Out with communism," the crowd shouted.

Imbert spoke from a balcony at his headquarters in the Congressional Palace shortly after junta troops overran the rebel radio station and rebel resistance in northern Santo Domingo collapsed.

Imbert told an interviewer he would not consider any compromise with the rebel force of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno. He said his five-man junta would only discuss unconditional surrender of the insurgents, whose main force is holed up in downtown Santo Domingo inside the U.S.-controlled areas.

Caamano has also refused to meet with Imbert, contending that any compromise with the junta would violate rebel demands for a return to the 1963 constitution.

However, a spokesman for the U.N. peace mission said both the junta and the rebels have agreed in principle to a 12-hour cease-fire Friday to let the Red Cross remove dead and wounded from the fighting zone. The spokesman added that detailed agreements with each side still must be worked out.

Shooting tapered off Wednesday night, but there apparently were rebel holdouts in the northern area. Imbert told a newsman the battle would be over by the weekend.

Asked if his forces would try to storm the rebel stronghold downtown, the junta chief said, "That's next week's problem."

A junta spokesman said 800 rebel prisoners had been taken in the battle in the northern suburbs.

Hospitals reported 30 dead in the fighting, but some estimates placed the total at more than 100 including civilians.

Newsmen driving through the area said tanks had demolished some homes where rebels were believed barricaded. Many homes were scarred by machine-gun and cannon fire they said.

Some families fleeing the battle area claimed U.S. troops were aiding junta soldiers in the fight against the rebels. Some said they had seen American troops arrive with junta forces in three truckloads of reinforcements Tuesday.

A U.S. military spokesman said the only American troops with the junta were radio units assigned to help Dominican forces keep their gunfire away from the American Lines.

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant called on the United States to "use its good offices" to get the rival Dominican factions to head the cease-fire appeal issued by the Security Council last Friday.

Thant said his special Dominican envoy, Jose Antonio Mayobre of Venezuela, told U.S. officials in Santo Domingo there was an "unavoidable implication of United States involvement because of the inaction of United States forces during the junta offensive."

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the Security Council the United States had sent high-level diplomatic representatives to Santo Domingo to "help to stop the fighting and reconcile the factions." But Stevenson said the United States "is not taking sides" and its forces "do not have a mandate to enforce the cease-fire."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko demanded what right U.S. representatives had to go to Santo Domingo. He charged that U.S. troops were giving "practical military assistance" to the junta forces in "a genuine hangman's mission." He said the council should demand their immediate withdrawal.

A U.S. official in Santo Domingo acknowledged that Washington's envoys have failed so far in efforts to replace the junta with a coalition government headed by Antonio Guzman, agriculture minister under ex-President Juan Bosch.

Imbert rejected the U.S. plan and accused the United States of interference. He was supported by Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, chief of the Dominicanarmed forces.

The rebels accepted Guzman but rejected others suggested for the coalition.

"There must be a reappraisal," the U.S. official said. But he stressed that the United States was not endorsing the junta.

In Washington, the special peace mission of the Organization of American States which recently returned from Santo Domingo urged the OAS to ask the U.N. to "suspend all action" in the Dominican crisis while the OAS tries to achieve a political settlement.

The committee said its work was finished and asked the OAS to send a special mediator to the divided Caribbean country.

I presume as the weather continues to warm up and stay in the 80's and above, that Brother Cullens, chief custodian of the bank, will have a harder time keeping the youngsters out of the fountain.

RIGHT-TO-WORK CHALLENGE

SOME 19 BILLS TO REMOVE or amend Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act are pending in the special House Labor subcommittee headed by Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.). A preview of the President's labor reform package was given May 12 by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who told the International Ladies Garment Workers Union convention in Miami Beach that it was part of his job to press for repeal of what is sometimes called the right-to-work law.

George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, told the same convention that unions must be freed from statutes that curb their efforts to improve the lot of workers. Specifically on 14 (b), Meany said confidently: "This section we expect to repeal this year."

BIG LABOR had inveighed against 14(b) since the labor law's enactment in 1947 but in recent years it realistically hadn't done very much about it. Now the AFL-CIO Executive Council believes it has the votes in the new Congress.

The labor leaders count 221 hard votes for repeal in the House of Representatives, with 218 needed to send the bill to the Senate where they have always been confident of passage.

The Democratic party platform last year called for outright repeal of 14 (b). President Johnson in his State of the Union Message stated flatly: "As pledged in our 1960 and 1964 platforms, I will propose to Congress changes in the Taft-Hartley Act including Section 14 (b)." What remained was the matter of priority.

The AFL-CIO early in January called all its affiliated brass to Washington for a four-day lobbying job on the new Congress. But it soon became evident that the administration itself wasn't going to be hurried, that "first things," in the White House view, had to do more directly with the Great Society.

Now with the education bill signed into law, with medicare sliding down a clear track, with voting reforms assured (in large outline), with a water pollution bill approved, the administration is ready to give labor the opportunity to collect its bill for support of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket and the Democratic sweep in Congress last year. For its part, labor feels easier about pressing for repeal now that its public image has been improved with avoidance of a long strike in steel.

UNION SHOP CONTRACTS between employers and unions require workers to join a union within a specified period, usually 30 to 60 days after being employed. Repeal of 14 (b) would, in effect, take away from the states the right to enact laws forbidding union shop contracts and would make such laws inoperable where they now exist. Nineteen states today have right-to-work laws.

Without exception, these are Southern, Midwestern, and Western states, and few of them are heavily industrial. So for all practical purposes, the bitter fighting looming up in Congress is over a symbolic rather than a bread-winning issue. A Fund for the Republic study issued several years ago under the imprint of a committee of which Secretary Wirtz was a member said of experience under a Texas law: "Right-to-Work' proposals have become a convenient symbol for this purpose (public demonstration of political power) perhaps because, in effect, they do mean so little."

GOVERNMENT SPENDING -- "I am reminded," said Rep. Robert H. Michel (R. Ill.) "that a member of the other body has introduced legislation which has come to be known as the truth in lending bill. It would seem very appropriate that we might well give consideration to passage of a resolution calling for 'Truth in Spending' so the American people might be fully apprised as to what the spending level of the Government is."

* * *

POST OFFICE -- "How can we explain a Post Office Department," asks Rep. Frank Bow (R-Ohio) "that costs the average family over $80 a year in addition to the postage it pays every time it wishes to use the service, and how explain why so costly a service is so consistently unsatisfactory?"

* * *

FOREIGN AID -- Our government will be disbursing some type of foreign aid during 1965 in 99 foreign nations and 9 territories, stated Rep. Otto Passman (D-La.) "and this program in its present form is uncontrolled and apparently uncontrollable."

* * *

FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT -- Despite drastically increasing expenditures, the number of farms continues to dwindle while the number of employees in the Department of Agriculture continues to grow, according to Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa), until today there is one farm bureaucrat for every 32 farms.

WHAT GOES ON UP HERE:
A VIEW FROM THE TOP

Lifting 10,000 one-dollar bills to the top of the Empire State Building causes a weight loss of one bill -- due to the decrease in gravity's pull, according to a geophysicist's recent experiments.

Holding on to 10,000 one dollar bills on the ground floor, the 102nd floor or anywhere else in the U. S. for four days will produce a similar effect -- about $1 loss due to inflation, Tax Foundation, Ind. estimates. Since 1949 the dollar is estimated to have lost approximately 23 cents of its purchasing power.

Nighttime experiments with a sensitive gravimeter in the world's tallest building by Columbia University's Dr. John T. F. Kuo show that a man weighing 160 pounds on the street weighs only 159.9814 pounds on the 102nd floor.

Tax Foundation says a not unsimilar disparity in a time dimension can be shown between the former and current purchasing power of the dollar. At the current rate of inflation (it has slowed more of recent years) the loss on $10,000 is about 27 cents a day. Whether it is called the "rise in the consumer price index," the "decline in the purchasing power of the dollar" or inflation, some typical effects are shown below:

Year	U.S. Bond	Insur. Policy	Annual Wage	Monthly Pension
1949	$1,000	$1,500	$3,500	$100
1955	889	1,334	3,112	89
1959	818	1,227	2,862	82
1963	778	1,167	2,723	78
1964	770	1,155	2,695	77

President Johnson has advanced specific proposals to insure the voting rights of every American, of whatever race or color. More than that, however, he has made it plain that this unfinished business of American freedom is something that concerns all of us, everywhere.

"There is no Negro problem," he said. "There is no Southern problem or Northern problem. There is only an American problem."

The first aspect of the situation -- specific laws and procedures regarding voting -- can be put into effect by Congress.

The second -- the granting of the dignity of full-fledged citizenship to all -- cannot be accomplished with the simple passing of a law. It can come only through the positive thinking and action of each individual, whether he is a public official like a voting registrar or is an ordinary private citizen. Whether he is one who already enjoys full rights or is one striving to attain them.

The second matter is the long, the difficult process. But the first step, the insuring of equality under law, is the necessary prelude to undertaking it.

Just as a century ago one president maintained that the nation could not endure half slave and half free, so today another has told us that it cannot continue all free and partly free -- not without enormous civil discontent and disruption.

The nation emerged stronger and more unified from the terrible ordeal of war that was required to end slavery. It is to be hoped that it will emerge stronger and freer from the legal and moral struggle that will be required to implement the "unkept promise" of the American dream.

The President has issued the call, to lawmakers and to citizens. History will record how well it was answered.

THE FUNCTION OF THE CORPORATION

The president of a major oil company, which has served its area for 95 years, recently had something worthwhile to say about the often-misunderstood role of the corporation.

Incorporation provides continuity to enterprise. So long as it meets a need, it is capable of almost limitless growth. Because of such characteristics, the corporation can undertake research and finance long-term projects that may not produce a return for many years. As as example of this, he cited his own company's development of oil shale. Many other examples, within and without the oil industry, could be listed.

He then made this all-important statement: "The primary function of a corporation is to organize men and capital to produce and sell products that are of greater value to society than their cost--and thus earn a profit. If a corporation fails to earn a profit, it is in some way failing its responsibilities to society. Its products may not be what the public wants. Its costs may be too high. Whatever the reasons, the penalty for this failure--very correctly--is extinction."

Too few of us have an understanding of this vital corporate function. It is profit which enables a corporation to expand, to employ more people, to develop new products, to help improve living standards, and to attract savings. And profit--or lack of it -- determines whether the corporation is or is not providing a needed and wanted public service. The corporate way of doing business is a vital part of a dynamic economy.

DRESS TIPS: There's a new look for ensembling, which is understated and elegant -- the "one - color combination." Wear a basic color -- for example, gray -- a gray suit, gray shirt and gray tie. Blend the shades from lightest to darkest, from near-white to black, for a tasteful effect, and use the same idea for blue or brown. . .Another idea is the "two-color combination" -- example, black and blue. Wear a black suit, blue shirt and black-and-blue tie. Other examples are brown and blue; navy and gold, etc.

CLEARING SKIES

Oftentimes the citing of one good example is more effective than thousands of words of arguments or admonition.

Today's example: The decision of four major steel producers in the Chicago area to spend $50 million for equipment to end air pollution at their plants.

The project, jointly announced, will take several years to complete. But it's estimated that by the first of next year alone it will have advanced sufficiently to eliminate half of the air pollution caused by these plants, and that further improvement can be expected before the project is completed.

This is just one instance of the good citizenship displayed by American industry. Less dramatic possibly because they involve lesser sums, countless other projects are constantly under way as industry voluntarily seeks to help assure the nation of pure air and pure water.

H. L. Hunt Says

FREEDOM AND CRIME

The well-justified deep concern felt over our steeply rising crime rate in America is spreading among the people in every corner of our land.

A healthy, potentially constructive and long - needed debate on crime's cause and cure has resulted from this concern. Many have rightly pointed to the collapse of moral standards and an attitude of exaggerated tolerance as conditions which invite crime where they do not cause it.

In this debate there is one trend of thinking which itself might give cause for concern: the assertion that the present crime wave is due to too much freedom and excessive concern with individual rights.

Our nation was founded on a love of freedom and individual rights. There can never be too much of either, so long as both are properly understood.

One of the great tragedies of our time is that the very ideas of freedom and rights are so badly misunderstood by so many.

Far from being a license to crime, freedom and rights properly understood are the great barriers to crime. If freedom as an objective value and individual rights as part of natural law, you do not violate the rights of others any more than you allow others to violate your rights. You support every step government takes to protect citizens in the full enjoyment of their freedom and their rights.

Communists may not encourage any other crimes except their own. Criminals may not be friendly to Communism at all, but wherever there is a failure of law and order Communists like the atmosphere created and move in.

DA NANG Airbase, South Viet Nam (AP) — "It's the only war we've got."

That was the laconic reply of Capt. John O. Edelblute of Crown Point, Ind., when asked why he had volunteered for a third tour of duty in the Far East.

"I'm a career officer. This is my life. I'm a fighter pilot."

At 33, the captain is the oldest of four bachelors among the 25 pilots in the 615th Tactical Fighter Squadron. The squadron commander, Maj. James A. Minish, 36, of Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., says he is "one of the very best."

Edelblute's hot seat in the sky is an F100 all-purpose fighter plane which attacks its targets at a speed ranging between 400 to 600 knots. When he winds up his present duty tour June 1, he will have completed about 100 sorties and dropped or shot up to 250 tons of bombs, rockets and bullets at the enemy.

"I hope I'll get 30 days leave," he said. "I've got a new car at England Air Force Base in Louisiana waiting for me, and I'd like to catch up on my bass fishing.

"Then, if they want me to come back here for fourth tour, I'll pack my bag and come back."

Edelblute stands an inch over 6 feet, has brown hair and blue eyes, and is sturdily handsome. He has sweated off 20 pounds under the grind of heat and long hours.

He has had two bad blows to his spirit. His mother and father were killed in an automobile accident last April, and on a recent attack on a northern flak site his wingman disappeared.

"We don't know what happened to him. We never heard of him again."

As do most capable people, "Blute" speaks of his work with a straightforward matter of factness. He has flown every type of mission, day and night, and minimizes the three hits the enemy has made on his plane.

"I know I've got some flak sites," he said. "And I know I've missed at least one bridge.

"But it takes only from 30 to 50 seconds from the time you roll in toward your target until you start to pull out.

"When you're making a pass, you only have time to think about your airplane, your sight and that target. As soon as you release your bombs, you pull out and get out. Somebody else can tell you later where you've hit.

"You're likely to be knocked down if you go back for a look yourself."

Some days he flies one mission. Some days two. There always is the possibility of a sudden night air support mission to help hard - pressed ground troops. Edelblute sleeps on the base. His only relaxation is a weekly trip into town to eat at a Chinese restaurant. He likes corn soup with crab.

This is how he feels about what he is doing:

"I just want the people back home to know that we are really in a war. This is not just a game over here.

"The work we have done is positive. I feel it is having its effect."

"Blute" takes quite a lot of kidding about his bachelor status.

He explains it this way: "The girl who marries me will have to marry the Air Force, too. So far I haven't found one willing to do both, although last year I thought I had."

Any girl who does say "yes" to Capt. Edelblute can be sure of two things — she'll be wedded to a fine officer as well as a fine Air Force. You'd think our girls would be standing in line for a chance like that, wouldn't you now?

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Last year, President Johnson went to great pains to pick three highly qualified men to represent the public as directors of the Communications Satellite Corporation — George Meany of the AFL-CIO, representing labor; Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California, representing the scholastic world; and Frederic G. Donner, Chairman of General Motors, representing the business world.

The President had been told that he couldn't possibly get Donner to serve, and it took some of the famous Lyndon persuasion to get him. However, the GM Chairman finally agreed.

Since then, the attendance record of the three directors picked by Johnson to represent the public has been interesting.

Donner has attended every meeting. Meany has attended almost all, having been absent while in Europe.

Clark Kerr of the University of California has attended no meetings.

—McCORMACK'S SECRET DEAL—

It will probably be denied, but gaunt, gray Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts has made a secret deal with Mississippi congressmen to help them remain in Congress. Without his help they would probably be ousted.

McCormack's secret promise to the Mississippians is one of the strange paradoxes of Congress. Publicly McCormack is for an amendment to the voting rights bill banning poll taxes. Furthermore he comes from a city whose uncompromising abolitionists damned and blasted the South in such a way as to help precipitate the Civil War.

Yet, privately, the congressman from Boston has been working hand in glove with the Mississippi segregationists and has promised to save them from losing their seats.

John will probably smite his bosom and issue an indignant denial calling Drew Pearson a liar after this is published. Nevertheless, here are his very important backstage moves.

Backstage Move No. 1 dates back to last January when the issue of seating the Mississippi congressmen first arose.

The Constitution clearly states that if state's inhabitants over 21 are prohibited from voting "the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion" to the number prevented from voting. It was quite clear that last November most of Mississippi's Negroes were prevented from voting. Furthermore, the law of 1870, by which Mississippi was readmitted to the union after the Civil War, requires that every citizen be given the right to vote.

When a group of Northern congressmen moved to prevent the Mississippi congressmen from taking their seats as Congress convened Jan. 2, Speaker McCormack led the move to seat them.

"The Speaker has asked me to introduce a motion to seat the Mississippi delegation," Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., told Rep. William Fitz Ryan, D-N.Y., "and as Majority Leader I am going to do it."

Backstage Move No. 2 came after the Democratic caucus stripped Rep. John Bell Williams, Miss., and Rep. Albert Watson, S.C., of their seniority as Democrats because they had voted for Goldwater. Despite this official vote by the Democratic party, McCormack, a leading Democrat, gave Williams full seniority in assigning office space. As a result, the Congressman from Mississippi got one of the choicest offices in the de luxe Sam Rayburn Building.

Backstage Move No. 3 is McCormack's recent secret promise to help prevent the unseating of the Mississippi congressmen.

This came about after hundreds of affidavits were collected in Mississippi attesting under oath that Negroes were disfranchised last year. Though this was known in the past, no one ever took the trouble to produce sworn affidavits proving the disfranchisement. Furthermore, Congress for the first time since New Deal Days is dominated by Northern Liberals.

In addition, some Southerners, such as the respected Phil Landrum, D-Ga., once the darling of the Conservatives, are moving over to the Liberal side. Finally, the Democratic study group has developed an effective, vote-rallying whip system which has surprised and often overwhelmed the Conservatives.

As a result, Speaker McCormack has told Mississippi congressmen that they would lose a showdown vote to keep their seats. Their only hope, he was advised, is to sidetrack the move to unseat them. And he has promised to use his own tremendous power to do so.

Ironically, it was the Democratic study group which helped give McCormack this new power he now plans to use against them.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Every official who has been sent on an inspection trip to South Viet Nam has reported back that U.S., morale is high. The jungle - fighting special forces have shown a discouraging reluctance, however, to patrol the jungle at night or to endure the hardships that the Viet Cong are willing to accept. . . With Charlie Murphy of the Agriculture Department now Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and Bob Murphy already vice chairman, the problem of names on the CAB is going to become as complicated as the traffic problem over La Guardia Airport.

Inside Labor

American Seamen Jobless, While Japanese Sailors, Manning U. S. Craft, Slow Supply Runs to Viet Nam.

NEW YORK: -- A tense pre-dawn, trans-Pacific telephone call from Yokohama early Sunday, May 16, dramatized a logistic problem haunting our military in the Orient, and especially South Viet Nam.

The call came from the National Maritime Union's (NMU) representative in Japan. His message relayed the grim news to NMU leader Joe Curran that the U. S. movement of vital ammunition and heavy equipment was being slowed by tactics of the huge Japanese labor federation known as SOHYO, and by seamen on Okinawa.

This 454-square-mile Ryukyu island is America's chief military base in the Far East.

Several times Japanese and Ryukyu seamen have refused to sign on American LSTs or have actually vetoed the loading of ammunition on ships bound for South Viet Nam.

For months now the All-Japanese Seamen's Union has discouraged its members from signing on the 17 LSTs which run from Japan to Okinawa and then on to South Viet Nam. The U. S. supply lines have therefore been clogged because it has been American policy to give well-paying jobs to as many Japanese workers as possible.

For the LST run, the Military Sea Transportation Service has hired over 800 Japanese sailors. They've been hard to find because of SOHYO's opposition.

But this is just the beginning of the harassment of American supply specialists. The Japanese government is insisting that the U. S. first move troops, stationed in Japan, to Okinawa before they and their equipment can be sped to South Viet Nam.

Thus, smooth operation in the Okinawan port -- and capital -- Naha -- is vital. But there ships' crews have refused to take on ammunition for the American soldiers in South Viet Nam. Some of the island's longshoremen, who have demonstrated against the U. S. during past May Day celebrations, have also refused to handle ammunition.

When the military threatened to dismiss the balky longshoremen, a threat of a general strike developed. The men said the ammunition was too dangerous.

But then came the afternoon of Saturday, May 15. They refused to load a huge crane and other equipment aboard the American LST 531. Some of the crew reportedly refused to handle the equipment, though not even a firecracker was on the docks or in the cargo.

Word was sped to Jim Patterson, the NMU's man in Yokohama. He flashed the news to big Joe Curran here. What had angered Curran is the Military Sea Transportation Service's policy of hiring Japanese, many unskilled, while several hundred NMU members are jobless "on the beach" in Japan.

Furthermore, Curran points out, there are over 10,000 unemployed seamen here in the states. Virtually all of them are fine sailors and have the precious Coast Guard security clearance.

"We have these thousands of American sailors willing to work the ships and run into danger to help the young fighting men in Viet Nam," Joe Curran said after receiving the trans-Pacific call. "We're fighting for freedom and we should count on our own people, our own citizens, not the untested, unskilled and politicalized Japanese who obviously aren't that nation's best seamen."

Curran and his colleagues point to the wild demonstrations which the left wing of Japanese labor has organized against the U.S. On April 26, SOHYO, which is the base of the ultra Leftist Socialist Party, helped put 25,000 rioters into Tokyo's streets to shout against our policy in Viet Nam, our docking of atomic subs in Japan and for the return of Okinawa to Japan.

Also though not publicized, there is a SOHYO letter in the files of the AFL-CIO, of which Curran is a national vice president. In this communication, SOHYO, many of whose people are raising relief for North Viet Nam, praises what it calls the workers' peace, happiness and freedom in Russia. This letter also attacks America's involvement in Viet Nam.

There is obvious substance to Curran's anger and demand that we rush American seamen to the Orient to keep the vital ships sailing. For our men in Okinawa "is a life line indeed.

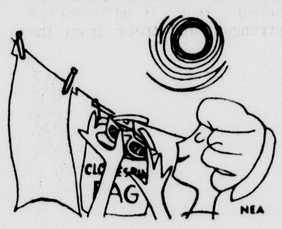
DEAR POLLY—Perhaps some of the readers can help me. Some of my sheets and white blouses have red crayon marks on them. I do not know how the crayon got in the washer as I usually check all the pockets before doing the laundry. How can I remove these stains? The crayon went into the dryer and even stained the door of my dryer. Are my clothes ruined?—MRS. C. W. L.

Indeed we do hope your clothes are not ruined. Betty, my right hand helper, had the same problem not too long ago but with colored clothes. She just kept washing them after rubbing turpentine into the crayon marks. To clean the crayon out of the dryer her husband used shellac thinner on the inside and then washed it out thoroughly. I do hope the same procedure will help you, Mrs. C. W. L.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I keep a pair of sun glasses in my clothespin bag. They provide protection from the blinding glare on either snowy or sunny days when I hang the wash outside.—LILLYE



DEAR POLLY — Before laundering my husband's white wash and dress shirts I pretreat the heavily soiled spots, such as cuffs and collars, by gently rubbing with a piece of soapy nylon net. —MRS. L. H.

DEAR POLLY—I used the good hint Grace gave for winding yarn around a drinking straw until I came up with what I think an even better idea. I use the core from a roll of waxed paper. The larger center area prevents the yarn from binding as it sometimes does with the smaller drinking straw for a core. If you wind the yarn in a figure eight pattern, your yarn will hold more securely throughout the entire use of the ball.—LUCILE

DEAR POLLY—For so long I was not able to keep my 45-rpm record player free of dust but now I cover it with a plastic rain bonnet and it stays in better condition. I removed the ties from the bonnet, opened it out and spread it over the player.—MARGE

Fun to start indoors from seeds are three vines: morning glories, black-eyed Susan vine and cathedral bells (also known as cup and saucer vine). Seeds of this last vine should be planted on a slant with the tip of each sticking out of the soil.

If you start these in peat pots, in a sunny window, and plant a light bamboo stake in each when you plant the seed, the vines will have support as they grow. When frost time is past, the pots and all may be set in the garden where you want blooms. If by any chance there is an especially early flower, you can enjoy it in the house.

In later years, school drop-outs can seldom rise to the occasion.

Semo Gives Athletic Awards

Cape College made it's top awards to Southeast Missouri State College Athletes in all sports at a banquet Monday, sponsored by the Cape Girardeau Boosters Club.

Winner of the Goddard Award for the football limeman most typifying the highest in athletic ability, citizenship and leadership was Otto Privette, senior guard from Yuma, Arizona. Privette, along with guard Joe Critchlow of Sikeston, was an honorary co-captain on the team.

Privette was also the winner of one of the Vogelsang Memorial Awards, as the outstanding lineman in football. Junior Quarterback Irvin Whitehead of Charleston was given the Vogelsang Award as outstanding back, while Mike Gross, Maplewood senior, was given the outstanding basketball player award.

Whitehead Of Charleston

Irving Whitehead was an outstanding player during his career at Charleston High School. He is probably one of the finest players to come out of that school in recent years.

As a Junior, Whitehead was selected to the second team, of the now defunct Big 8 Conference. He led Charleston to a third place finish in the Big 8 that season.

The highlight of the 1961-62 season for Whitehead and the Jays was their 20 to 0 smashing of Cape Central. Central had a much larger team, but the up and coming Jays sent them home with a sound thrashing.

Sikeston and Charleston were then tied for the Big 8 lead and were all set for a show down tilt, that would give the nod to the winner of the conference crown.

Sikeston was led by a backfield that had to be one of the finest in Bulldog history. Largent led the dogs at the quarterback position, flanked by Norman Dockins and Rocky Sapp at halfbacks and a powerful George Woods at fullback.

Charleston not to be out done had some fine backs to go with their star, Irving Whitehead. The biggest Bluejay threat was not Whitehead, but a couple of thundering backs, Williams and Hess. Williams led the Big 8 in scoring that season, with a total of 80 points, Hess scored 61.

Sikeston came out on top of the nights action 14 to 13, in one of the finest played, hardest fought games of the mighty Charleston-Sikeston rivalry.

Whitehead received a scholarship to Murray State College, where he was used as a linebacker. He transferred to Cape and is now their star Back.

Nicklaus Has Problems

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — There is little Jack Nicklaus has not done in his four years as a professional golfer, but he's finally run into a course that gives him nightmares.

"I hope I'm getting all this out of my system today," Nicklaus said as he shot a miserable round in the pro-am of the $60,000 Memphis Open Wednesday.

"There is just no reason for this," he said after he missed one of many two-foot putts. "I've seen beginners play better than this."

Despite the round and the fact that he's never played well on the short, par 70 Colonial Country Club course, Nicklaus was installed the favorite to take the $9,000 first-place money.

In the pro-am, Nicklaus shot a 43 on the par 34 front nine but was two-under par with a 34 on the par 36 backside.

A field of 144 was set to tee off today in the Memphis Open.

The 6,466-yard course has whipped Nicklaus both times he's played in the Memphis Open. He finished 11th in 1963 and tied for 12th in 1964.

Also attracting a lot of attention Wednesday was defending champion Mike Souchak and young Bill Martindale, who finished in a tie for second Sunday in the $100,000 New Orleans Open.

Another man who will bear watching is the New Orleans winner, Dick Mayer, who at 41 has started a sensational comeback after sitting on the sidelines for seven years.

Mizzou Winds Up Baseball Season This Weekend

Big Eight Baseball
By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

An unpredictable Big Eight baseball race comes to a close Friday and Saturday with four teams still mathematically in the title race and with almost every individual and team honor still up for grabs.

Missouri 12-5, Nebrasks 11-5, Oklahoma State 11-7 and Iowa State 10-7 are the four teams that still have a chance for the pennant.

In the batting race, Kansas State's Stu Steele has a one-point edge over defending champ Steve McGreevy of Kansas, .440 to .439, with three others over .400. They are Bob Robben of Missouri .415, Dan Rudanovich of Missouri .404 and Tony Sellari of OSU .403.

Oklahoma State's Dick Frank jumped into the No. 1 spot in pitching with a 1.51 earned run average. Tim Van Galder of Iowa State is second at 1.53, teammate Bob Ziegler at 1.62 is third. Then come three Nebraska pitchers--Stan Bahnsen 1.71, Bob Hergenrader 2.07 and Gary Niebauer 2.12--and Colorado's Adrian Mohr 2.68.

Frank had the season one-game high of six runs batted in against Iowa State with a grand slam homer and two-run double.

The versatile Mohr is playing four positions at Colorado and leads the club in hits, RBI, total bases, homers, earned run average, victories, strikeouts and innings pitched.

The consistent McGreevy needs just four hits to get a Big Eight one-season record of 33 hits. He shares the record with two men. While Robben Steele, OSU's Tony Stark and others flirted with .500 - or-better and slumped, McGreevy has stayed over .400.

But no one has a shot at the conference record of .593 by Dan Reilly of Missouri in 1960. Oklahoma's Carl Schreiner still leads with five homers, but Robben leads the league with 20 RBI and a .738 slugging average.

McGreevy's eight doubles leads the league and Iowa State's Jerry Retzlaff is on top with 10 stolen bases.

Steve Renko of Kansas is the strikeout leader, with 1.59 per inning, and Oklahoma's Allen Gott has the best control mark, 1.63 on seven walks in 43 innings.

Missouri leads the league in almost every offensive category including team batting at .306, runs scored 120, hits 159 and homers 31. Nebraska has permitted just 41 runs, 34 earned for a 2.61 staff ERA. Iowa State has given up 60, only 32 earned for a 2.25 staff ERA.

The closing series find Missouri at Iowa State; OSU at Colorado, 7 - 9; Nebraska at Kansas, 8-10; and K-State, 4-12, at Oklahoma, 5-13. Doubleheaders are set for Friday, single games Saturday in every series except that at Iowa State, where it's the reverse.

St. Louis Downs Phils With 9th Inning Rally, Gibson Pitches Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was excitement inside and outside Busch stadium at St. Louis Wednesday night--the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 in a furious ninth inning rally and two bandits held up a Busch stadium ticket office.

Dick Groat singled with two out in the ninth to send the winning run across after Ken Boyer had tied the score with a sacrifice fly.

Curt Flood and Lou Brock started the rally with singles after one man was out. Brock stole second and Mike Shannon walked. Then, Boyer flew out to the outfield and Flood scored the tying run.

Tony Gonzales and Johnny Callison hit home runs for the Phillies and Tim McCarver and Phil Gagliano countered with homers for St. Louis. Gagliano's homer was a pinch hit effort.

One of the bandits who took an undertermined amount of money from a stadium ticket office fired a shot in the air as he fled. The bullet came down inside the ball park grazing the neck of Carolyn Yount, 13. The spent bullet fell into her blouse. She was treated for the superficial wound at the stadium box office.

Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yount of Jennings, Mo., a St. Louis suburb, said she at first thought a ball had hit her.

Chris Short 4-3 starts for the Phillies tonight in their final game of the series at St. Louis. Bob Gibson 7-0 will pitch for the Cardinals.

Kansas City ended a Chicago White Sox nine game winning streak Wednesday night at Kansas City as the Athletics defeated Chicago, 7-3.

John Blanchard and Jim Bryan hit home runs in the second inning for Kansas City.

John O'Donoghue allowed four Chicago hits as he picked up his first victory since April 15. O'Donoghue retired 18 hitters in a row before Smoky Burgess homered for Chicago in the eighth inning.

Kansas City is idle today.

OFF AND HITTING—Harmon Killebrew, left, of the Minnesota Twins and Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves, known best for their power, are among the early batting leaders in the American and National Leagues.

Talented Field To Take Part In Federation Track Meet

KANSAS CITY (AP) — At lease five gold medal winners at the Big Eight track championships at Lincoln, Neb., will take part in the 3rd annual Midwest Track and Field Federation meet Saturday night at Shawnee Mission North stadium.

Four Arkansas Athletes and five from Wichita's Missouri Valley runners-up team also have entered the meet. A large group of high school standouts from Missouri and Kansas also have entered.

Entries have been received from Robin Lingle of Missouri, king of Big Eight milers the past two years; Kansas State's Bill Floerke, national javelin leader this season at 266-5½ and Big Eight champ at 246-7; Gary Schwartz of Kansas, winner of the discus at 170-9 at Lincoln; Steve Herndon of Missouri, high jump winner at 6-8¼, a scant one-fourth inch off the meet record; and Glenn Martin of Kansas, triple jump champion at 48-10¼ at Lincoln.

In addition, entries have been received from 38 place winners at the Big Eight meet. John Lawson of Kansas, who set a Big Eight three-mile record of 14:09.6, wasn't present when Coach Bill Easton filled out the Kansas entry. However, Reaves Peters, former Big Eight executive director and president of the Missouri Federation, said he was confident Lawson would enter.

Jim Mace, an outstanding hurdler and jumper, Barry Bearden, a 15-7 pole vaulter, and Ed Renfrow, with the high hurdles best of 13.9, are the best in the Arkansas group.

Cal Elmore, Missouri Valley conference mile champion, heads the Wichita group.

Freshmen and transfers will be eligible for the meet. In this group are Gene McClain of Kansas, a 4:10 miler and a 1:52 half miler, Terry Tompson, Missouri.

Jim Ryun of Wichita, Kan., East High, national mile prep record holder with an amazing 3:58.3, probably will skip the meet to prepare for three big AAU meets coming up on the West Coast. If Ryun does make the trip, he'll probably limit himself to the half mile.

The Midwest federation will help Kansas, K-State and Missouri prepare for the National Federation meet June 11-12 and the NCAA championships June 17-19. Oklahoma and Oklahoma State will compete Saturday in the Oklahoma Federation meet at Norman. Colorado will be in the Colorado State Invitational.

Because of NCAA boycott against AAU events, Big Eight athletes will pass up the Missouri Valley AAU meet Saturday at Washburn in Topeka, Kan. Last year the two meets also were held the same night, the Big Eight athletes split between the two and AAU marks were a little better.

The Missouri Valley meet will draw strong delegates from NAIA schools, the Topeka Cosmos, other AAU groups and high schools.

Congressmen Want Third League Formed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six congressmen, two each from New York, Texas and Wisconsin, have proposed that four more cities be granted major league franchises and that baseball be reorganized into three eight-team leagues.

The request came Wednesday in the form of a letter to Commissioner Ford C. Frick, National League President Warren Giles, American League President Joe Cronin and the 20 big league owners.

Signing the letters were Reps. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y.; Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y.; Earle Cabell, D-Tex.; James C. Wright, D-Tex.; Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Clement Zablocki, D-Wis.

They suggested the granting of franchises to Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Milwaukee and a fourth city ready to qualify. The teams would be organized in time for the 1966 season and be distributed among three eight-team leagues.

In New York, Frick said he had received the letter, but would not comment until he had answered it.

Buffalo has an International League franchise. Dallas-Fort Worth plays in the Texas League. The Milwaukee Braves of the National League will move to Atlanta for the 1966 season, leaving Milwaukee without a team.

School Boy Hopes To Tour Russia With U.S. Team

By JOE MCKNIGHT

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The barefoot youngster in gym shorts walked like a tenderfoot, complaining about gravel as he headed for a tool shed to talk.

The same feet which carried Jim Ryun to a 3:58.3 mile, fastest ever by a school boy, were not quite tough enough for the small rocks in a cement walk outside the field house at East High.

"I tried to be on the pace all the way," the lanky 18-year-old high school senior said of last Saturday performance in the Kansas high school track meet. "I was a little off on the second and third laps but I picked up on the last one."

The national high school mark of 4:06 was set last year by Gary Lindgren of Spokane, Wash. Ryun's time must be certified by the National High School Activities Association, which meets this summer.

Ryun says he doesn't have much time for dates. He attends services at a Church of Christ here three times a week.

The 6-foot, 1-inch youth plans to run in three invitational meets in California in the next month — at Modesto, Compton, and the Golden West meet at Sacramento.

"It would be nice to go to Russia for the United States-Russian dual," he said, "but you have to place in the top two spots in the National AAU to get that trip. I don't know whether I can do that."

Ryun admitted that constant training gets to be a grind in winter months, but snow and ice don't stop his morning workouts.

"In the spring and summer I'm running in competition, and I get to travel," he said. "Then I know it's worthwhile."

His school classes includes physics, psychology and drafting. He hasn't thought much about the future, but said "I might study engineering or for a coaching career. I don't know yet.

"Right now I'm able to keep up with the school work. I make A's and B's in my grades, mostly B's."

He will graduate May 31 and plans to enroll at the University of Kansas where his old high school mentor, Bob Timmons, was recently named head track coach.

Q—Who was the first Negro governor appointed by a U.S. president?

A—William Henry Hastie appointed by President Harry Truman in 1946 as governor of the Virgin Islands.

Three Teachers Hired At Dexter

DEXTER — Carl Davis will become supervisor of the elementary and junior high schools beginning with the 1965-66 school term in addition to serving as principal of Central Elementary, according to T. S. Hill, Superintendent.

The change in assignment for Mr. Davis resulted from Gerald McElrath's resignation to accept the superintendency at Gideon. Mr. Davis will also assit with the lunch room and transportation programs, Mr. Hill said.

Mr. Davis received both his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Arkansas State College at Jonesboro, Ark. His graduate work was done in school administration.

He has had 18 years of experience in all of the elementary grades. During the past four years, he has been principal at Central and prior to this he was principal at the Dudley school.

Mr. Davis is married and has three children.

Due to the additional responsibilities, Bobby Brison will serve as assistant principal at Central next year. Mr. Brison is teaching a sixth grade section at Central and taught in the elementary schools at House Springs, Mo., before coming to Dexter.

He is a graduate of Arkansas State College and is doing graduate work in elementary school administration. Mr. Brison is married and has one child.

Mrs. Genevie Gaines and Mrs. Claudine Reak have been employed to teach in the Dexter elementary schools. Mrs. Gaines is a graduate of Cape College and is now teaching at Bloomfield.

Mrs. Reak will graduate from Cape this month. Both teachers did their practice teaching in the Dexter Schools. Mrs. Gaines was under Mrs. Lepchenske and Mrs. Reak under Mrs. Mary Hopkins.

Micronesia, a group of islands in the Pacific, so-called because of their small size, has been important to the world out of all proportion to many groups of larger islands. Yap and Guam were once vital Pacific cable links. Guam was a watering place for Spanish galleons. Truk was once a great Japanese naval base and the key to the Pacific.

Twilight is outmoded. It disappeared with oil lamps and antimascassars. Now with a snap of the light switch, we banish this gentle time, and our world is poorer thereby.

Meditation, having the same root-word as medication, is essential to our well-being. Dusk, with its soft shadows and hazy landscapes, is conducive to nostalgia and contemplation, often resulting in valuable self-scrutiny. Representative Makes Recommendation For Short Speeches

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — A state representative has proposed that any member of the House who speaks longer than three minutes be "shot, stuffed and displayed in a glass case in the state museum."

The order, filed Wednesday by Rep. James S. Erwin, also stipulated that this legend be hung around the neck of such executed legislators:

"Here I am, fore'er enshrined, my mouth is open, my teeth are shined: my colleagues' treatment less than kind,

"I talked them all deaf, dumb and blind."

The proposal was cheerfully killed as soon as it was read.

Woman Wants To Sail On Ocean

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I just want to be alone for a while on the ocean," says a trim divorcee who hopes to become the first woman to sail alone to Hawaii.

Sharon Sites, 34, plans to begin the 2,225-mile voyage June 12 although she started taking sailing lessons only three months ago.

Her only company will be Sarah Beth-Ann, a pet turtle.

Mrs. Sites won't have a radio or any other electronic gear aboard her 25-foot sloop "Sea Sharp."

"I don't really need one," she said, "and I don't particularly want to talk to anyone."

Water And Mud Fight Injures Four

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Four students at Washington University were injured Wednesday night during an hour-long water and mud fight.

About 300 students took part in the melee on the campus.

Injured were Daniel Schifeling, 18; William Sample, 18; Miss Donna Goldman, 18, and Lewis Jay Stein, 18.

Schifeling dislocated a shoulder when he fell. Sample slipped after he was doused with water and broke an ankle. Stein was hit by a car while watching the battle. Miss Goldman's eye was injured by a mud ball.

Stein told police the car which hit him left the scene.

Hearnes Makes Point With Senate

JEFFERCON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes won a point with Senate committees Wednesday but another administration bill was deferred.

The Roads and Highways Committee approved a bill to raise the number of highway commissioners from four to six, without specifying the residence of the new commissioners. It already has passed the House.

Hearnes campaigned on the promise to increase the size of the commission and appoint one new member from the St. Louis metropolitan area and one from the Kansas City area.

Another administration measure to make the state sales tax a gross receipts tax to plug a $6 million gap in the present law was laid over by the Ways and Means Committee to give opponents a chance to testify next week.

Rep. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, the sponsor, said merchants already are paying the tax on a gross receipts basis.

Also deferred was a bill to change the sales tax bracket system so the tax would start at 15 cents instead of 25 cents.

Robert Crawford, spokesman for the Missouri Retailers Association, said the present system is costing merchants $10.6 million a year.

The U.S. Military Academy at West Point was, for many years, the only engineering school in the nation.

House Left Unguarded House Torn Down

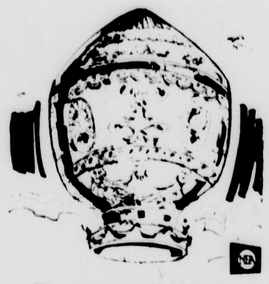
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Irving Steinman picked up the telephone and heard a man say: "Say, do you own the house at 142 S. St. Andrews?"

"Yes, I do," Steinman replied.

"Well," David D. Davis responded, "I just tore it down."

Davis explained he was supposed to tear down a similar house — two doors away.

Steinman said Wednesday his house was worth about $5,000, adding "I'm sure I can't get it out of the wrecker's liability insurance. This wasn't an act of God, it was an act of mortal man."



The possibility of using the balloon in war was envisioned from its invention in the late 18th century by the Montgolfier brothers, French paper makers. At that time, Benjamin Franklin wrote, while in Paris: "It (the balloon) may be sufficient for certain purposes, such as elevating an engineer to take a view of an enemy's army."

Woolworth Plans Expansion In Department Store Field

F. W. Woolworth President Burcham Tells Analysts Company Will Also Expand Its Variety Chain

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 -- F. W. Woolworth Company's fast-growing Woolco Department Stores division is anticipating a three-fold increase in sales by 1967, Lester A. Burcham, president of the world's largest variety chain, said today.

Addressing a retailing forum at the annual meeting of The National Federation of Financial Analysts here, Mr. Burcham said the company's Woolco Division now operates 17 full-line department stores in the United States and Canada and will open "at least 26 more" by the end of next year.

"The Woolco Division is now selling at the rate of $100,000,000 a year," he said. "We expect this to triple by 1967."

At the same time Woolworth is pushing ahead vigorously with a program to strengthen its position of leadership in the variety store field, Mr. Burcham commented.

In the past ten years, he pointed out, Woolworth enlarged 509 variety stores, opened 894 new stores, about 750 of which are located in shopping centers, and closed 632 unprofitable outlets. The emphasis today, he said, is on large "dominant" variety stores that "represent the ultimate in efficiency, appearance and upgraded merchandise."

'WORLD'S LARGEST'

As an example he cited "the world's largest variety store," a three-story Woolworth unit of 174,000 square feet which was opened two years ago in Denver, Colo. He noted that six additional "big" stores were opened last year -- four in the United States (in Burlington, Vt., Greenwich, Conn., Scottsbluff, Neb. and Hayward, Calif.) and two in Canada (in Medicine Hat, Alta. and Saskatoon, Sask.). Twenty-eight more are scheduled for completion in 1965, he said, including ten existing variety stores that are being updated and enlarged "to achieve dominance in their areas."

Mr. Burcham observed that the company's new and upgraded "dominant" stores are generating up to five times the annual sales produced by previously existing Woolworth outlets in their areas, confirming preliminary market research studies. He said scientific market research is now a major factor in decisions to open new stores or to modernize, convert or discontinue older ones.

'ON THE MOVE'

Stressing that Woolworth is "on the move," Mr. Burcham said changes undertaken by the company since the retailing revolution of the mid-1950s have placed the huge chain "in the strongest position we have ever enjoyed, despite the intense competition that surrounds us."

In addition to entering the department store field through its Woolco Division and expanding its variety store operations, Woolworth is now firmly established in the retail shoe industry, he explained. He remarked that Woolworth's recently acquired Kinney Shoe Corporation subsidiary last year opened a new air-conditioned, humidity-controlled factory in Palmyra, Pa. and also opened 39 new stores in preferred locations while closing 16 unprofitable units. Kinney now operates 610 retail shoe stores, he commented, and "further expansion is planned." He added that "our acquisition department is very much on the lookout for operations of equal promise."

Expansion has also been the order of the day in the company's food-service operation, Mr. Burcham said.

"We now have restaurants in nearly 2,000 stores in the United States and Canada," he told the analysts, "and they serve one million customers a day. We also operate 15 'Harvest House' restaurants and cafeterias, separate and apart from our stores."

CONSUMER TRENDS

The Woolworth president emphasized that the company is carefully charting consumer shopping trends and future population changes. He said the present $11 billion teen-age market will almost double in the next ten years, and that other key age groups also bear watching, particularly the "young middle age" group which includes Americans from 25 through 34. Not only does this group spend heavily on home furnishings, appliances, housewares and other merchandise, he noted, but it represents "the fastest-growing segment of our adult market."

Consumers of all age groups are more sophisticated, informed and quality-conscious than ever before, he added, "and we don't intend to overlook any of them."

ADVERTISING 'GIANT'

As an example of the changes that have taken place in Woolworth management's thinking in the past ten years, Mr. Burcham observed that "before the retailing revolution, we carried practically no advertising. Today we are among the giants in retail advertising. Our 1965 advertising budget includes provision for 45,000,000 lines of newspaper space."

3. Rivalling the pomp and pageantry of England's Royal Ascot is Canada's Queen's Plate to be run at Toronto's Woodbine race course June 26 with Queen Mother Elizabeth officiating.

Queen's Plate Reflects Regal Glamour

Toronto, Ont. -- Royalty and racing have long been synonymous and that's the way it is with Canada's Queen's Plate as it prepares for its 106th running June 26 at Woodbine race course.

Queen Victoria gave it her blessing in 1860 and this would make it North America's oldest turf classic bar none. Her purse of 50 guineas -- now paid in gold sovereigns to the value of $150 -- is hardly enough nowadays to meet one horse's annual hay bill.

But to the victor go much greater spils in this biggest event on the Canadian racing calendar which draws upwards of 30,000 vicitors. And, on hand to officiate in the presentation at this year's event will be Queen Mother Elizabeth.

It will be the fourth occasion on which a member of the Royal Family has been in attendance, with the Queen Mother accounting for three of these visits. She and her husband, George VI, visited Woodbine in 1939. Twenty years later her daughter, Elizabeth II, and Prince Philip were in the winner's enclosure for the 100th running, and the Queen Mother was here in 1962.

Her majesty will ride to the royal box in an open carriage led by members of the Governor - General's Horse Guard and attended by red-coated RCMP personnel. It will be a scene of pomp and pageantry reminiscent of England's Royal Ascot, and a day on which the local social set appears in formal finery.

Ontario's Lieutenant - Governor officiates at other Plate ceremonies when royality isn't present and the same glitter and glamour prevails.

The first Queen's Plate was run on June 27, 1860, at the Carleton Track on what is now a traffic-strangled corner in Toronto's west end. It wasn't long before the Plate became an event of enormous social importance and political prestige, and for 20 years it was staged in a variety of centers before Toronto became its permanent home.

Many a successful Kentucky Derby rider has tried to add the Queen's Plate to his string of major victories but only four have managed to turn the truck. Most recent of these was noted U.S. jockey Bill Hartack who pulled off the dual feat aboard Canadian - bred Northern Dancer, now retired to stud due to a subsequent leg injury.

The other three were Canadians Charlie Lang (1925) and J. J. Mooney (1929) and veteran Eddie Arcaro (1953).

A Plate winner can be sure he'll go home with a lot more than the queen's guineas in the traditional purple velvet bag. He wins, in addition, a $5,000 gold cup and approximately $50,000 added stakes put up by the Ontario Jockey Club.

Last year's gross purse, for example, ran to $74,075, with a cool $49,075 to the winner, $12,500 in second prize money, and $7,500 and $5,000 for third and fourth, respectively.

Three major tracks now operate in Ontario, two of these -- Woodbine and Greenwood -- are located in Toronto. Here are their schedules this season: Fort Erie -- July 19 - Sept. 4; Greenwood -- May 10 -- June 5 and Oct. 25 - Nov. 27; Woodbine -- June 7 - July 17 and Sept. 6 - Oct. 23.

Just open the end of the individual packet and squeeze the contents directly into batter or frosting of any recipe that calls for unsweetened chocolate or unsweetened cocoa.

You'll find a recipe leaflet with 14 delicious treats in each red and white box of Choco-bake, a get-acquainted bonus you'll appreciate. All this—and no melting, too!

Foul And Eggs To Be Economical Over Week-End

Chickens, turkeys and eggs may be especially popular with bargain-hungry food shoppers this weekend - not because they're much cheapter these days but because nearly everything else is more expensive.

Beef and pork are still riding at the highest wholesale price levels in months, and in the case of some cuts, in years.

For the second week, a national supermarket chain was unable to find any beef or pork cuts for reduced prices in its New York area outlets. Pork chops went up 10 cents to $1.09 a pound.

The chain put boneless turkey roasts on special at 79 cents a pounds, however. The new roast is becoming increasingly popular.

Its California roasts at 59 cents a pound, boneless beef at 69, ribs at 79 and sirloin and porterhouse steaks at 99 were unchanged from the week before.

Eggs dropped slightly, with medium whites, for example, down 2 cents a dozen to 37.

Broiler chicken output is up again and for the year the increase is estimated at 3 to 5 per cent. Good supply may help lower prices at food markets.

Lamb and veal, not ordinarily considered bargain meats, are in normal supply and prices are holding steady. Some housewives might find this a good time to try them in place of pork and beef for a while.

Fresh vegetables and fruits have had their ups and downs this spring, but mostly ups. Wholesalers in the East report that about the only fresh vegetable to be found at a reasonable price is corn on the cob. Lettuce, carrots and potatoes all continue much higher than usual.

The late spring potato crop moves to market in three weeks and may trim prices.

Among the fruits, Hawaiian pineapples are reported to be a bargain in many food stores.

Other foods that have been cheaper in many food stores this spring are prunes, honey and rice.

Jane Fonda Likes France

HOLLYWOOD AP - With pouty face, long, taffy-hued tresses and hip-hugging pants, she looked like the latest movie star from France as she strolled down the steps to the Beverly Hills Hotel pool.

But when she spoke, the tones were not Left Bank but Eastern U. S. finishing school. She is Jane Fonda, daughter of that most American or film stars, Henry Fonda.

The French influence is no doubt the result of Jane's romance with the French people and, on a more personal basis, with Roger Vadim, the mentor and one-time husband of Brigitte Bardot. He has been visiting Jane here.

The second-generation actress, on a day off from the Marlon Brando film "The Chase," took a poolside table and talked about such things as France and being a second-generation actress.

If anything can improve our relations with France, perhaps it can be Jane. Reports from Paris indicate that she has been as well received as any American since Ben Franklin - well, Eddie Constantine, anyway.

"It's very simple: my father," she replied. "I knew he was popular, but I never realized what a hold he had on Europeans. He is loved everywhere, even in Russia, where 'War and Peace' and 'Grapes of Wrath' were very popular. They love him in France and other countries because he made social pictures.

"That admiration was naturally transferred to me. And I couldn't be more grateful."

Jane admitted there might be other elements as well, such as the fact that she didn't just pass through France. She stayed. She not only established herself in a Paris apartment; she bought a farm 45 minutes from the city and converted it to a home for herself. She still has both - as well as her own New York apartment and a rented house at Malibu.

"But I'm not an expatriate by any means," she added. "I still am very much American and will stay that way."

La Fonda made two pictures in France, but it remained for a basic American horse opera to shift her career into high gear. She stars in "Cat Ballou," a raucous, rip-snorting Western that has drawn as many critical huzzahs as any film in 1965 so far.

"It's quite a new experience for me," said Jane. "I've been in films that made money but got poor reviews. I've been in films that got good reviews but weren't well received. This is the first time I seem to be in a picture that gets both.

"I'm still a bit amazed. None of us thought the script offered much, and we weren't sure what we had when we finished. The picture only lasted 28 days. Apparently it has a quality that will pay off."

So does Jane Fonda, apparently. She is carving her own career without fighting the fact that she is daughter of a star. Far from it.

"Being Henry Fonda's daughter has done me nothing but good in this business," she declared. "I couldn't be more grateful."

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

The Open House Programs in the schools this week have been well attended. It is our observation that the quality of student work on display is improving, as it should, and that overall the displays indicate an improvement in the quality of teaching as well. We invite you to attend the Open Houses this evening at Lee Hunter and Airport Schools and remind you of the Music Festival, combining a program representing instrumental band and orchestra and the vocal divisions of Music Department. It will be held Friday evening at 7:30 P.M. at the outdoor theater on the Senior High campus.

W. W. Wilkison, Chairman of our Science Department and Coordinator of Mathematics and Science for the school system, has been invited to participate in a National Air Space Administration Education Symposium to be held at Huntsville, Alabama, May 27-29. He was invited to this meeting by Dr. Frank Rose, President of the University of Alabama, and by Dr. Werner von Braun who is Director of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville.

Our school has been approved to conduct a pre-school training program for 160 youngsters who will be first graders in our school next fall. With this approval goes a federal grant of $17,432 to pay the cost of operating the program. We will have 8 qualified teachers, with some teaching assistants, to provide experiences for these children which will help them toward a good beginning when they start their formal schooling in the first grade. A majority of these children will come from low income homes. Much of the training will be aimed toward giving them experiences which they have not had because of environmental and economic reasons. The program is not limited to this group, however, and there will be places for other children whose parents wish them to have the kind of training and experiences that will give them a good start when school opens. The project for this reason is appropriately named "Operation Head Start". A majority of the schools of the nation are conducting similar programs in order to give the children who attend a better chance to begin learning promptly when they enter the first grade and to remove some of the educational and environmental handicaps which certain children may have.

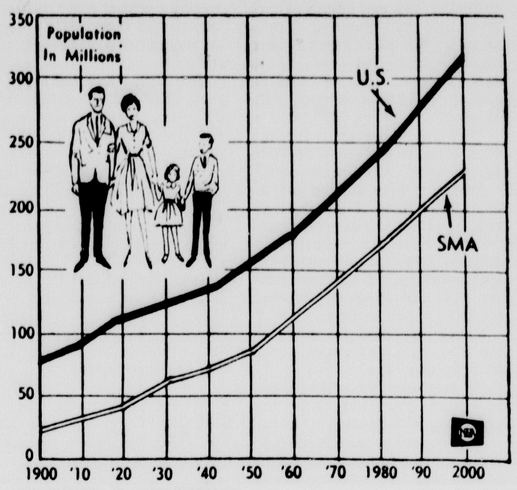
It is probable that this program will be conducted at Southwest School, where air conditioning is available, although this has not been definitely decided as yet. One of our elementary principals will be in charge.

Additional information will be given when the planning is further developed.

We are attending a meeting in Kansas City Thursday and Friday of this week, called by the State Departments of Education of several mid-western states to receive information about the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 recently passed by Congress. Representatives of the U.S. Office of Education will be present to explain the ways in which this act may be carried out to provide better education for our children at the various levels.

Never before have the demands for good education been so great as they are today. The necessity for giving all people the skill tools of learning: competency in reading, in communications, in dealing accurately with numbers, the need for improvement in citizenship as a result of a good educational background and training for jobs in a fast changing and highly industrialized society are all a part of this responsibility. Participation by the federal government in paying part of the costs of this kind of education and training is a must if it is to be done effectively. This new act is a step in the right direction and it is a responsibility of all citizens, laymen and professional educators alike, to see that there is no objectionable control, other than financial as should be. From our experience with present programs, we are sure that the major control of education can be kept in local and state hands.

Never before, certainly not in our experience, have Boards of Education, school administrators and teachers, been so busy in trying to improve the quality of education and to take advantage of some of the programs that are available. Taking advantage of these programs, however, is a tremendous undertaking as all require a great deal of planning, research and writing to justify any of the many projects which are available. This, of course, is as it should be and it is the responsibility of all of us to spend every dollar, whether local, state or federal to get the most in education and to watch it as carefully as if it came directly from our own pocket rather than from us collectively as it does.



CENTURY OF GROWTH—Newschart above traces the growth of population in the U.S. and in Standard Metropolitan Areas since 1900 and projected for the rest of this century. Note how closely lines parallel each other. U.S. population has doubled in the last half century and continues to grow at this rate. By the year 2000, the Urban Land Institute estimates 235 million people—74 per cent of the population—will be living in 300 major metropolitan areas.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: We have some close friends who are dog lovers. Last evening my husband was telling about our 8 - year - old son's unusual interest in science. The dog-lover interrupted to tell a story about her poodle. Three years ago, she said, the dog began to take on the personality characteristics of her husband.

"When Tom suffered business reversals and became depressed the dog became depressed, too," she said. "He would not eat a thing. Tom had to be hospitalized. That same day the dog had to be hospitalized because he had become so weak from malnutrition he could barely walk."

She continued, "Six weeks later Tom returned home feeling much better. When the dog was brought home he was still melancholy. Upon seeing his master improved the dog perked right up."

My husband and I believe that pet-lovers who become involved with their animals imagine all sorts of things. We can't buy her story. What do you think?--DOUBTERS

Dear Doubters: Animals have distinct personalities. It is not uncommon for personalities to be influenced by what happens around them. I do not doubt this story for one moment.

Dear Ann Landers: When I married my husband five years ago we were both in our middle 40's. Each year our marriage seemed to be rockier than the year before. I begged him to get professional help but his stock reply was, "I am all right. YOU are the one who is nuts."

Several months ago when my husband became abusive I packed up and left him because I feared for my life.

I haven't seen him for three weeks, but he telephones every day to say he loves me. He wants a divorce so he can start courting me again and decide if we should be remarried.

I'm hoping we can recapture the wonderful joys we knew when we first met. Is there a chance? --DREAMS OF THE PAST

Dear Past: No -- and if you would stop dreaming long enough to remember what your marriage was really like you'd know better, too. Why do you think your husband is going to treat you differently the second time around? Get with it, Sister.

Dear Ann Landers: This afternoon I glanced out the window as I was doing my dusting and I just happened to see the woman next door shaking my four-year-old son by the arm. I dashed out and ordered her to take her hands off my child. She shouted, "Bernard is always hitting my Albert and I'm not going to put up with it any longer."

Both children are four years of age, but my Bernard is a little bit larger than her Albert.

I lost my temper and slapped the woman's face. She had metal curlers in her hair which caused a small cut on the side of her cheek.

The minute my husband drove into the garage my neighbor's husband was over here. He told my husband his wife was in bed with an ice pack and under sedation. He said his wife went to pieces after I hit her and they had to call the doctor. The last thing he said was, "There may be a law suit."

If a woman can be sued for protecting her child what kind of a country is this anyway? Please comment.--MRS. X.

Dear Mrs.: The kids are four years old. What's YOUR excuse? Hitting people is called assault and battery and your lawyer can tell you more about the chances of a suit than I can.

But apart from possible court action you owe this woman an apology, plus the price of the doctor's visit.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for ANN LANDERS' new booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In the world's largest city, Tokyo, there are almost as many people as there are in the whole continent of Australia. Within 37 miles of the center of Tokyo there are more than 25,000,000 people. The population of the city itself, in 1960, was 8,310,027 and the population of the urban prefecture was 9,683,802. Having been repeatedly rebuilt after destruction by fires, earthquakes and World War II air raids, it is one of the world's most modern cities.

Reapportionment Passed By Senate

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The Senate passed today a bill to revamp Missouri's 10 congressional districts in line with the Supreme Court's one man-one vote decrees.

The vote sending it to the House was 21-4.

There was no debate. The final form of the districts is expected to be settled later in conference committee.

Under the Senate version the districts would vary only about 3 per cent from the average population of 432,000.

The biggest change transfers some 151,000 people from the 2nd District of St. Louis County, now represented by Republican Thomas B. Curtis of Webster Groves, to the 9th District represented by Democrat William L. Hungate of Troy.

Sen. Omer H. Avery, D-Troy, chairman of the Senate Apportionment Committee, said earlier that if Congress passes pending legislation to permit a 15 per cent variance in population, only the 2nd District would have to be changed.

In a busy morning of bill passing, the Senate also sent to the governor a bill setting a minimum speed of 40 miles an hour on divided interstate highways, unless dangerous conditions exist. It also raises maximum truck speed on divided highways and other designated routes from 55 to 60 miles an hour.

Sent to the House was a bill to raise the number of State Boat Commission employes from 15 to 25.

The Senate killed a bill that would have extended urban renewal rights to cities of 5,000, instead of the present 75,000, without a vote of the population.

House Lowers Required Vote Percentage

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House today passed a proposed constitutional amendment calling for a House of Representatives of 168 members who would serve four - year staggered terms.

The vote sending it to the Senate was 115-45.

Now the House has 163 members serving two year terms.

Opponents of the proposal said it was wrong to force the voters to accept four-year terms for House members just because the federal courts have ordered reapportionment.

Rep. R. J. King, R-St. Louis, County, said the action of the House would just lead Missouri to a unicameral legislature.

But another St. Louis County Republican, Rep. Albert A. Speer said the plan would strengthen the legislature.

Rep. Charles Sheehan, D-Jefferson County, called the four-year term provision obnoxious.

Earlier today the House Reapportionment Committee discussed a proposal by some representatives to divide the state into 167 House districts.

It was the product of several House members who said they had worked on it for about a month. It was based on districts having an average population of 25,713.

Only 18 districts would cross county lines, the sponsors said. The state would have 87 outside districts, 27 in St. Louis County, 29 in St. Louis City and 24 in Jackson County.

But the chairman of the committee, Rep. Norbert Jasper D-Franklin County, objected to the plan because the House already has approved the proposed constitutional change calling for 168 districts. He said he thought that was a mandate for the committee to come up with a plan having 168 districts.

One of the sponsors of the plan, Rep. Richard Southern, D-Monroe County, said he thought the constitutional amendment could be changed in the Senate so it called for 167 districts instead of 168.

He said if 168 districts were held to some 30 more county lines would have to be broken in setting up the districts.

Rep. Fred Stutler, D-Sullivan County, another sponsor of the 167-district plan, agreed with Southern that more than half of the members from outside Missouri already had studied the plan and agreed to support it.

Meanwhile, subcommittees have been trying to set districts in their areas. The subcommittee for St. Louis City and county has produced a plan that is being circulated among the members from the area to see if they will approve it.

VISUAL AID CHARTS being demonstrated at the Murray demonstrating a slip chart; Ben Ledbetter, demonstrating a folded sentence chart and the gravity roll; the Rev. James Fitch with a slip chart, and Supt. B. G. Corn with the "venetian blind."

Visual Aid Clinic Held At Murray Lane Baptist Church

The Training Union Department of the Charleston Baptist Association conducted three visual - aid clinics recently under the leadership of Director Alfred Ben Ledbetter. The first clinic was held May 3 at the First Baptist Church at Anniston. The second clinic was held May the 11 at the First Baptist Church of Ilmo. The third clinic was held May 18 at the Murray Lane Baptist Church in Sikeston. Total attendance was well over 100.

Speakers enlisted from the churches were assigned topics under the general theme: "Marks of Spiritual Maturity." Each speaker used a visual aid in the presentation of his material. Critiques were held by the audience giving comments pro and con, for and against the speakers use of his material and the use of his visual aid.

Director Ledbetter displayed and demonstrated many types of visual-aids; the strip chart, the flip chart, the sentence holder, the folded sentence, maps covered with acetate for markings with grease pencils that can be easily erased; the flannel board, the venetian blind, and the gravity roll. The "visuals" were made portable, attractive and constructed of very inexpensive materials.

Temple Baptist, Murray Lane Baptist, First Baptist, Fellowship Baptist, and Miner Baptist churches of the Sikeston area have a combined enrollment of 644 in their Training Union organizations. This organization seeks to train church members to become leaders in their church and to acquaint them with the workings of their denomination.

Merchants Suffering From Excise Tax Cut

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK AP - How to keep the customers buying now instead of waiting to see what Congress does about cutting federal excise taxes is a current headache for merchants.

Congress may help by making the cuts retroactive to May 15 on more items than just autos and air conditioners, as President Johnson requested.

Some merchants and manufacturers already are taking newspaper ads to assure today's customers they'll get a refund on any taxes paid now that may later be cut or eliminated.

But in some quarters there are grave doubts that all of the tax cut will be passed along to customers in lower retail prices, either now or in the future.

And merchants also have to worry about what the tax cut will do to goods they've already stocked and hold in their warehouses. The excise tax levied at the manufacturer's level presumably already has been added to the wholesale price the merchant or dealer paid.

An added difficulty is that some tax cuts, as now proposed, would take effect July 1, others Jan. 1 with the retroactive May 15 date, of course, affecting an as yet undetermined variety of goods.

An example of trouble here is in the proposal to cut the tax on cars to 7 per cent from the present 10 per cent effective May 15, and then to drop it to 6 per cent Jan. 1. What effect this would have on sales of the new models this fall is debatable.

Merchants and dealers have a couple of things going for them, however.

For one, Congress seems in the mood to act with unusual speed - thus lessening the period of suspense - and, if anything, to be more generous than the President in slashing tax rates.

For another, public reaction seems likely to set off a buying spree, once the uncertainties are cleared.

Forestalling a temporary buying strike is the problem. Both makers and retailers of jewelry, silverware, luggage, handbags, toilet articles and furs are urging that the 10 per cent retail tax, due to be eliminated July 1, be repealed as of May 15, so today's customers can be sure of a refund.

These retail excises bring the Treasury about $550 million a year. If all of the cut is passed along to the customers in lower prices, a selling boom is anticipated. And because of this prospect, the stocks of some jewelry makers and some chain stores are getting a ride in Wall Street.

Merchants face a refunding problem as well as the effort to keep the customers buying in the interim. The National Retail Merchants Association is urging its members to take inventory of air conditioners and other appliances as of May 15, and to keep records of all sales after that date. The paper work involved in refunding taxes paid while Congress deliberates could pile high.

The immediate problem is to make the public confident that if there are any slashes in retail prices as a result of excise tax cuts, the customer will be protected, by refunds or by allowances on installment payment contracts.

Congress is being asked to help. But the real job is up to the retailer and the manufacturer. They must decide if all or part of the tax cut can be passed along. And theirs is the chore of getting this information to the customers, and making them believe it.

Birth Control And The Law

ILLEGAL ABORTIONS NOTED

The defendants maintain that the birth-control ban actually promotes illegal abortions. While the evidence is not conclusive, they say, authorities "find a direct (inverse) relationship between the availability of contraceptive services and the criminal abortion rate. It stands to reason that the Connecticut statutes, which cut off all public information and services on contraception, operate to accentuate this acute social problem. The law thus promotes the very kind of immorality it ostensibly is designed to limit."

2. As for restricting sexual relations to the propagation of children and discouraging extra-marital relations, Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold contend the law is not "reasonably designed to achieve that end," because it operates primarily to affect sexual relations among married couples: the usual contraceptives employed in extra-marital relations do not require a doctor's prescription and are sold freely, not as contraceptives, but for "prevention of disease."

They declare that to attempt to restrict sex to procreation" would be so contrary to the basic drives of man, so far-reaching an invasion of individual liberty, and so disruptive of our marriage and family institutions as they exist today, that it cannot be conceived as falling within the police power of the state to promote morals or the general welfare."

CONTROL OF POPULATION

3. If the law was meant to maintain or increase Connecticut's population, the defendants say (while doubting that this was the case), it arrays the state against modern thought: "Virtually the whole world now recognizes that the current problems of population control — crucial as they are —involve limitations on, not expansion of, the population explosion. It cannot be assumed that the current policy of the Connecticut Legislature would run so squarely counter to the entire direction of national and international developments in this field."

Arguing as a physician, in addition, Dr. Buxton contends that his right to practice "in accordance with scientifically accepted principles" is being violated. "One of the most frequent reasons why a married couple may find it necessary or desirable to avoid conception relates to health," he holds. "In such situations it is accepted medical practice, so far as consistent with the religious or moral principles of the patient, to prescribe the use of extrinsic aids to avoid conception."

'EFFECTIVE METHODS' CITED

These means, the physician notes, "are widely recognized as the best and most effective methods of solving numerous problems of individual health and well-being, and for meeting many other needs arising from marriage and family relationships."

The brief offered by the Planned Parenthood Federation points to this statement by Dr. Charles E. Flowers, Jr., professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine:

"Good maternal care does not consist only of delivering a woman of a baby. It is also helping the premarital couple in anticipating, meeting and fulfilling their emotional adjustments as man and woman. It is aiding the infertile couple to achieve pregnancy and the birth of a normal child. It is advising the patient with (serious or progressive illnesses) to become pregnant as soon as possible, and equally important, advising against pregnancy in the complicated diabetic or nephritic. Offering measures to avoid or postpone a possibly crippling pregnancy — this is preventive medicine."

SPECIALISTS' VIEW

The brief of the 141 medical specialists adds that "the preservation of life and health is and should be preferred over debatable notions of morality. Even when the existence of a legitimate moral problem is conceded, a clear medical consensus favoring the prescribed treatment undercuts the validity of a statute which restricts the doctor's right to prescribe."

Dr. Buxton and Mrs. Griswold are also urging the Supreme Court to consider much broader issues than those involving health.

"By forbidding the safest and most effective methods of contraception," they say, "and permitting only the most harmful ones, the statutes make it hazardous or impossible for a married couple to make their own decisions on the most crucial aspects of their life together. Connecticut is stepping in through its criminal law to prevent them from deciding whether to have children, how many to have, at what time to have them. These decisive questions which affect not only life and health but relations between spouses, careers of husband and wife, the economic status of the family, the method and manner in which children are to be raised, and a host of other things. The planning of children is essential to the planning of one's entire way of life."

Two Men Adrift For 37 Days

By GEORGE McARTHUR

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — "I was able to observe quite a lot," said a 20-year-old student of marine biology after 37 days adrift on a raft in the Pacific with his father. "It was extremely interesting."

"If it hadn't been for him I wouldn't be alive today," said the father, Frank Cushing, 63. A former stuntman, he lives on Guam with his wife and three of their four children.

His son, Frank Jr., is a student at the University of Guam. The two set out on their 23-foot raft April 10 to look for rare fish.

They anchored for the night outside a reef off Guam's Puto Point and went to sleep. When they awoke, a storm was blowing them westward, their anchor was gone and Guam was out of sight.

On Monday, 37 days later and 1,400 miles to the west of Guam, they landed their raft on Calayan Island, in the north Philippines. A few hours later the crew of the interisland steamer Jumar sighted the raft and found the two men sleeping in a cave.

They were flown to Clark Air Base Hospital, Wednesday. Cushing had lost 50 pounds, his son 40, but otherwise their health was good and their spirits buoyant.

"We never lost hope," said Cushing, grinning through nearly six weeks of beard. "We were positive we would hit the Philippines. When I knew we couldn't get back to Guam, I set a course for the Philippines. I knew it would be tough but it was our best course.

"Our top speed was about three knots, but I knew we would get some place sometime. I made a sextant out of a spear gun, a fishing line and some other things.

"We didn't have a compass but we had the sun. At night we had Polaris (the North Star) and the Southern Cross to navigate by."

The oil-drum raft was equipped with two outboard motors, but the Cushings improvised a sail to conserve their small supply of gas. Also aboard were a can of beans, a can of meat and a two-gallon tin of water.

"We were seasick for the first three days," said the father.

"On the third day we got under a rain cloud. It was a heavy rain, and filled our water can. On the same day we caught a dolphin. We ate the raw flesh for moisture and hung the center part and sides out to dry. It was about a 14-pounder."

Frank Jr. said he worried for the first few days about missing school.

"I just took my midterm exams and wondered what my grade was," he added.

Cushing was hardly able to move much of the voyage, suffering from seasickness and exposure. But Frank Jr. looked after his father and the raft, and provided a steady supply of fish by hunting underwater with a spear gun, a rope around his waist attached to the raft. He also kept up his study of marine life.

"If the sea was calm, I would take the rope off and swim around examining the oil drums," said the youth.

"Sharks didn't bother us — in fact, I bothered them. I caught a couple, one 3 feet and another 6 feet long."

A second storm during the voyage refilled their water can. Otherwsie they had to depend on the moisture they got from fish.

The U.S. Navy searched for them after Mrs. Cushing reported them missing but finally gave up. Cashing said planes passed over them many times.

"A military plane passed over us on the second day," he said. "I made a smoke pot — with bits of rubber hose and anything that would burn — but the plane never saw us."

Near the end of the voyage they were becalmed for seven days in sight of the distant peaks of the Philippines. They finally landed Sunday on an active volcanic island.

"There was nothing there but dead fish and birds," said Cushing. "My boy found two coconuts. One was rotten."

They shoved off and drifted north along the coast of Luzon. A stiff current carried them toward Calayan, and they used the last of their gasoline — about a gallon and a quarter was left — to enter the cove where they were found.

One fire was reported by the Sikeston Fire Department over the last 24 hours.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Two Camden city policemen picked the daily double at Garden State Race Track worth $75.60 Tuesday, but they couldn't collect.

Patrolmen William Guidotti and Frank Senatore said they had placed a $2 daily-double bet with Helen McCaslin, 38, in downtown Camden. Then they arrested her for bookmaking.

Later they learned their selection, Blended White and Battling Erma, had won and was worth $75.60.

Mrs. McCaslin was held in $1,000 bail on a bookmaking charge.

The griffin is a mythological composite creature with a lion body, winged or wingless, and a bird (usually eagle) head. Like the sphinx, the griffin is a favorite motif in decorative arts in the ancient Near East. The Asiatic griffin has a crested head, while the Minoan and Greek griffin usually has a mane of spiral curls. The griffin is often pictured as paired with a sphinx.

ONE OF A KIND

The data input recorder manufactured by the firm is "one of a kind." This device, developed by the company in 1963 and 1964 enables clerical workers with just minutes of training to code information for direct access to computer systems. This development, in turn, has enabled the expanded use of computer facilities and data processing equipment for businesses of all types and sizes.

Vance-Whitworth began mass-producing the recorder in March 1965. Its aggressive marketing program, both for its equipment and its data processing services, has been well under way since January of this year. On the 1st of May, the company had 18 salesmen.

SIKESTON AREA CUSTOMERS

Vance-Whitworth customers, including several in the Sikeston area, include such varying business categories as hospitals, hotels, restaurants, manufacturers, wholesalers, drug stores, and utilities. Customers in this area include the Missouri Delta Community Hospital, Board of Public Works, Plaza Supply Company in Cape Girardeau, Perryville School System, and Doctors Hospital of Poplar Bluff.

"PARTNERSHIP" DESIRED

"It is our hope to be a partner in progress with the Sikeston area. As Vance - Whitworth grows, and prospers, so will the area," Whitworth said.

Hardwicke Resigns As Director

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes confirmed that Dr. Henry M. Hardwicke has resigned as director of the Missouri Division of Health, but he denied that he put pressure on Hardwicke to quit.

"The first time I knew of Dr. Hardwicke's resignation was when he walked in and handed it to me," the governor said. "That's been some time ago. It wasn't effective until June 1 anyway."

Hearnes made his comment after the St. Louis Globe-Democrat said in its Thursday editions that the governor told Dr. Hardwicke several months ago that he was through.

The governor said if he had wanted to force Hardwicke's resignation he would have made no secret of it.

He said the resignation was not announced immediately because he wanted time to find a successor before he was flooded with applicants.

Dr. Hardwicke declined to comment when he was asked about the Globe-Democrat's report.

The newspaper said the governor's office had expected to make an announcement as if it were a routine resignation and attribute it to Dr. Hardwicke's desire to resume private practice.

It said that Dr. Hardwicke incurred disfavor because of some critical statements he made about the Dunklin County Health Center and that some Missouri legislators consider him non-cooperative.

The governor was in Kansas City for the annual griddle dinner of the Kansas City Press Club.

Missouri Assembly Listened To Communist

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — About a dozen members of the Missouri General Assembly, each with a white carnation in his lapel, were among the 500 who packed an auditorium at the University of Missouri Wednesday night for a talk by a communist leader.

"I was happily surprised that the students seemed not to be taken in by any particular ideology that was presented for the forum," said Rep. Earl Bollinger of Festus.

The speaker was Claude Lightfoot, former vice chairman of the Communist Party's national committee for the United States.

His appearance was sponsored by the New Fabians, a campus discussion group. The 500 in the audience included students, faculty members and townspeople.

Steve Fuchs of St. Louis, president of the New Fabians, said his organization sponsored picketing demonstrations which led the university to change some of its regulations on student housing. He said the regulations embodied racial discrimination.

"Next year, we'll really change things around," he told the crowd. "Lightfoot speaking here proves a point — if you want something bad enough, you can get it."

Faculty sponsor of the New Fabians is Dr. William S. Allen, associate professor of history who was the object of a legislative attack in February by Rep. Bollinger and Rep. Howard Garrett, who also is a Jefferson County legislator and was with Bollinger Wednesday night.

They criticized the university for employing Dr. Allen and described him as a professed socialist.

Lightfoot said in his talk that the policies of the United States have made it the most-hated nation in the history of mankind.

He said if the United States ever adopts communism it will be a different variety than Russian communism or Chinese communism — a variety which would not eliminate the right of free speech.

Roof Falls In Supermarket, No One Killed

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP) "All of a sudden, it was like a bomb fell down," says the meat-section manager who was serving customers when the roof of a Brooklyn supermarket collapsed and rained tons of concrete slabs and plaster debris onto customers and clerks.

The manager, Sam Kinker, 61, and his four women customers fled through one of the broken windows.

Twenty-three persons—mostly women shoppers — were injured. Most of them were treated at hospitals. Four were admitted.

Police, firemen and residents of the neighborhood pulled several victims out from under chunks of concrete.

"It's a miracle no one was killed," Fire Commissioner Martin Scott said after inspecting the ruins of the Food Queen Supermarket in the Bensonhurst section Wednesday.

Mary Rossi, a shopkeeper on the other side of the street, said: "My God, it was awful. I was standing in front of my store when the roof seemed to blow up right in front of me.

"The windows blew into the street and women and children ran out."

Other witnesses told of seeing hysterical women and children running from the store.

About 50 customers — mostly women and children — and 13 employes were in the store when the roof collapsed.

Although police and fire officials thought no one was buried under the rubble, scores of men searched through the night with the aid of flood lights.

Two firemen working in the wreckage suffered minor injuries when hit by a falling girder.

Harold Birns, city commissioner of buildings, sent inspectors to investigate. Dist. Atty. Aaron Koota promised an investigation.

A disaster may have been averted by the fact that the building had two stores, and the force of the falling concrete and other debris was cushioned by the ceiling of the store. The roof was being waterproofed by workmen at the time. A small piece of the roof where the men were working did not collapse. They were not injured.

The building had been converted from a movie theater 12 years ago. The second floor housed offices.

WHAT A PIECE OF WORK IS MAN!

Does automation scare you? The whole process of human life from conception through gestation to birth is entirely automated. After birth, despite parental ignorance of the process, the child grows from seven to 70 pounds. Biological growth is entirely automated.

For at least 2 million years, men have been reproducing and multiplying on a little automated space ship called Earth, in an automated universe in which the entire process is so successfully predesigned that men did not even know that they were automated, regenerative passengers on a space ship, and were so naive as to think that they had invented their own success as they lived egocentrically on a seemingly static earth. — R. Javits Introduces New Investment

WASHINGTON AP - Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposed Wednesday creation of a federally chartered corporation based on the Communications Satellite Corp. idea - to channel private aid to developing nations.

This peace by investment corporation would be financed initially by the federal government and later by stock sales of $5 a share to small investors.

Javits said the corporation would be designed to expand by $2.5 billion the flow of U. S. private investment in projects in underdeveloped areas. The project, he added, might decrease foreign aid expenditures.

A bill he drafted for introduction to create the corporation will be co-sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.; and Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Javits said the federal government would provide initial capital funds totaling $50 million. The corporation, during its first six years of operation, could borrow from the Treasury another $300 million, not exceeding $60 million in any one year.

During this initial period, Javits said, the corporation would function as an agency of the federal government but when the original investment is retired the corporation would transform to private operation and management.

The initial investments would be repaid through the stock sales. No more than half the $2.5 billion in stock issues could be floated during the first six years of the corporation's life.

FINDING THE WAY

What's Behind the Facade?

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There is a strange and eerie fascination about many cities just now. Those of us who saw London or Frankfurt after the war are glad that this is a prelude to renewal instead of a postlude to a holocaust. Yet there is an emptiness that pervades some of these buildings as they stand stripped of their facades. It's as shocking as coming upon an undraped manikin in a store window or a city street with 12 elm trees missing.

This emptiness suggests our inability to deal with so many of our problems. We manage to hide it successfully for many years. We structure our lives in such a way that we have the facade of satisfaction. Strip it away with sudden leisure, catastrophe, or some unsuspected problem, and we're revealed as empty.

There is the parable of the house that was inhabited by one devil. That evil was ousted and then the house stood empty. Finally, seven devils came up, surveying this inviting void and took over. The admonition of the parable is that the last state is worse than the first.

It's the old danger of thinking that you've dealt with the entire cadre of tempters by handling one problem. That's an ancient story and a present reality. We structure our lives so neatly that when the patterns change, we're fair game for a whole variety of leering devils.

It's one thing to talk of this in terms of a building, and another thing to confront it in life itself. It's more than moving furniture into the building. The vitality in life must be in the very structure.

It's why the Psalmist referred to a good man as one who is like a tree planted by rivers of living water. There is an essential growth and an inner sturdiness. When the storms come, the winds may bend the branches but this well-rooted tree stands. It's another reason why we need men and women who are willing to commit themselves with a sense of maturing faith. They need to know something—Someone—greater than the "fun and games" way of life.

We live in days of continuing shocks. Some men, more than others, are subjected to tests of faith and courage every day. For most the unexpected occurs, and without warning men have to give a reason for the faith that is within them.

There is a kind of edginess in the air and a demanding testiness. Perhaps this is the stripping of the facade with the possibility of renewal.

Whatever the nature of the event, one thing is certain. We're revealed for what we are. The shock of the empty building, the naked manikin or the treeless street are as nothing compared to the sudden appearance of the empty spirit.

It was with good reason that in Scriptures the growing and maturing faith became sturdy trees and fruitful vines. "I am the vine, you are the branches," said Jesus. And he spoke of the fruitage of the spirit. It's the ability to withstand the winds, the earthquakes, or the sense of nothingness. It's the structure that's revealed when the facade is gone.

Age Limit Lowered For Calf Vaccinations

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.--A change in Missouri department of agriculture regulations concerning the age limits for calfhood vaccination against Brucellosis was announced today by Dexter Davis, commissioner of agriculture.

Effective immediately, the lower limit of official calfhood vaccination ages for both dairy and beef calves will be four months instead of five months.

Effective July 1, 1965, the upper limit of official calfhood vaccination ages for both dairy and beef calves will be through seven months (140 days maximum) instead of ten months.

Dr. George C. Stiles, state veterinarian, explained that the changes will bring state regulations in line with those of the United States department of agriculture and recommendations of the United States Livestock Sanitary Association. He said that the department is trying to eliminate vaccination titers now found in vaccinated animals at older age levels. "Research has proven that immunity is as good at four months as it is at eight," Dr. Stiles said.

He explained also that the department's veterinary division is now using market and private test samples for Brucellosis recertification work which will greatly reduce the amount of on-the-farm testing. He said this would permit the department to direct more of its attention toward dealing with infected animals on the farm.

The "sword of Damocles" was originated by Dionysus, the Greek god of fruitfulness and vegetation. When Damocles, one of his courtiers, spoke extravagantly of the happiness of his sovereign, Dionysus invited him to a sumptuous banquet, at which Damocles found himself seated under a naked sword suspended by a single hair, symbolizing the precariousness of the tyrant's fortune.

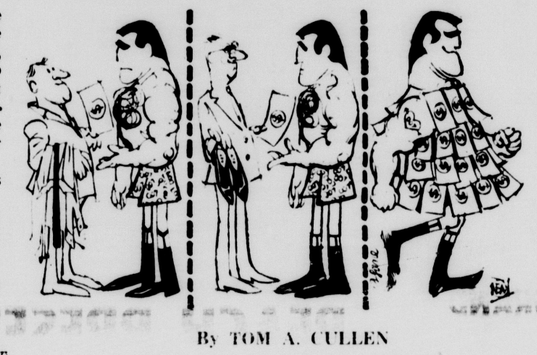
JAMES BOND UNDIES? WHAT NEXT, 007?



By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA) James Bond may not chew bubble gum, but his pajamas have secret pockets, and he sleeps between sheets embroidered with his 007 monogram.

Furthermore, he uses 007 shaving lotion guaranteed to "make any man dangerous" and he buys his girl friends "Secret Agent Baby Doll Nighties."

These are just a few of the products now being marketed under the James Bond label of 007 (the digits mean that Bond is authorized to kill) in one of the biggest merchandising drives of its kind ever launched.

From Paris to New York, stores are flooded with Bonded items as promoters cash in on the world-wide popularity of the Bond books and films ("Dr. No," "Goldfinger," "From Russia with Love").

The 007 line ranges from trench coats to toy sniper rifles, but does not include bubble gum. An application for a license to manufacture 007 bubble gum was turned down by Glidrose Productions, holders of the James Bond copyright, on the grounds that it might harm the Bond image.

"James Bond was no gum chewer," explains Miss Beryl Griffie-Williams, who probably knows more about this fictional hero than any other woman living. "Even if he was secretly addicted to the gum habit, he would never have chosen bubble gum," she firmly adds.

"Only the Rolls-Royce of chewing gums would have been good enough for James Bond."

Tall, white-haired and with green-rimmed glasses, Miss Griffie-Williams was secretary for four years to the late Ian Fleming, creator of James Bond. "Griffie," as she is known, is now employed in the merchandising end of the vast industry which has grown up around the tough guy secret agent.

Griffie also keeps a motherly eye on the James Bond fan clubs that have sprung up as far afield as Australia. Of the British clubs one is composed of Oxford University students who dine out occasionally in James Bond's honor. Another was founded in Whiteley Bay, Northumberland, by a diamond merchant and is limited to 15 members.

Of the countries that are marketing James Bond products the United States was fastest off the mark with a line of 007 toiletries that was an instant success when test-marketed last Christmas. Since then James Bond sport shirts, pajamas, swim suits and children's games have appeared on the American market.

Popular with Americans, too, is an 007 cocktail—gin or vodka with lemon juice, sugar, soda and two dashes of bitters.

Britain is about to tee off with James Bond shoes, ties and tiepins, vodka and golf equipment. The London Hilton has an 007 Bar where Bond-like characters meet their Mata Haris.

It is in France, however, that James Bond has scored his biggest bulls-eye. A special Bond Boutique featuring gold-colored mannequins was recently opened by the Galleries Lafayette, a leading Paris department store, and since then 3,500 stores throughout France have been pushing Bond-inspired goods.

The Paris display was built around the special Aston Martin with the concealed machine guns and the ejector seat, which was featured in "Goldfinger." On sale were James Bond trench coats, gold-bordered handkerchiefs, 007 cuff links and shirts accompanied by a special message to the purchaser on embossed paper headed "On Her Majesty's Secret Service."

French women are not being neglected in the Bond promotional drive. On sale in Paris are gold-colored underwear, shiny plastic raincoats and kinky red boots of the type worn by Bond's girl friends. Paris fashion ads exhort women to become "fit for Bond."

Nor have the children been forgotten. A current best seller with junior Bondsmen is a toy brief case complete with sniper rifle, plastic dagger and decoding machine.

Herodotus, Greek historian, described the practice of pipe smoking as early as the fifth century B.C.

Q—What is the meaning of the name Cordelia?

A—Cordelia is a Latin name meaning "warm-hearted."

Jetliner Crashes At Cairo, Kills 120 Persons

CAIRO AP -- A Pakistani jetliner inaugurating Karachi-to-London service crashed in desolate desert sands near Cairo Airport today, killed 120 of the 126 persons aboard.

It was the fifth worst air crash in aviation history.

Airline officials said one or more Americans perished in the flaming crash. Identification was not immediately available.

The airline said that of the 115 passengers, 93 were listed as Pakistanis, 12 Chinese and 10 other foreigners, whose nationalities were listed as U. S., Canadian, Lebanese and Egyptian.

The American-built jetliner's 11 crewmen died in the crash.

All six survivors were Pakistanis. Two were employes of the Pakistan International Airline and another was a Pakistani tourist official. Three of the men were reported in critical condition.

The flight was scheduled to pick up 52 additional passengers, all guests of the airline, at Cairo for the remainder of the flight to Geneva and London.

Capt. Akhtar Aly Khan, pilot of the four engine jet, reported engine trouble and a fire in the landing gear minutes before the crash.

The plane, a Boeing 720B, was inaugurating the airline's new Karachi to Longon route. Among the passengers were 62 newsmen, airline officials and other invited guests. The same plane had made three preinaugural flights over the route.

The big jet ploughed into a sand hill in a heavy ground fog as it prepared to make its final approach to the Cairo Airport. It crashed at 2:50 a.m. A West German airliner first sighted the wreckage, and Egyptian air force helicopters landed at the wreckage at dawn to pick up the six survivors.

Nearly impassable terrain delayed the arrival of other rescuers until six hours after the crash.

"There were no more survivors except for two baboons still alive beneath the wreckage," one person at the scene reported.

"It all happened so fast I didn't know what was going on," said one of the survivors, Galal Alkarimi, an employe of the airline.

"One minute I was sitting inside the plane with a safety belt fastened around my waist. The next thing I remember was hearing an explosion. When I came to, I found myself lying outside the wreckage."

"It was a horrible sight," said one of the rescue party, "an area of two square kilometers littered with what was left of the plane's wreckage, mutilated bodies, passenger bags, cameras and cigarette cases."

Airline officials said one of the Pakistani stewardesses who was killed had been planning to get married next week in Karachi.

Officials said the passenger list included 26 Pakistani newsmen. Only one of them survived, Aman Allah, police reporter of the Karachi Leader.

The wreckage was still burning when rescuers reached the scene. The desert sands in the immediate vicinity were blackened.

Some 4,000 pounds $11,200 was recovered from the scene.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1915

We are not going to say anything about the couple who hard-oiled their floor and couldn't get upstairs to their bedroom until the man in the moon hid his face so the couple could climb a ladder to the second story.

40 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1925

Sikeston will indeed be putting her best foot forward in about a week when the new Frisco station, combining passenger and freight offices, is opened.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bloomfield and son of San Antonio, Tex., returned to Sikeston Friday morning. Mr. Bloomfield has been in San Antonio for his health and his many friends are glad to see him return to Sikeston greatly improved.

Mrs. Ida Malone, who was a resident of Sikeston for 12 years and has many friends here, is one of a large class graduating from the Memphis General Hospital on June 8.

The sale of lots in the new high school addition met with remarkable success and indicated that Sikeston will probably have a number of beautiful homes in that part of town erected in the near future. According to Dan McCoy, sales manager for the new addition, the 80 lots will bring something like $20,000.

30 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1935

Mrs. Jewell Boswell, 24 years old, died of heart trouble Saturday afternoon at her home here.

Miss Elizabeth Vaughan Bowman and Narciase Edward Fuchs, Jr., were married Monday morning in the residence of the Rev. Thomas R. Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Noonan will move this week to Jefferson City, where Mr. Noonan is now affiliated with the state highway department.

Silas Richard Sitzes, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Sitzes, suffered serious burns about his left eye Tuesday when hot metal entered the eye while he was standing in the yard of his home on Sikes Avenue. The hot metal dropped from a Southeast Missouri Telephone Co., line on which employees were working and first hit the sidewalk, Mrs. Sitzes thinks, then bounced into Silas Richard's eye.

20 YEARS AGO
May 20, 1945

Margaret Ann Hatfield, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hatfield, completed her senior high school year at Ellisville, Miss., and was honored by being valedictorian of a class of 82 young people.

Edwin McAmis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. McAmis, appeared in a piano recital last Friday night at the home of his instructor, Mrs. O. T. Elder, on North Ranney Avenue. His sister, Ann, contributed a solo to the program.

Misses Sue Tanner and Alice Van Horne are members of the graduating class at William Woods College, Fulton, Mo., and will receive diplomas at commencement exercises to be held this weekend.

Malone Theatre, May 24-25, "For Whom The Bell Tolls" with Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman. Rex Theatre, "Jane Eyre" with Joan Fontaine and orson Welles.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

"There is a lad here who has five barley loaves and two fish; but what are they among so many?" (John 6:9,RSV)

PRAYER: Lord, we pray for faith that prompts us to entrust all we are and have to Thee. Help us to put on Thine altar our carefully kept so-called securities. In the Master's name. Amen.

Puerto Rico became a self-governing commonwealth under the U.S. flag on July 25, 1952.

USS TATTNALL (DDG-19) (FHTNC) May 7 -- Fireman Henry F. Hampton, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Hampton of 15 W. Castor St., Dexter, Mo., is serving aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Tattnall, operating out of Charleston, S.C.

His ship's mission includes anti-submarine detection and destruction and shore bombardment in support of U.S. Atlantic Fleet amphibious operations.

When deployed overseas, the Tattnall operates as a unit of the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean Sea.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (FHTNC) May 6 -- Radioman First Class Gale Hastings, USN, son of Henry E. Hastings of 415 Wilson St., Sikeston, Mo., and husband of the former Miss Lydia J. Plain of Sikeston, Mo., is attending the advanced Radioman School at Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

This school trains senior Navy petty officers in troubleshooting and repair of highly complex communications equipment.

Before entering the service in January, 1956, Hastings attended Sikeston High School.

House Passes Proposed Constitutional Amendment

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- The House today passed a constitutional amendment proposal that would lower the required vote majority on general obligation bond issues to 60 per cent. The requirement now is two-thirds.

The vote sending the measure to the Senate was 98-52.

Sponsors said lowering the majority required would allow schools and other governmental subdivisions to progress. Many needed bond issues, they said, now fail by small margins.

But opponents said the two-thirds majority should be retained to protect the public from being gouged by costly bond issues.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a proposed amendment to set the limit of school taxation throughout the state at $1.50 on the $100 assessed valuation without a vote of the people. Now the limits are 98 cents in St. Louis city and $1 in the rest of the state.

Also sent to the Senate was a bill that would give the director of corrections a pay boost of $3,000, to a new top of $18,000.
